

GREASE Sing-Along Party

The Kansas State Council held a “Grease Sing-Along Party” as their Friday night mixer at state convention in May. State St. Jude Coordinator Suzy Winters explains, “We had a FABULOUS time and raised over $13,000 for St. Jude at this event. Brian and Mallory, Kansas TV personalities, guest hosted our event right at the convention hotel. We all came in 50’s costumes, poodle skirts, saddle shoes, rolled-sleeve t-shirts, and leather jackets, it was a BALL! Everyone danced, enjoyed hearing from our local St. Jude patient, and snapped up some great giveaways and auction items. We solicited donations from local businesses and got everything from chocolate delights to a half-carat diamond. Entrance to the event was a donation to the hospital, and some of the businesses donated cash to the hospital as well as prizes. Anyone can do this in their town, people of any age would love it, and we created a Facebook event page complete with a ‘how to do this event’ video so other friends and chapters can have fun and raise big bucks for the St. Jude kids too. While we did this first one right at convention, we plan to do events like this in Kansas as “invite the public” events to meet people to welcome as members to ESA.”

Visit www.facebook.com and search “Kansas ESA Grease Sing-Along Party” to view the video and find more information about hosting this event or contact ESA HQ for more details.

The props/photo booth was among the most popular activities at the GREASE sing-along in Kansas

ALSAC/St. Jude representatives and a patient family brought the importance of the cause home to everyone in attendance.

The "Pink Ladies" rockin' it at the GREASE Sing-Along event