

THE ENERGETIC WAY: The enMatrix

Quite often, people pray, meditate, perform rituals, say affirmations, chant mantras, and so on. With all of these practices, you would think that we would be in a wonderful society full of joyful, gratifying, fulfilling, and satisfying people.

So the question is: why don't laws such as the law of attraction or the law of manifestation, rituals, religions, prayers, and other concepts work as effectively as they should or to the degree that we would like them to? If these things were as effective as we wanted them to be, would everyone be using them because of your success—maybe even fighting you over their use? Are these things working for us? Are we just fooling ourselves because we want them to work? Maybe we use them because we don't have any other answers, or what is really going on? Let us take a deeper look at these practices and analyze what might be hindering them so that we can create a strategy for a solution.

First, let's consider a scenario that we would be able to relate to: suppose that there is a society that knows nothing about smartphones and little about technology; however, they get access to our smartphones and think that the phones are some type of magical or mystical device. The smartphones have pre-installed apps on them to take pictures, store contact information, play games, and so on. They are impressed with the devices but weren't aware that you could make phone calls, send text messages, and download other apps, except for some of the people who believe that the devices have more capabilities by observing that they have apps that are not functioning. Then this group of people found some literature talking about the internet, and they were able to conclude that these devices work off a grid called the internet. The knowledge about smartphones working off a grid called the internet changed their whole paradigm for interacting with the smartphone. The condition of the internet for phones allowed their society to advance and become more functional.

Let's consider one more situation before thinking about these spiritual and faith-based practices. When you observe sci-fi or advanced technology, what makes it possible for crafts and ships to do things such as travel through the solar system into other galaxies? Answer: The capability to travel at warp speed. But first, they must have the ability for warp drive to generate a field for warp speed. Without warp drive, one could travel at a high speed of miles per hour but could not operate at an advanced level of traveling through the universe.

For anything to be effective or to maximize its potential, it has to be operating in its intended environment/field. To get the full benefits of spiritual practices, they have to be practiced in the proper conditions and under the right circumstances.

Before delving into the conditions, let's consider some other factors and possible dynamics. Some of these practices come down through generations that have lost their potency because they have been commercialized, manipulated, watered down, or lost their original intent and purpose. Other practices were taught and learned in the mystery schools under specific conditions to make them effective. The institutions were adept in the ways of spiritual living and did not teach these practices to anyone who did not come to receive proper spiritual development. You have to think: if everyone could attract or manifest things in life in a low spiritual state, what would people be attracting and manifesting? If you think that the world is in chaos now, what would it look like with a lot of unbalanced people with manifesting types of power thinking that they knew what they were doing?

If we go with the concept that these practices must meet specific requirements to be forceful, then what are these conditions and intentions that we might be missing? What would be the 'warp drive' (that is, the spiritual field/energetic field) that we must first obtain or the internet grid (that is, the energetic grid/mystical grid) that we must first sync or connect to get full benefit from the practices? In this case, one might consider that spiritual practices are more powerful when one is connected to a spiritual/energetic matrix or vibrating at higher spiritual levels. NOTE: Most people think of spiritual or spirituality in a linear way with a linear mindset. When thinking non-linearly or in a nonlinear way, one sees SPIRITUALITY AS having SPIRITUAL LEVELS. In this nonlinear way, everyone is at different spiritual levels and has the task of increasing their spiritual/mystical level to receive more spiritual energy and, in return, increase the force behind the spiritual practices, but this is a topic for another time.

It doesn't matter what the practices are or what practice one uses if one doesn't know the science or understand the proper workings and processes of the methods and techniques. Connecting to the mystical grid is about getting on the energetic path. If one is telling you about spiritual practices but are not having you focus on your inner spiritual development and introducing you to spiritual/universal principles and laws, they might not be the one who is best for your spiritual development to connect to the energetic/spiritual grid, The E-Grid.

The energetic way assimilates mystical concepts that can: align with your higher potential; transform and become empowered for a more fulfilling life; have more abundance and harmony; manifest your desired reality; make spiritual progress; and/or more. NOTICE: Although wealth is one of the major aspects of the energetic way, the path does not guarantee that you will be a millionaire living an extravagant lifestyle unless that is part of your path or life experience. However, as you reach higher levels of development, you could manifest this lifestyle. You could have major money, but it will be in a balanced way, not giving in to your lower nature and having money to compensate for your insecurities. Instead, the money will be a representation of the value that you bring (inner wealth). The ENERGETIC PATH IS ABOUT THE FLOW OF LIFE and the quality of life. It is for you to live a healthy, abundant, and fulfilling life with less effort and stress as you maneuver through life disharmony, adversities, challenges, and obstacles as you progress.

The energetic way of dealing with the psychological, spiritual, subconscious, and subjective realms has an effect on your sub-fields and aspects. Your subfield and aspects are part of your holistic reality, which affects your physical world. The energetic way empowers you to have control over the material reality to attract the things that you need, manifest the things you want, and create the life you desire.

The higher your vibration, the more energy you generate in your sub-fields. Once the conditions are right, you will reach the zero point, an energetic turning point, the critical point of vibration [above freezing], where your whole environment changes and everything reacts and interacts with you differently. The energetic elixir kicks in...
