

Fantastic Wedding Locations

Imagining locations for a wedding, people think of churches, hotel chapels, or even a beautiful beach or park somewhere.

However, there are many more fantastic and unusual places where wedding planners can arrange the perfect day for couples who want something a bit different.

Located deep underground, the National Showcaves Centre for Wales can provide a stunning background to a wedding ceremony. There is a huge section in the caves called the “Dome of St. Paul’s,” which includes two waterfalls flowing into a large lake. The cave’s natural and romantic setting could make a wedding truly special.

As some people might not want to marry in a cave, a company in New Zealand offers a wedding ceremony in a spectacular outdoor setting. The company will fly couples and their guests by helicopter to the top of a mountain. Looking at the amazing panorama of mountains, lakes and rivers, lovers might easily imagine how their wedding will become one of the most memorable days of their lives.

Even more adventurous couples can get married underwater. Putting on scuba gear, the couples descend to a depth of 15 meters in the sea off the coast of Trang province in Thailand. Of course, exchanging wedding vows underwater is difficult, so they need to use a series of diving hand signals, ending with an “OK” sign to indicate “I do.”

As well as these locations, there are thousands of other places around the world that can offer lovers an alternative to the tradition of walking down the aisle. Perhaps future weddings will be held in space, on the moon or even on Mars.

Think of something you really like and plan an authentic wedding ceremony.

For example, music, flowers, traveling, fishing, golf...etc.

Try to be creative!
