MASTER'S FORUM

Brethren:

A month has passed since our last communication and again our limitations have been increased. When will this roller coaster ride end? It was a breath of fresh air to have the tyled communication that we did have and manage to tie up a few loose ends. It's frustrating now to have approved applicants waiting, only to be sidelined again.

I struggle with the fact that we can't meet in lodge yet, but we still have commitments. Please Brethren, don't forget to pay your dues. We will get through this. Just when, I don't know, but don't lose faith. Remember, "that time, patience, and perseverance accomplish all things".

I hope you all fared well through the rain and snow. I shovelled three feet of snow off my roof in Sayward. That was a workout. Just walking in that much snow is a workout. What a crazy time we're living in. Maybe spring will bring better times.

Valentine's Day is fast approaching so it's time to start thinking about something special for that special person in your life. Being challenging times, this may take some extra thought, but being of the craft, I'm sure you'll come up with some innovative and loving ideas.

Rob Mason,
Worshipful Master
