

Hedgehog Groups:

There are many Facebook groups for hedgehog owners. We love scrolling through them to see what is going on in the hedgehog community. They are great places to ask questions and to learn new things. And of course show off your quill kids. Some are US based, along with some UK based. So you can get a broad idea of what works for different people. A day is not full-filled without learning something new. Take a look at them, you will have lots of fun and maybe meet people that live close by.
