

In response to the video viewed in class...

Dr. Wells was intelligent and a solid public speaker, on terms of quality and discourse. Nevertheless, I'll give you an example which could come from someone, because there's so many small things even the non-racist person will identify when hearing another speak on this fragile topic. When referring to all races getting along, he immediately afterwards references this united group then coming together and saying, "black lives matter." While I typically wouldn't analyze his comment any further, this alone could be considered prejudice. How does he expect other ethnic groups to focus on accepting the others more openly, when he himself is focusing more on his own people?

My point here being that although intrigued by this man's idea, there's two sides of each equation. I certainly comprehend where he believes the foundation of his idea lies. On the contrary, we must stress the need to solve arguments occurring when another state's a racist claim. I firmly believe in America, while dismissing any attention being delivered upon our current problematic issues concerning racism, and acknowledging where the primal racist issues lies, black hate for white people; additionally, the white populations decision, to not except their stereotypical claimed behaviors. With a multiplicity of races among the states of America, the main issue of concern revolves almost entirely with the black population. Blacks are now encouraged to display their racists thoughts publicly (usually through Hollywood) towards the white community. They could get away with writing a completely one-sided paper on this topic at hand, without consisting of any practical actions designed towards eliminating this issue, and then be rewarded for their efforts afterwards!

I'll now attack the main issues of concern which should be challenged, being the cause of which I disagree with Wells. Unsuspectedly, my theory will dispel my own prejudices forward to be witnessed, however, my internal thoughts are based on, and backed-up with presented facts. Correspondingly, being positioned above all myth, I blissfully envision a world where racism is altogether itself, established as a part of history without being recognized as a present element of our society.

I believe it's become paramount that we educate all Americans on the true sociology of our individual races, as well as, being united Americans. Afterwards, we should albeit referred to none-other than Americans when defining our race. Notwithstanding, people need to appreciate what other people have accomplished for them, whether originally planned-out by ancestry or a pleasant result born from their actions. Some may disagree with the latter comment, but this doesn't entail not holding people responsible for their poor intentions when recording history. Although, it would be far more productive to establish and celebrate the positives which are taking place presently. This is basic psychology: focus on the good, not the bad. Altogether, we must always appreciate and acknowledged nothing, except for that of the truth. I'll explain exactly what I mean to install socially, after a few noticeable points, for observation.

With the Fed catapulting the Jewish population, and their strong unity continually facilitating each-other into positions of power in which control most racist issues, they've collectively contributed to raising the black-problem in America

The NAACP is not an organization ran by black people as the media portrays, although occasionally they bring-in a black spokesperson (cover-man, similar to Lenin) such as Al Sharpton; who cares less about black lives, and more about selling out on the basis of which he'll obtain millions of dollars. There were zero African-Americans involved, in the commencement of this organization. It's a 99% Jewish ran organization, featuring 100% Jewish lawyers. The goal is to make African-Americans dislike (or hate) white people for two main reasons. Firstly, to destroy the people's unity, disallowing us to become in-conversant to the truth, and fight back against the media and government takeover. Secondly, to scam the American worker out of a significant portion of their hard-earned paychecks. Then have these funds go towards, almost exclusively, Jewish people and their organizations; except for the miniscule amount - of maybe 1 or 2% which may actually go towards the black community. This powerful organization has always promoted the vision of harsh treatment by whites towards blacks. This has undoubtedly been their goal since the early 20th century, and is definitely not designed to help deplete racism, but only to inspire the augmentation of racism. This organization, and many others likewise, are considered to me as a despondent part of our history; a disheartening part of our history.

One third, of all the white Europeans in the 13 colonies were slaves. The first slaves in America were whites. (and the last to be slaves). These servants would typically have freedom contracts – I will transport you for free, into the New World, and you'll remain my servant for seven yrs. The reality for these servant, however, was nowhere to go afterwards, most just remained servants to survive, and a high majority of servants remain slaves until they eventually died from the lifestyle.

African Americans actually possessed state laws designed to relieve them from their service. Many states down south would grant them absolute freedom at age 31. Not all blacks in the south were slaves at any time. Now of course they had nowhere to go find work at descent pay to support their families, and most simply chose to remain a slave. Nonetheless, the white slaves had nowhere to go neither, and went down in our history as the first large population of slaves in the U.S. The simple point here is our history has been rewritten, and we now teach our children a different history than is the truth. The blacks were also allowed to have women and increase their numbers with many children.

Approximately 11 million African slaves were transported across the Atlantic to the New World. Less than 4 million would come to halt in the United States. The treatment of blacks in Brazil is presently to a great degree worse in nature, than that of our inherent country. Starting right out with the fact their national emancipation to end slavery was later than the U.S. For the Africans who luckily ended up in the U.S. which has now become a futuristic intelligent alien world, or at least the original slaves from Africa would unequivocally thought so. If they knew what their grand-children, and great-great grand-children, etcetera, were to inherit by themselves by coming here as slaves, then I would assuredly hope they would've said yes to slavery in North America. Choosing it over remaining in Africa where death awaits them, because they were all label to be slaves, or to be exterminated by their own people in Africa. The moment they stepped on those unforgiving slave ship, an arduous struggle to stay alive was commenced. Nonetheless, at this point their lives were spared if they could only endure more harsh treatment and unthinkable living conditions.

My ancestors spent many more centuries of slavery, and unimaginable warfare to succeed myself into the current position of which I now reside. They need to be honored for battling through monumental obstacles, also enduring punishing treatment, and surviving to preserve the race so I now have a life. As we look at the history of the world, the Holy Land, the Hittites, Slavs, Norsemen, to Anglo-Saxons, we must analyze the degree of all's suffering and accomplishments. This is why so much negative attention to U.S. slavery is absurd. Yes, I hate the Merchants and slave-owners treatment as much as anyone; it makes me sick to discuss their behavior. Nobody right now, in this present day is a slave, that's all in the past, so let's focus our goals and attention on the positive.

Never in the complete history of mankind, has an ethnic group of people ever advanced so much with such little hardship and suffering to go through. Actually, the blacks should be laughing at us for coming along, stealing everything from us, and now living among us. Then the whites should laugh and say, "you bastards, but we love ya for enriching our culture. It would be awfully boring without ya."

In Africa they had no written language or proper eating utensils; this is the truth. Now blacks walk around using cellular phones, sending invisible signals to a satellite in outer-space, then returning to acquire a nearby phone tower, and finally these invisible signals enter their phones and ears – all within the matter of seconds!

A few generations of slavery, in the best part of the world to be a slave, was all they needed to now have such enlightening opportunities. Slavery across the Atlantic was a terrible thing when the Spanish and Portuguese began bringing large numbers across. We shouldn't ever glorify slavery when speaking of history. Then again, we should never be beating it in the heads of blacks that modern white people owe them anything.

During the 18th century many whites were becoming captives and forced into slavery throughout the Ottoman Empire. The famous U.S.S. Constitution which resides as part of the Freedom Trail in Boston which defeated the British in the War of 1812, was not constructed to fight the British. It was built the decade before to engage in the Barbary Wars, in the Mediterranean where many white Americans were forced into slavery. After the Emancipation Proclamation to free the blacks in the states, white Americans remained slaves in Northern Africa all the way up to the early 20th century.

The culmination of this paper is that there's absolutely no need whatsoever, for the issue African American slavery to be a typical topic of concern in modern times. Yet it remains the main force of aggression between blacks and whites, which unfortunately only contributes to everlasting racist comments, coming from both sides of the equation.

When slavery is mentioned:

The white's should show remorse and honor the incredible torment put unjustifiably on the African slaves.

The blacks should honor the hundreds-of-thousands of white soldiers who gave their lives, destroying their families in the process, to conquer the south and free all black men.

Conclusion, race's shouldn't be selfish when researching the past.

The truth about slavery should be taught properly.

Slavery should be a subject very seldom spoke of in modern times.

After the privatization of our (misleadingly named) Federal Reserve, the Jews seeking domination over the media, now forced new laws helping their cause. Unlike the rest of the world which views mainly world news events on a daily occurrence, the U.S. withholds any news attempting to be imported from outside the states. Unless, this news is approved by a special wing of our government which targets anything anti-Semitic, a revised (true) version of U.S. history or current events, and anything which disclosures their use of media for propaganda. . They've assumed control over all school-system text books. Indeed, this now includes Catholic schools where the terms B.C. and A.D; meaning the year of our Lord, have been forcibly removed. (B.C.E. / C.E.). Not to mention, the endless unequivocally phony organizations all designed to make the public hear the complaints of blacks, make whites out to be the instigators, (as far as, overall in history), while the black communities remains receiving the 'shaft' from these organizations. Thus, the Jews seeking funds to aid the blacks (which mostly become stolen from our paychecks in form of taxes) simply retain any funds accumulated with the phony organization, In Christian terms this undoubtedly is defined as stealing. Of 'course, they fail to view it a such. They may privately acknowledge ripping off the blacks they made promises too. (maybe). They may even be happy they scammed the working class into using their tax money to acquire funds for the organization. Yes, they may be proud the earned more profit for their friends the Federal Reserve. Nevertheless, what they fail to comprehend as part of their genetic make-up is the fact that the organization was commenced with prior knowledge of its deceit and aim to use others. The entire operation was nothing more than theft. There isn't noble actions involved here ad they should be embarrassed and feel as no more than untruthful thieves, not productive workers earning an income while contributing to society, a community, a company; anything? The only concern involved is their own profit, which certainly isn't Christian, but okay they can try to make as much money for themselves as they so desire, but accomplished through a method of stealing? *it's time for the 45th episode to occur
