Her academic journey has been marked by remarkable accomplishments, including graduating with honors as the Salutatorian of Lincoln High School and receiving numerous scholarships, such as the Temple-Inland Foundation Award, The American Legion Silver Scholastic Award, and the Alabama A&M Full Tuition Academic Scholarship Award, to name a few. Most notably, she was also chosen as the first USDA 1890 National Scholar for Alabama A&M University.

Dr. Hill's exceptional academic performance continued through her undergraduate and graduate studies. She graduated cum laude from A&M and earned the USDA Forest Service Outstanding Achievement award. CAREER

The Pivot

After completing her studies at CAU, Dr. Hill embarked on a career with the federal government at the FDA Atlanta Center for Nutrient Analysis. There, she served as a regulatory chemist, responsible for evaluating the safety of food, nutritional supplements, medical foods, and baby products. However, in 2016, she made a bold transition to pursue her true passion in the real estate and mortgage industry, leaving behind a lucrative senior journeyman chemist position.

CEO, MDH MORTGAGE

In her new career, Melissa swiftly ascended through the ranks, becoming a sales manager within the first year, followed by branch manager the next year. When Alterra Home Loans introduced the Legacy Home Loans Division, Melissa was appointed as the branch manager for the founding anchor Atlanta location. In 2020, when Homespire Mortgage Corporation sought to expand on the east coast, Melissa was appointed to lead the Georgia region, overseeing the Atlanta branch office.

In 2021, Melissa took a leap of faith and ventured into the world of entrepreneurship, and opened her independent mortgage brokerage, MDH Mortgage, where she presently holds the position of CEO/President. The company with the central principle of "Equal Lending for All" is dedicated to providing access to lending opportunities, particularly for those in underserved communities who have historically faced disparities. With nearly a decade of experience, Melissa has helped numerous individuals and families achieve their dream of homeownership. She simplifies the complexities of the homebuying process, empowering individuals to take control of their financial future. Her mission is to provide the formula to make dreams come true for aspiring homeowners while also educating and encouraging.

Beyond her professional endeavors, Ms. Hill is deeply committed to education and motivation. Late 2021, Melissa established Cresland Institute, offering professional education courses for licensed mortgage originators and real estate agents. Her goal is to encourage and empower others with personal development that will lead to professional excellence. Melissa has a passion to make education available to all and help others succeed.

Melissa, a dedicated student of John Maxwell's personal growth and leadership development program, is known for her bold and innovative leadership style. In pursuit of her passion, she established the Cresland Affiliate Network (CAN) Agency, aimed at extending assistance to individuals outside the real estate and mortgage industries in their quest to fulfill their dreams. This agency offers comprehensive support to aspiring entrepreneurs, guiding them in the process of launching their businesses and equipping them to transform their ideas into tangible realities. Melissa's ultimate goal is to enable individuals to turn their dreams into reality and make a positive impact on the world.
