Visitors to last year's show and art sale study the many works from local artists.

Art show, sale set for Star Harbor Feb. 21

Special to The Monitor

STAR HARBOR—Communicating with water and pigment may seem unusual, but not to the members of Star Harbor Watercolor Society. They embrace the American artist Edward Hopper's statement: "If you could say it in words, there would be no reason to paint."

Organized eleven years ago, this group never dreamed their society would be known in the North Texas art scene or that members would win awards for their artwork and representation in prestigious juried art exhibitions.

Sunday, Feb. 21 marks the society's annual "For the Love of Art Show and Sale."

The exhibition features a unique variety of artistic style, color, subject matter, and technique—all in original watercolor artwork.

Artists will be present to meet those who attend the show. This is a free admission event complete with delicious refreshments (also free!) and a live painting demonstration held from 1-5 p.m. at the City Hall Building, located at 99 Sunset Blvd., in Star Harbor, TX 75148.

For additional information, call (903) 451-4016 or visit the society's website at www.starharborws.org.
