The book, The Shadow Project, by Herbie Brennan was a phenomenal read. It was compelling from the beginning to the end. The beginning of the book was very mysterious. It started off with the main character, Danny Lipman prowling around the streets of London looking to steal money and valuables to provide for his grandma and himself. He then stumbles upon a high tech building where the American Government has a setup a psychic spy program. This is when the story turns very bold and adventurous.

This books also mixes true facts with fantasy to make a book that makes you think if the story could be true. It also involves mind games which made the story much more unforgettable. This was an awesome book. I cannot find any flaws in it. It has a very fast paced story line and is perfect form a person who likes adventure books.

The characters in the story are well developed and the author deserves a round of applause for such a gripping book. It is an adventurous book with a hint of humor and romance. I actually read it three times in two weeks and could not put it down on the first time through. The book was amazing and I would recommend this book for teens.
