

Street Art

If you go for a walk with your family, don't forget to take your camera or phone. You may see an object in the street that reminds you of something and could take a picture to work on at home. If not, you could use images from the internet.

If you have access to a printer and paints, print off a picture of any everyday object and draw/paint on top of it to create new characters or scenes. Below are some examples of great street art.
