

2008: Coogee (Sydney), Australia

February 29, 4 am in the morning
Source: <http://theozonefiles.blogspot.com>

Reconstruction of the incident on the site

At this seaside suburb a man walking down the street observed a flash of light. In that direction he saw a large spherical shaped object standing on the T intersection. He could see a little man looking out of a window on the top of the object.

The witness was so frightened to retreat behind a larger electrical signal box. The being appeared to move a lever, and a “shutter” came down over the window area, then the object took off at tremendous speed at about an angle of about 45 degree.

A white circle was left on the surface of the road by the craft and one nearby tree (at least) appeared to have been burnt. The witness claimed he felt heat coming from the object. The duration of the incident was about 5 minutes. A couple of days later the road surface was repaired by order of the local council since it is a very busy route mainly during the day.

Reliability evaluation:
medium
insufficient info; details missing; one witness only

1993: Narre Warren North, Australia

August 8, early hours at the break of day
Source: The Oz Files (issued on Feb 1, 2016)
Who is Victorian 'abductee' Kelly Cahill and what did she see in Narre Warren?
by Daniella Miletic

Ms Cahill on the site of the incident, in 2001

The incident begins in Narre Warren North with an alleged UFO sighting by a woman who has since used the pseudonym Kelly Cahill to protect her privacy

During the early hours of August 8, 1993, Cahill and her husband, Andrew, were driving home from a friend's house in the foothills of the Dandenong Ranges when she saw what looked like an airship with a ring of orange headlights hovering over the road ahead.

As they approached the "blimp", Ms Cahill was blinded by light before later waking up in the car, feeling strangely relaxed.

"What I saw to me was definitely a UFO, there was no doubt about it whatsoever," she told Today Tonight at the time.

Ms Cahill said that when the couple returned home, they realized an hour had been lost. Then she discovered she had a triangular mark near her navel. According to some reports, she also unexpectedly began menstruating and was treated in hospital for a womb infection.

Some weeks later the mother of three, who was 27 at the time, recalled more details about that night - including getting out of the car and being abducted.

After getting out of the car to see the strange light in a field she said she saw two other cars also stop to investigate what she believes was a UFO.

"There was orange lights and this blue stuff underneath," she said in one interview. "It was like science fiction coming to life."

Then Ms Cahill remembers seeing a number of tall, skinny black figures with bulging red eyes appear in front of the UFO and approach them.

She started screaming. "I felt this blow to my stomach and went flying in the air and I heard my husband say let go of me and this male voice that said, 'I mean you no harm!...' " she told Today Tonight.

She said she was terrified and thought she was going to die.

Ms Cahill later wrote a book about the experience, Encounter: The True Story, and became a keynote speaker at UFO conferences.

When she appeared on Today Tonight ahead of the now out-of-print book's release, she said at first she thought she was mentally ill for believing what she had seen.

She said she got a brain scan after the incident. "I know I look ridiculous I'm not an unintelligent woman" she said.

"I know that my story sounds ridiculous, but that's what happened. And there, there is physical evidence out there, there were marks out on the field, there were marks on our body, something went on."

What UFO researchers find compelling about this case is the presence of independent witnesses, who have yet to be interviewed by mainstream media.

According to interviews with Ms Cahill, strangers in two other cars that pulled up beside the Belgrave-Hallam Rd to see the UFO carried similar wounds.

It is believed three people in another car say they saw the same UFO, creating images of the aircraft they saw which looked similar to Ms Cahill's sketches.

These witnesses were contacted by UFO researchers and, according to reports, two women later recalled (under hypnosis) being taken aboard some kind of object and reported similar markings on their bodies near their navel.

Ms Cahill interview of 1993

After the experience, Ms Cahill says she had a number of lifelike dreams connected with that evening. In one dream, she said she was in a small room with an alien in front of her.

Since the 1990s, Ms Cahill's story has faded from public knowledge and few - with the exception of Agent Mulder and Mr O'Malley of the famous TV fiction X Files - would remember the sighting now at all.

Reliability evaluation:

hoax/false

pseudonym; corroborating evidence source never presented; no remarks, no traces-samples presented; husband Andrew never heard for supporting her wife

