

Where's their awareness?

We light-up their path. Are they aware?

Perhaps, most of us, aren't aware

Where's their appreciation?

Where's the honoring of Christianity for protecting them?

Wherefore, for many people who spawned from Christian heritage, notwithstanding the fact they no-longer practice the religion, will soon be implementing their recompense to the Christ.

The conclusion of 'philosophy of the Info-Age' featured an important fact. This authenticity defined the two main weapons within our arsenal of defense for U.S.A; European, and South American citizens against the New World Luciferian Order peculiarizing allowed pedophilia and other forms of child-abuse.

One of two primary weapons are Christianity, something they've been seemingly endeavoring to destroy since the dawn of its creation.

Included within the United States, we retain another weapon of uppermost caliber. This would be none-other than the rights to gun-ownership. This element of our protection has recently undergone relentless attacks. Our enemy disguising these vile attempts to withdraw our freedoms by using media coverage to portray these assaults as random 'lone-gunmen' shootings. Furthermore, the Tamerlan brothers and other terrorists supposedly-owned N.R.A. books inside their households which led them to discover an availability of ammunition suitable for explosives and other further knowledge of violence. (yeah, nice try!)

As far as, the Christian religion's protection of the non-Christian (or non-acting Christians) population, this isn't the first time in history we witness this occurrence. Nor, is this the first time Christianity wasn't thanked and/or praised by the non-Christians. Correspondingly, the non-Christian population has yet to acknowledge this main defense mechanism which they've benefitted from greatly, and probably will never arrive at this desistance.

Wherefore, we now arrive at another man in history who'd become appalled in the non-Christians lack of respect for the protections bestowed upon them from the Christ, and lack of remorse for their own contributing behavior. This man was Saint Augustine of Hippo.

St. Augustine wrote denouncing the pagan's behaviors after the West-Gothic King Alaric and his barbarian hordes sacked the city of Rome. Alike the time when the Mongolians arrived on Rome's doorstep, the Bishop of Rome (the Pope) displayed his categorical mindset of saving others in need. He left the safeguard of the city's walls to walk-out to meet the invading enemy for peace talks; for 'twas unequivocal King Alaric's army would gain entry. Although, being Arian Christians, a form of Christianity closely being replicated by modern Jehovah Witness's, King Alaric gave orders to spare the Christians within Rome; out of his respect for Jesus Christ.

Below displays just a small sample of the internal thoughts of St. Augustine, post-sacking of Rome. His thoughts are subsequent of the pagan's thoughts, words, actions, behavior and overall treatment of the Christians after the invasion.

The words of St. Augustine of Hippo:

“Are not those very Romans, who were spared by the barbarians through their respect for Christ, become enemies to the name of Christ? The reliquaries of the martyrs and the churches of the apostles bear witness to this; for in the sack of the city they were open sanctuary for all who fled to them, whether Christian or Pagan. To their very threshold the blood-thirsty enemy raged; there his murderous fury owned a limit. Thither did such of the enemy as had any pity convey those to whom they had given quarter, lest any less mercifully disposed might fall upon them. And, indeed, when even those murderers who everywhere else showed themselves pitiless came to those spots where that was forbidden which the license of war permitted in every other place, their furious rage for slaughter was bridled, and their eagerness to take prisoners was quenched.

If, then, Virgil says that the gods were such as these, and were conquered, and that when conquered they could not escape except under the protection of a man, what a madness is it to suppose that Rome had been wisely entrusted to these guardians, and could not have been taken unless it had lost them! Indeed, to worship conquered gods as protectors and champions, what is this but to worship, not good divinities, but evil omens?<sup>42</sup>

Meanwhile I will briefly, and to the best of my ability, explain what I meant to say about these ungrateful men who blasphemously impute to Christ the calamities which they deservedly suffer in consequence of their own wicked ways, while that which is for Christ's sake spared them in spite of their wickedness they do not even take the trouble to notice; and in their mad and blasphemous insolence, they use against His name those very lips wherewith they falsely claimed that same name that their lives might be spared.”
