

Division I Women's Basketball Recruiting Calendar

DI women's basketball evaluation days can get a little confusing. To start out with, recruits can be evaluated during the National Junior College Athletic Association championship competition. For women whose high school basketball season takes place in the spring, coaches can evaluate them in person from April 8-28, 2022 and July 8-31, 2022.

The NCAA includes a special note for coaches, explaining that any evaluations that occur outside of July, count toward their allotted 112 total in-person recruiting days. Families don't need to worry about the number of days coaches have to make in-person evaluations, but it's important to know that evaluation days aren't unlimited. Coaches have to choose who they will see, which means that they likely won't just show up to your high school unannounced. Instead, they will probably contact you to arrange a day that works with both of your schedules.
