

Name: _____

The Fir Tree by Hans Christian Andersen

1. We've read another story by this same author. Do you remember what it was?
2. Why was the little fir tree dissatisfied (not satisfied) living in the forest with the animals and the other trees?
3. What is the point of the story? Is it meant to teach a lesson? Explain.
4. The fir tree did not appreciate the nice quiet life he led in the forest; he wanted something different and more exciting. Have you ever wanted something new, but when you got it you realized that you actually preferred what you had had before. Or maybe you expected something to be much better than it turned out to be. Explain.