“Create in me a clean heart, O God, and put a new and right spirit within me.”

Psalm 51:10

Last month after the snow had melted and temperatures began to get warmer, something significant happened to me. My ‘honey-do list’ became a little longer. Amber decided it would be a good thing for me to go ahead and do some pressure washing at the house. I tried my usual excuse of needing to wait until the pollen comes and falls; but as usual that excuse did not work. So on Friday, February 13th I spent the day pressure washing gutters, portions of the house, and the front porch. While pressure washing the front porch and watching with every swiping pass of highly pressurized water, I noticed the distinguishing lines of what had been cleaned and what had not.

As I continued this for hours on that day, I began to recite the above psalm in my mind and heart. “Create in me a clean heart, O God, and put a new and right spirit within me.” Then I remember saying to God, God I need you to do to my heart what I am doing to this porch, wash me and make me clean. I remember meditating on the truth that in my life, I have distinguishing lines of what is clean and what needs to be cleaned. I remember that when I finished pressure washing the porch that all of it was clean and how I desire for my life to be the same. Much like in John 13 when Jesus washed the feet of his disciples. When Jesus arrived to Peter, Peter said, “You will never wash my feet.” Jesus answered, “Unless I wash you, you have no share with me.” Then Peter said to Jesus, “Lord, not my feet only but also my hands and my head!”

As we continue in the season of Lent, that is my prayer this season. Lord, wash all of me and make me clean. Psalm 51 is a psalm written by David after his adulterous relationship with Bathsheba. Psalm 51 is David’s prayer of repentance for cleansing and forgiveness of the sin in his life. Lent invites us all to take notice of the distinguishing lines of what is clean and what needs to be cleaned in our lives. How different would our lives look, if we invited God to wash our lives clean of all the dirt and grime that are not of the way of Jesus?

Lenten Pilgrimage

Hello St. Mark Family!

You know, March always feels like a turning point. The gray of winter begins to give way to warmer afternoons. The sun hangs around a little longer. There are hints of green pushing up through the soil. And yet, in the life of the Church, we are still walking through Lent. It is a season that invites us to slow down, to reflect, to repent, to examine our hearts. It is a season that reminds us of our need for Jesus.

Lent is often associated with what we give up. We give up sweets. We give up social media. We give up distractions. And all of that can be meaningful. But I have been thinking lately that Lent is not only about what we surrender; it is also about what we see. When we slow down enough, we start to notice things. We notice how much we have. We notice who is walking beside us. We notice the quiet faithfulness of God.

In Luke 17, Jesus heals ten men who are suffering from leprosy. All ten are healed. But only one comes back. Only one turns around. Only one falls at Jesus' feet and says thank you. And Jesus asks the haunting question, "Were not all ten cleansed? Where are the other nine?" (Luke 17:17).

Gratitude, it seems, is not automatic. It is intentional. Lent gives us the space to be intentional. Psalm 103 begins with these words: "Bless the Eternal One, O my soul; bless the Eternal's holy name. Bless the Eternal One, O my soul; do not forget all God's blessings." The psalmist understands something we often forget. We forget the blessings. Not because we are bad people, but because we are busy people. Lent slows us down long enough to remember.

It reminds us to be grateful for family; for the spouse who walks with us through ordinary days; for children who fill our homes with noise and life; for parents and grandparents who shaped us. It reminds us to be grateful for friends; for those people we can call when life feels heavy; for the laughter shared around dinner tables and on front porches. It reminds us to be grateful for our church family; for the voices lifted in worship; for hands that serve quietly behind the scenes; for prayers whispered on our behalf when we do not even know we need them. It reminds us to be grateful for community. For neighbors. For teachers. For coaches. For first responders. For people who make our town feel like home.

And yes, even for the sunshine. There is something holy about stepping outside on one of these warmer March afternoons, feeling the sun on your face, and remembering that winter does not last forever. There is something deeply theological about noticing the changing seasons. Lamentations 3:22-23 says, "The faithful love of the Eternal never ends; God's mercies never cease. Great is Your faithfulness; Your mercies begin afresh each morning." Every sunrise is a reminder that God is still faithful.

That is a Lenten truth. Because Lent ultimately leads us to the cross. And when we stand at the cross, gratitude becomes unavoidable. We are reminded that "while we were still sinners, the Jesus died for us" (Romans 5:8). We are reminded that grace is not earned. It is given. We are reminded that salvation is not something we achieve. It is something we receive. Gratitude flows from grace.

So maybe this Lent, alongside whatever you may be giving up, you might consider adding something. Add a moment of thanksgiving before your feet hit the floor each morning. Add a habit of naming three things you are grateful for before you go to bed at night. Add a prayer of thanks in the middle of an ordinary day. Add a pause in the sunshine to simply say, "Thank You, Lord." First Thessalonians 5:16-18 says, "Celebrate always. Pray constantly. Give thanks to God no matter what circumstances you find yourself in. This is God's will for all of you in Jesus the Anointed." Notice that it does not say give thanks only when it is easy. It says give thanks in all circumstances.

Lent is not always easy. It is reflective. It is honest. It sometimes asks us to confront things we would rather ignore. But even in that honesty, there is grace. Even in repentance, there is mercy. Even in self-examination, there is hope. And for that, we can be thankful. As we continue walking through this season together, my prayer is that our hearts would be shaped not only by sacrifice, but by gratitude. That we would become people who turn around like the one healed man; people who remember to say thank you; people who notice the blessings that surround us every single day. Because gratitude does not belong to November alone. It belongs to every sunrise, every warm afternoon, every shared meal, every worship service, every quiet prayer, every reminder that we are loved by a faithful God. And that is something worth giving thanks for. So, let's stop being offended by everything and start being grateful for all things.

I hope you have a wonderful March and I look forward to seeing YOU at CHURCH! BRING A FRIEND!

Yellow symbolizes the radiance of Christ. Red embodies the essence of the home, while orange, when blended, signifies the harmonious collaboration between home and church in nurturing your child's faith. It serves as the bridge that unites these two important aspects. Your child is warmly welcomed to be a Bridge Kid.

GIFTS PASSION AND PURPOSE

March 15

We're raising an important question with students: how can I use the talents God gave me to have a positive impact on the world? Our hope is that students will have the chance to explore the best intersection of their gifts, passion, and purpose, and learn that their God-given talent is an expression of their being, not the definition of their being.

The Kids' World Corner

Our little learners have been busy growing, exploring, and sharing kindness every day! We were thankful to continue serving families in our community and wanted to share a sweet update from our corner of the church.

This past Friday we hosted our very first Parents Night Out Fundraiser. It was a huge hit that allowed our Moms & Dads to enjoy a night out on the town! The evening was filled with laughter, games, crafts, and lots of smiles! The children enjoyed a yummy dinner, fun activities, and special time together in a safe and joyful environment.

It was a wonderful night for our enrolled Kids World families, and we are so grateful for the opportunity to host events that support both our kiddos and our center.

Thank you for allowing us to be part of the church community and for your continued encouragement and prayers.

The Chancel Choir of St. Mark to present the Gospel Mass by Robert Ray (1946-2022)

“Addressing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody to the Lord with your heart.”
Ephesians 5:19

Set aside March 15th to experience the music of the Gospel Mass. Forty seven years ago Robert Ray, a composer, conductor and music educator, sat down to write an experimental work for what he thought would be a one time performance. He never dreamed it would go beyond that first performance. He packed the music in storage and went on with his life at the University of Illinois-Urbana. Several years later a friend asked to use the Mass in a high school concert and that collaboration brought him to the attention of Hal Leonard Publishing and the rest is history.

The work is now preformed world wide. I first became acquainted with Robert Ray and this work many years ago in San Diego (while I was still teaching) and attending the ACDA conference. Experiencing this work with the students was incredible so naturally I wanted all of my students back home to have the same experience.

For background - the Mass is the central act of divine worship in the Catholic Church. The mass is also a classical musical form of composition that sets the invariable portion of the Eucharist liturgy to music. Think J.S. Bach’s Mass in B Minor or Mozarts’s Requiem. “God controls everything I do” says Ray. “It was written in about a two week period. The hard part for me was not being a formally trained composer. The creativity was a result of divine inspiration. He was working with me.”

Robert Ray did not grow up Catholic rather he grew up in the African Methodist Episcopal Church so his music is heavily influenced by that church’s music. Ray’s Mass has gospel as its framework yet keeps the classic text of the Mass. It has the improvisational feel of gospel while retaining the classic form. I have taught and conducted this work multiple times to different groups and the presentation / interpretation is never the same. That’s the magic of this work. The individual choirs and or solos take on their own personalities which makes it so interesting for the conductor.

As I said previously the Gospel Mass is based on the Catholic Mass which is six movements:

- KYRIE - Lord have mercy;
- GLORIA - Glory to God in the Highest;
- CREDO - I believe in God;
- ACCLAMATION - Hallelujah praise the Lord;
- SANCTUS - Holy, Holy Lord God Of Hosts
- AGNUS DEI - Lamb of God

The choir, along with guest musicians, will incorporate all the music of the Gospel Mass through out our regular service format. This is music to be experienced, physically, emotionally and spiritually. Dance, clap and sing along if you like. I was once told that in the African American church there is no such thing as an observer, all are participants. So participate at will. Blessings to all and make a joyful noise unto the Lord.
