The Magic Tree House Series is a series of books about a brother and a sister, Jack and Annie, who stumble upon a magical tree house in one of their daily adventures. This tree house is filled with old books about history. If these books are read, the magic tree house spins and takes them back into time where the book takes place. Throughout the series, Jack and Annie travel everywhere throughout time. For example, the travel to ancient Egypt, to the prehistoric Dinosaurs and to medieval Camelot. In each one of their adventures they encounter many issues that must be taken care of some even life threatening. Jack and Annie go everywhere throughout time to tackle many issues and learn a thing or two about history.

I highly recommend this series to early readers from grades 1st to 5th. This series contains many educational aspects about history and provides a better understanding about history for younger children. One of the main things I liked about this series was its thrilling adventures that keeps you at the edge of your seat and keeps you reading. This is great to get your kids to start reading more often due to the great amount of entertainment a child can receive from this book. It is a great gateway for a child to begin reading and a great way to teach your child about history.

Overall this is a great read for children in grade school and I highly recommend getting this series for a gift because even though they might be disappointed you got them books, in the end they will be glued to the series for as long as they can. This is also a great read to go grab at the library or purchase yourself and get into.

Other books I recommend reading after you have read this: Mitch and Amy, Goosebumps, Stuart goes to school
