

1972: Alley Hill suburb, Barbados Islands

Unknown date, evening round 7 pm
Source: letter of the witness without date

The Bowling Alley Hill, site of the sighting

"I was vacationing in Barbados (Caribbean) in 1972, and while sitting by the beach not far from National Trust, after the Sunday Hikes at Bowling Alley Hill, I noticed an orange/red light which I thought was an aircraft. However as it got closer, I decided it was an alien object. As it got closer to me it suddenly stopped, at which time it appeared to be about 2 feet in diameter. It stayed in that position for about 2 or 3 minutes and then it suddenly dropped. I figured about 20 feet. It stayed in this position for about 3 minutes, then it suddenly took off to my left and disappeared. No witness, and I never mentioned it except to my wife only. Some years later while watching a TV program, I saw the same thing which I had seen.

Reliability evaluation:

low

possible touristic craft or model; one witness only

