

WISDOM JOURNAL

DAY 27

SUBJECT: I HATED LEARNING. HOW STUPID.

In my childhood I was not the person who liked learning. I hated learning. I thought it was boring. This behavior and thought pattern followed me through my teen years. Due to my ignorance, I missed out on great opportunities.

People who had the ability to help me refused to do so because I was stuck in my limited ways. As I was reading the Bible long ago I ran across a scripture that changed my mindset. This scripture convicted me. It made me feel foolish. However, it explained why bad things were happening to me.

Isaiah 1:17 says, "Learn to do well."

Something so simple made great sense. At that moment I started to develop a passion for learning. I forced myself to start reading different articles, books and pamphlets.

As I started doing this, good things began to happen. I started winning in life.

I was learning how to capitalize on my ideas. People were beginning to honor me because of what I knew and understood. I was shocked how developing a passion to learn could change the trajectory of my life.

TAKEAWAY: The more you learn, the more you will attain success. The feeling of success is HIDDEN in the WORK OF LEARNING! Never forget this.

Fountain Hendricks

Wisdom Journalist

For more wisdom go to www.thewisdomstore.com