Spaced out is the 2nd book in the MBA series. The commander Nina goes missing, and no one can find her. Could it be another murder? Or did she die outside in the wastes of space? Being the best (and only) detective on the MBA, Dashiell goes out to find Nina. And in the meanwhile, the family of bullies is really starting to get on Dash's nerves. And finally. Dash has to help his alien friend Zan Perfonic. Will he be able to solve the mystery?

Spaced out is a good book, but not a great book. The first book was better, and the ending to this book wasn't very satisfying compared to MBA 1. However it is still worth reading, and the 3rd book is much better. But the ending to the family of bullies is very funny and satisfying, although not the main issue. Also it is nice to see how the author portrays aliens other than the stereotypical green blobs. The ending was somewhat anticlimactic compared to other Stuart Gibbs books.

Same as the first, I would recommend this book to anyone over 4th grade. There is nothing graphic, other than some potty humor. It's also a pretty easy book and enjoyable (but not as good as the first).
