About the author

Elbert was born in Anderson, Indiana in 1951 to Christian parents. As a teenager he began to see flaws in church doctrines that puzzled him. In biology class, he was taught evolution instead of creation was the way we got here. Life had no meaning or purpose as a result. But, gradually he began to see flaws in evolutionary theory and came to look more carefully at both worldviews.

He studied world religions, philosophy, music and art, as well as developing interests in photography, electronics and agriculture. He began writing in the second grade and his teacher marveled at his interest and talents even then. God was at work. Gradually he and God became best friends, but only after many trials and troubles, like Viet Nam and the draft.

Many outdoor adventures, dangers and near misses later, he began to think about eternity once again. Influenced by his parents, he rekindled a passionate pursuit of truth. He wanted to understand the world and why people did what they did. Through many years of study in college, loads of life experiences, marriage, three kids and several multifaceted career choices, he began to gel his ideas into the written word, audio and video venues.

His God, his love for people, his wife of 43 years and his family has made him the writer, speaker and trainer he is today. He plans many new books, audio books and videos in the future. He also started LambsTV.com and built main his website www.ITellWhy.com.

PROLOGUE

Why would Darwin and his outdated theory from the age of the Steam Boat matter anymore? On the other hand, why would anyone dare to question Darwin and the ‘powers that be’ in academia and the media who still cling to this God- rejecting belief system from the 1850’s? Who is right?

Is it really reasonable to buy into evolution while faith in a Creator God is unreasonable? Why did a Christian Seminary student like Charles Darwin turn from the Church, turn his back on Christianity and pen the Origin of Species and the Decent of Man? For that matter why do people turn their backs on God and the Church today?

I assembled this collection of reason-based questions of the validity of this theory because I want to give you something rare and valuable. In fact, it is priceless. The question is: Will you accept it as wisdom or folly? I challenge you to lay aside all your prejudices for time enough to read and consider what I have to give you.

My intent is to give you something you may never have seen before. There is more to it than first meets the eye. Unfortunately, you won’t find this wisdom in the Church, on TV or in the media. They do not seem to concern themselves with truth, though they give it lip service.

The reasons why have everything to do with you, those you love and your future. Let me just say here, there is a great purpose for your life. I don’t have all knowledge to give you, but why you are here. It’s a matter of life or death.

We all have just 2 choices: 1. Either evolution is how we got here and there is no Creator God, no plan, no purpose, rhyme or reason for life and the universe has no explanation for its existence.

OR

2. There really is a Great God who built the whole universe and everything in it and therefore owns it all, including your life and mine, and God can do whatever he wants with it all.

IS EVOLUTION JUST A STUPID DEAD RELIC STILL HAUNTING US FROM THE PAST, OR REALITY? AND BY EVOLUTION I MEAN THE PROGRESSION OF A PRE-EXISTING SINGLE CELLED ANCESTOR INTO MAN BY THE ACCIDENTAL COLLOCATION OF CHEMICALS AND MOLECULES WHICH EMERGED INTO MANKIND OVER THE COURSE OF MILLIONS OF YEARS. TO PUT IT THE WAY ONE CREATIONIST SAYS IT: 'FROM THE GOO TO YOU, VIA THE ZOO.'

Evolution really does not address how the universe came to be, just life. To put it another way, evolution attempts to explain the origin of life, not the origin of the universe. Evolution says all life forms have a single common ancestor. The big question is 'Is that really the way the world works? And just who or what is this 'ancestor'?

It's not that proponents of either side aren't intelligent, articulate people. In fact, evolutionists, atheists, agnostics and anti-theists are some of the most brilliant minds on the planet. Many of them know more about the Bible than most Christians these days. The question should be why? Why do we believe what we believe is really, really real? We all believe what we believe because we have good reason. Evolutionists promote evolution because it fits with the style of life they prefer to live. The same is true for Creationists. But, which ones have the real picture? Which one has the truth? They can't both be true.

Evolutionists do not like to retain God in their knowledge because he interferes with what they want to do. Creationists do not want to leave God out because they trust his promises to bring them life, health, peace, rest and a real future after this life. Evolution can't offer much. To them it's eat, drink and be merry for tomorrow we die. God is big enough to allow choice. We will never be forced by God to love him, lest our love would be faked or forced. That would not even be love. We must choose to love him and accept him by our own volition. I cannot do this for you. And you cannot do it for anyone else.

IS EVOLUTION THE WORLD'S BIGGEST AND MOST RIDICULOUS HOAX EVER FOISTED OFF ON MANKIND? IS THERE A GREAT CREATOR GOD INSTEAD, WHO MADE ALL LIFE AND THE ENTIRE UNIVERSE? JESUS HATERS CLAIM HE'S ONLY A

FAIRYTALE. WHAT DO YOU THINK? IF JESUS IS REAL, HE IS GOD AND WE BETTER PAY CLOSE ATTENTION TO WHAT HE SAID. IF JESUS IS REAL, THEN EVOLUTION IS JUST ANOTHER SCREWY CULT. ADDITIONALLY, IF JESUS IS GOD, THEN ALL RELIGIONS ARE USELESS AND DOOMED TO SUDDEN AND PERMANENT EXTINCTION, ACCORDING TO THE BIBLE...

It seems to me followers of Darwin are made when Christians let them down. The Church has failed them or abused them in some way, either real or perceived. The church—any denomination—needs fixing. The trouble is the Christians inside. They don't act like their Leader. What happened to the truth?

If Jesus is real, then Darwin was wrong. If Darwinian evolution is accurate and real, then Jesus is not whom he claimed to be as Creator and God. Young people are leaving Jesus behind to follow Darwin and his followers. Why? Because the oldsters cannot snow them with meaningless church-speak. They are much too smart to be duped by their parents' religion, once they can think for themselves and explore the Bible for themselves; at least this seems to be the prevailing attitude. In school they are being taught evolution is the way we all arrived here on earth and that religion is merely a way people invented to feel good about themselves. But to me, evolutionism is just one more form of religion that needs to go away.

Church tradition has lost all meaning for these young people. But, hopefully, they won't throw the baby out with the bath water. And they will eventually come to their senses about Jesus and their future, because their lives depend on it as I will try to make clear in the coming PARTs.

So, what does Darwin have to offer that is better or more beneficial than Jesus? If Darwin is right, Jesus is no God and evolution created all life. If Jesus is real, Darwin and his followers are the ones in the wrong.

What are young people seeking that the church is not giving them? They are smart and dad's standard old 'party line' church is no longer appealing. In their view, the doctrines their old church teaches are not real, but imaginary, so why would they stay? Evolution offers freedom to live the lifestyle of choice, without God looking over their every move with a disapproving gaze. No God, no guilt. It's as simple as that.

But, are we who fit that category throwing out the baby with the bath water? The church is messed up, granted, but at least it is trying to help people. Its preachers are paid or rejected depending on how well he teaches the same old party line doctrines with a 'new' twist geared for today. But young people see through this. When they do their research, ancient traditions and rituals do nothing for them.

But what if...

What if you could find a treasure in the Bible that you could access that would change the course of your life forever? What if you could finally understand the will of God for your life? What if you could know what in the universe God is up to? What if you could envision the greatest project ever devised and discover that it involves you directly?

What if you found out you were destined for greatness far beyond fame, fortune, power, people and pleasure? What would you think if you found out you have such a magnificent purpose in living that nothing else mattered to you anymore? What if the thing you discovered became so exciting, so thrilling, so infectious, it consumed you to the point it's all you thought about?

What if you could see the true destiny God has in store for you and it far exceeded your greatest expectations?

If you are like me, it changes everything. I have a new lease on life; one that has now expiration date. I've replaced my 'world view' with a brand new dimension of my faith. I call it my 'universe view'. It's as if suddenly I can now see the future, my true destiny and the reason God established the heavens and made billions of solar systems in outer space. It beats every other scenario I've ever heard about the destiny of mankind.

In one fell swoop, it answers all my questions. It evaporated all my doubts. It removed my fear of the future. I can see clearly the road ahead now, and it looks great... in fact, it looks magnificent! Many nights I can't sleep for thinking about it. To me, it's the most thrilling, fascinating, joy-filled hope imaginable. And to realize it involves and includes me is astonishing. It's almost too good to be real, yet I have zero doubt. I can't wait for tomorrow.

All that is what you are about to encounter here. May God get you excited as he has me. By the way, please tell everyone you can about this.

I only hope after this you WILL be able to sleep nights.

But let's face it, being a skeptic is now normal. It's just a matter of what to be skeptical about. Even the Bible instructs: 'Prove all things; hold fast that which is good.' (1 Thessalonians 5:21). I don't want someone else to tell me what to believe; I must prove it for myself.

I was reared in a Christian environment and I am grateful for that, but when I became a teenager and left home at seventeen, I quit going to church. I found no satisfying answers to the major questions of life there. And I had to find the answers. How about you?

Is there more to this life than the Earth and our mere 70 year life span on it? Why are there so many stars out there? Will mankind go out there someday? Why are we here? How did we get here? Where are we going? Who or what made us?

Do we have a purpose and if so, what is it? Is there a God who really is our Creator? If there is, what does he expect from us? What is death? Is there an 'afterlife'? Do people really 'live forever' no matter what choices we make? Is there a 'Heaven'? What about 'Hell'? Does it really matter what we do in this world? Where does morality come from? How did we get our minds? What is our true destiny?

It has been reported that nearly 85% of 'Christian' kids quit church when they leave the nest. YouTube® is full of such kids going over to the 'other side' and they are proud of it. They brag about how they publicly reject the Holy Spirit in their pompous defiance. They are trying to create a movement among our youth, calling it the 'Un-baptising Tour'.

I watch hundreds of videos uploaded by atheists like Richard Dawkins, Sam Harris, Chris Hitchens, Eugenie Scott and many less famous proponents of evolutionary theory. Hoping to find proofs there and real repeatable scientific facts, I am frustrated with only empty conjecture. Evolution is bankrupt scientifically. I say this because it has zero real scientific proof. It is not testable. It is not repeatable. It is not verifiable. It is illegitimate in my view.

Bone chips do not come with labels. They date and name objects into fit their evolutionary bias and that is not science, but fantasy. I, for one, am fed up with it.

What I see is a common thread running through all evolutionists: emptiness, anger, arrogance, hostility, use of foul and vulgar language, double-standards, purposelessness, meaninglessness, hopelessness and a gigantic let down with no future. All form and no substance. There are numerable questions, yet they cannot adequately reply, though they are good at ducking the real issues, while ridiculing those who bring them, they are a disgrace to real science.

My answers to the deep questions of life, like meaning, purpose and future, would not be found there either. Regardless of our World View, we all need hope. We need to believe mankind will have a future, that our children will have a decent world to live in and that mankind will not go extinct. But it sure looks like we are headed in the wrong direction. Will there be a World War Three and if so, will there be any survivors? How can our family be protected?

What hope do you, personally, have for a future? What do you think it will look like? Will mankind get through and if so, how? Will Oil play a crucial role? If so, what? Will Islam rule that world to come? Will American freedom disappear? Do we really have a destiny worth living for? Is there a God? If so, does he care about all the troubles on earth? Will he do something to stop our downward spiral into oblivion we seem to be on? Is the Holy Bible really his word? If so, does it give concrete answers to life's biggest questions?

What does your worldview look like? Do you have a good grasp on the reality of our volatile world? If you have your eyes open, you can see it is getting darker and more terrifying by the day? WW3 seems to be edging nearer with every news report. Things are heating up in the Middle East. The world seems to be plunging into darkness. World economies are failing. Hope is diminishing. The future seems to be evermore foreboding.

WHAT IS THE REAL TRUTH?

Is there good reason to hope for a brighter future? Where can we find the truth about what is really happening and where can we turn to find some good news for a change? The answers lie in the crux of the matter: If Jesus is real, then what?

Christians teach that Jesus was born of a virgin, lived a sinless life and sacrificed himself for us that we might be ransomed through his shed blood to God the Father. Further, Jesus is the Great Creator God of all Creation as the Bible states and he has a great plan for your life.

Evolution proponents teach that it is really the way the life came to be and there is no purpose for your life. If evolution is how we came to be, therefore you have no purpose, no meaning in life and no future.

Other religions teach Reincarnation or that we will turn into gods one day and fly off to the Mother Planet from whence we came. New Agers teach that we are all equal gods or that there are 'many paths to God.'

Which is correct? Can we know for sure? Where does the evidence point? Let's find out...

Evolution proponents say: 'The entire universe was once compressed into a sphere smaller than the period at the end of this sentence. It became unstable and exploded into everything at the 'Big Bang' for no apparent reason, caused by nothing for no purpose and came on its own accord without any help from a god and suddenly we have the universe and all things therein.' And why would anyone want that anyway? It has no future and no hope.

Evolution seems to be just another superstitious man-made religion to get rid of guilt. With nothing as its god, nowhere as its destiny and only oblivion as its future evolution is hopeless. I too once thought it was true, but no more. The media and the university cannot tell me what to believe. It just doesn't add up, regardless of carefully contrived 'arguments. Proponents always have some clever come-back. It shows where they are coming from.

But their entire house of cards has many flaws. It has no proof, zero hard evidence and nothing but fantasy and empty rhetoric on which to base its faith. It is amazing adults can buy into it. It should have gone out by the road with yesterday's garbage. How can otherwise 'educated' people still insist on embracing such a myth from the 1850's in our 'enlightened' age? It's embarrassing and it is not scientific.

Adherents claim the 'o-ness' is on the Creationists to 'prove it'. If the burden of proof is on the Creationists to prove God exists, then it follows that the burden of proof lies with the Evolutionists to prove God doesn't.

Fine, that's easy. Just look around. Check your pulse. Do you exist? Can you think? Can you learn? Can you speak? If so, you must have a Creator. You had nothing to do with it. You and I cannot build a living thing; not even a blade of grass. Science and Math are in everything. Science is Observation, Experimentation, Replication and Notation. The math is probability. Evolution cannot be Science because there is zero evidence, though proponents claim they have it. Let's see them reproduce it.

Fruit Flies don't become horses, even if they had millions of years to do it. Lions don't become fish. Amebas don't morph into humans. There is no such thing as Reincarnation where, when you die, you come back as a Mosquito. And no 'little Green Men' from outer space deposited the first life on Earth and then returned without a trace. Evolutionists call this Trans-spermia. Some of them even try to use this explanation. Where's the evidence for any of this pre-school fantasy? And it's embarrassing for adults to behave this way.

When people start believing and reacting to their imaginings as though they were reality, psychoanalysts call them 'neurotic'. Neurosis is stupid behavior by non-stupid people. They have a mental illness. This is even more so when these poor sick folks start accusing their caregivers of having the disease. But that is what evolutionists do.

The essence of what they believe:

'Nothing suddenly exploded into everything at the 'Big Bang'. This limitless explosion took billions of years to explode. Its results are billions of perfectly round suns and worlds revolving in perfect order and harmony throughout the universe. Among these worlds is our Earth, which is exquisitely fine-tuned to support all life, which arose out of nothing, just because it wanted to exist. These are just things that happen by chance from time to time. They are totally devoid of purpose, meaning and cause. If they have any future, it will be the result of blind chance and happenstance.’ If all of that begins to look like foolishness, I would agree.

In the beginning, there was absolute nothing. Then, just because it wanted to, nothing suddenly exploded into everything over millions of years at the ‘Big Bang’. Then there was everything? Do explosions cause order and beauty or chaos and ruin? Have you ever seen an explosion take billions of years? Where’s their logic?

Does any of that make good sense to you?! Do explosions create anything good? Have you ever seen an explosion? Is shrapnel and debris pretty, round, well ordered and designed? Did the ‘Big Bang’ require billions of years to ‘explode’? Do explosions in print shops result in Encyclopedias?

This is what the high priests of Evolution seem to want us to believe that. Does that make good sense to you? Is that what they call ‘science and reason’? If science is about provability, facts and evidence, where is it? And why do they want us to believe science is more interested in theory than facts? What makes them think a hypothesis or theory is more important than an established scientific fact or law?

But so-called ‘science’ ignores its own published methodology when it comes to evolution. Why? Is Darwin such a ‘god’ no teacher can criticize him and keep their teaching job. Is that academic freedom? Hardly. It’s like a preacher criticizing the church’s doctrine of a conscious eternity in Hell fire. It’s too sacred. It’s tied directly to their income, so back off. If you prove it false, you will be labeled a heretic and be excommunicated. Additionally, if you were to try this, you would be removing their only ‘right’ to feel superior over the sinner. They would be in the same boat as all the rest of us sinners. It is dangerous, explosive ground. I speak from experience, but I digress.

What do you imagine caused the design of a human body? What caused the design of the powerful forces of Physics that work together as a congruous design and function as a unit? I’m talking about the entire Universe working together in harmony... How did it all come into being? How does it all keep working?

This is the Scientific Method:

Observe and offer a question.

Research the matter

Construct a Hypothesis

Test your Hypothesis by repeatable Experiment

Analyze your Data and draw conclusions based on the real proof

Establish it as a fact in a publication reviewed by others in the Scientific Community

Communicate your facts to the rest of the world via media

The Laws of Science, Energy, Chemistry, Math, Genetics, indeed all the systems of every life form including the Reproductive, the Circulatory, the Pulmonary, the Skeletal, the Skin, the Nervous System, the Endocrine System, the Organs, the Muscular, the Digestive Systems, etc. indicate design.

Moreover, they all work together harmoniously to create the whole man and had to all be created instantaneously or else we would have died instantly indicate we were created by a Power way beyond the meager accidental and wimpy 'power' of evolution. Can we but conclude that evolution is stupid? Life is far too complicated for it to arise on its own, out of nothing but dead matter.

The Christian World View

Jesus said: 'Take my yoke upon you and learn of me...' (Matthew 11:29)

'And you shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.' (John 8:32)

Let's see if Christianity's explanation makes more sense. Does the Bible really say Jesus is the Creator?

JOHN 1:1- ‘IN THE BEGINNING WAS THE WORD, AND THE WORD WAS WITH GOD, AND THE WORD WAS GOD. <sup>2</sup> THE SAME WAS IN THE BEGINNING WITH GOD. <sup>3</sup> ALL THINGS WERE MADE BY HIM; AND WITHOUT HIM WAS NOT ANYTHING MADE THAT WAS MADE. <sup>4</sup> IN HIM WAS LIFE; AND THE LIFE WAS THE LIGHT OF MEN. <sup>5</sup> AND THE LIGHT SHINES IN DARKNESS; AND THE DARKNESS COMPREHENDED IT NOT.’

Colossians 1:14 – ‘(This is he) In whom we have redemption through his blood, even the forgiveness of sins: <sup>15</sup> Who is the image of the invisible God, the firstborn of every creature: <sup>16</sup> For by him were all things created, that are in heaven, and that are in earth, visible and invisible, whether they be thrones, or dominions, or principalities, or powers: all things were created by him, and for him: <sup>17</sup> And he is before all things, and by him all things consist. <sup>18</sup> And he is the head of the body, the church: who is the beginning, the firstborn from the dead; that in all things he might have the preeminence.’

Philippians 2:6 ‘Who, being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God: 7 But made himself of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a servant, and was made in the likeness of men: 8 And being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross. 9 Wherefore God also has highly exalted him, and given him a name which is above every name: 10 That at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in heaven, and things in earth, and things under the earth; 11 And that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.’

Here is what God, the God of the Bible says about skeptics and atheists:

Psalms 14:1 ‘The fool has said in his heart, ‘There is no God.’ They are corrupt; they have done abominable works. There is none that does good.’

Romans 1:19 ‘Because that which may be known of God is manifest in them; for God has shown it unto them. 20 For the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead; so that they are without excuse: 21 Because that, when they knew God, they glorified him not as God, neither were thankful; but became vain in their imaginations, and their foolish heart was darkened.

22 Professing themselves to be wise, they became fools, 23 And changed the glory of the incorruptible God into an image made like to corruptible man, and to birds, and four-footed beasts, and creeping things. 24 Wherefore God also gave them up to uncleanness through the lusts of their own hearts, to dishonor their own bodies between themselves: 25 Who changed the truth of God into a lie, and worshipped and served the creature more than the Creator, who is blessed forever.’

Isaiah 41:21 ‘Produce your cause, says the LORD; bring forth your strong reasons, says the King of Jacob. 22 Let them bring them forth, and show us what shall happen (in the immediate future?): let them show the former things, what they are, that we may consider them, and know the latter end of them; or declare us things for to come (in the distant future?). 23 Show the things that are to come hereafter, that we may know that you are gods: yes, do good, or do evil, that we may be dismayed, and behold it together. 24 Behold, you are of nothing, and your work of naught: an abomination is he that chooses you.’

The God of the Bible claims Jesus IS the Creator of all that we can see and know. He declares that Jesus shall be preeminent, meaning above all. It says Jesus is permanently alive and infinitely powerful because he can rescue all of mankind and save them from certain extinction. It goes on to say Jesus is the Head of the Body called ‘the church’. And that, at the name of Jesus, EVERY knee shall bow to him and EVERY tongue will confess that he is Ruler of all.

This God MOCKS evolutionists, atheists, anti-theists, skeptics and all those who refuse to believe. He calls them ‘fools’. He says they change truth into lies, so they can free themselves from feeling guilty for indulging in sin. Isn’t that the whole reason Religions were created in the first place? Evolution is just another one.

According to the God of the Bible, non-believers worship themselves or some ‘thing’ instead of God, the One who made all things. He says they can’t do anything good. They can’t tell us anything about the past including how and why we got here. He adds they can’t see passed their noses to predict future things either. He tops it all with the fact they are nothing at all and their work is a big fat zero... NOTHING! All the books, speeches, tours, debates, TV appearances, etc. amount to nothing at all!

God claims he owns everything in the universe including you and me. How dare he? He thinks he owns the place. He says he built it all and is therefore entitled to do with it whatever he pleases. He has all the rights. We do not.

Christopher Hitchens, one of the high priests of evolution, said in his book ‘god is not great’ that the God of the Bible doesn’t even exist. He spurns the Holy One of Israel, the One who claims rule over all life, including his. The question is ‘Who are you going to believe?’

Are you going to believe an angry, hostile, arrogant man who is mad at God for exercising his rights over his own creation or God himself? We all serve some one or some thing, even if it’s only ourselves. Who are you going to serve with your life? Is this life all there is or do we have a future beyond? Did we come from a rock or from a Powerful God? Are you willing to entertain the proof?

Where does the Evidence lead and what about your world view or lifestyle?

This should be any honest persons’ modus operandi: to follow wherever the evidence leads them and follow an accurate mind set or point of view. Let’s be honest about it and not follow any personal pre-conceived notions as to how the world works or what reality is. Every other way is less than honest. Follow the evidence honestly, not trying to cling to one's own ways or lifestyle. Simple, not complicated. Just do it. If the evidence, once honestly and thoroughly evaluated, leads to evolution, then so be it. That would mean evolution is god and there is no real purpose for living, but at least you will have given it your best shot.

And don't try to tell me that theory is more important than fact. That's absurd. No, science is knowledge and knowledge is when you know something, not just when you just pretend or hope it might be so. That is merely wishful thinking. Evolutionists seem to want to foist off on the world the concept that theory is better than truth. Nonsense!

For an example of this, all we need do is go to YouTube ® and type in 'Eugenie Scott'. Watch a few of her videos and you will hear her claim 'Theory is more important to science than fact.' and she will try to explain 'Why Darwin still matters'. She claims the Creationists are the ones promoting their own 'Pseudoscience' and that the ones on her side have the only truth. But is she correct or the Creationists?

She, and many other anti-theists or atheists, put on this arrogant, snide, smart-alecky, disrespectful attitude and some even resort to the use of foul language. It's as if they can't believe anything they can't see. But in reality, we all believe in a whole lot of things we cannot see, like electricity, radio waves, microwaves, magnetism, gravity, centrifugal force and inertia, just to name a few. The real issue is a matter of what floats your boat: lifestyle. How do you choose to live? Your beliefs must support and uphold how you choose to live.

If, on the other hand, we find that the evidence leads us to the conclusion that, although we cannot see him, there really IS a God and we can submit our lifestyle to him, then so be it. Let's just be honest and do it. It won't hurt and it will open up a whole new way of life.

Does organized religion hold any promise? Is that where we will find the truth, meaning and purpose in life? Do we really have a purpose, a real destiny and a future beyond this present temporal existence or not? Will we find it if we sort through the millions of ideologies or religions of the world? Will the Christian religion (which may or may not be real Christianity) tell us?

After many years of searching them, I draw this conclusion: None of them got it right. Religions are manmade attempts to solve the annoying problem of guilt. Evolution is just one of them, except this one is without a god. They are their own gods. Or nothing is god. The real issue is they don't want someone telling them what to do or how to live.

But the question still is not solved, even through denial that there is a Creator God. It takes more than the evidence; it takes one's outlook on life itself plus the evidence. Beliefs matter. I'm saying we wouldn't even have minds to believe with, if they didn't originate with a greater Creator who designed, planned, built and instilled them in us from the very beginning. Thought, memory, creativity, attitudes, emotions, understanding, wisdom, prowess, determination and all other mental powers do not arise out of chemistry.

Is there a God who made all the worlds out there and if he does exist, does he care about us? Does the answer reside in Christianity; that is authentic Christianity? I'm not including tradition or ritual. I'm talking about the straight Biblical Christ-seeking and truth-only kind that's not just for show. They live it on a daily basis. They want to know: does Jesus Christ exist, can I prove it beyond any reasonable doubt and does he care about me and my future? It's what matters to them and you can tell.

If he is real and he IS God, why would I fight against him? If the Bible is indeed his word, then this God really IS great and we should take heed if we want to really live. This God says and proves in the Bible's pages that he loves us and gave his life's blood that we might have permanent life of the same kind he enjoys, full of joy, creativity and endless delight in the process of building worlds and filling them with life.

This Bible is full benefits for us from this great God. Notice the fruits of his Spirit mentioned in Galatians 5:22: 'The fruits of the Spirit are love, joy, peace, patience, goodness, kindness and self control.' We want all our neighbors to show them to us.

Who doesn't want these things?

Reality check: the universe, the solar system, the earth and all life is undeniably beautiful and all of it is sustained in harmony. The things of God are clearly seen by the things that are made so that the skeptics are without excuse, according to Romans 1:19 through 32.

Let's get to the real science that is true for all people in all places at all times. To me, the idea of the 'big bang' as the explosion of a dot no bigger than the period at the end of this sentence is un-provable, unbelievable, given the sheer size of the universe. This earthbound relic of an idea should be rejected out of hand and abandoned. We are just beginning to get a glimpse of a tiny fraction of the universe. There are billions of galaxies, each with billions of stars systems and multiple billions of planets within them!

I think scientists will someday learn that each galaxy, of which there are billions, was individually created by the All-powerful Creator God with a 'big bang' or 'sudden burst' of his own limitless energy solidifying into matter. That's why astronomers are finding new galaxies where there was nothing there the week before and they find them at the rate of about one per week.

God is still out there building worlds! He is not yet finished with the greatest project he ever conceived. And he's not done with you and me and the planet we live on. He will return in person and straighten out the mess we're about to make of it. (See Part Three.) Being a part of it all is the reason you were born, as you will see later. That's part of the magic of thinking big about God.

To me, the evidence points toward a Creator, but you must research and then decide for yourself. 'We all serve someone.' according to the old Bob Dylan song. The Big Question is WHO: God? Ourselves? The Devil? Or someone else?

The Fruits of Evolution

Because Mind can only come from a Greater Mind and evolution says 'No, it comes with life by accident.' If it comes so easily, go ahead: make one! Put in the emotions, the intelligence, the creative prowess, the memory, the ability to learn, calculate, speak or teach, just to name a few of the powers of our minds.

Think about it. Does it make good sense to you that it all came from rocks, chemistry, physics, millions of years of time, the combination of all so-called sciences or from nothing at all? Not to me! I'd much rather believe mankind was built in the image of the Great Mind of God who made and sustains the entire universe, as it is written in Genesis 1:1. Mind can only come from pre-existing mind.

Search your feelings... in your heart you know better. Q. Believers in Jesus say 'Evolution is evidence bankrupt!' Why? A. There simply isn't any real empirical evidence. Evolutionists have fabricated their own 'evidence' to make evolution seem plausible. They manufacture their own weird scientific sounding words in Latin-ese language in order to sound scientific. But is creative word processing proof that there is no God? No, of course not. They have got to do much better than that to convince me.

Some evolutionists are not interested in truth. As I said before, some evolutionists value theories higher and account them more valuable than facts. That is not science. That is make-believe science at best. Kids are smarter than that and they don't buy this nonsense. Adults, especially scientists, shouldn't buy it either. True science is honest people in search of provable, repeatable and testable facts. (See Romans 1:19-31.)

Show me the proof, or you are either dishonest or not scientific! Q. According to Christians, thousands of years ago the God of the Bible predicted the advent of Atheism, Anti-theism and Evolution. This God had men write his words down so we could read them. He gets in the face of Darwinists and even calls them names like 'fools' and 'nothings'. Isn't this evidence that the God of the Bible is alive and real?

A. Notice 2 PE 3:3- 7 This second epistle, beloved, I now write unto you; in both which I stir up your pure minds by way of remembrance: 2 That you may be mindful of the words which were spoken before by the holy prophets, and of the commandment of us the apostles of the Lord and Savior: 3 Knowing this first, that there shall come in the last days scoffers, walking after their own lusts, 4 And saying, 'Where is the promise of his coming?' For since the fathers fell asleep, all things continue as they were from the beginning of the creation. 5 For this they willingly are ignorant of, that by the word of God the heavens were of old, and the earth standing out of the water and in the water: 6 Whereby the world that then was, being overflowed with water, perished: 7 But the heavens and the earth, which are now, by the same word are kept in store, reserved unto fire against the day of judgment and perdition of ungodly men.

Then take note of this powerful indictment directly from God recorded in Isaiah 41 against the skeptics: 21 ‘Produce your cause, says the LORD; bring forth your strong reasons, says the King of Jacob. 22 Let them bring them forth, and show us what shall happen: let them show the former things, what they were, that we may consider them, and know the latter end of them; or declare us things for to come. 23 Show the things that are to come hereafter, that we may know that you are gods: yes, do good, or do evil, that we may be dismayed, and behold it together. 24 Behold, you are of nothing, and your work of naught: an abomination is he that chooses you.’

Atheists, Evolutionists and the like have NO FUTURE. This life, this time is all they have and all they apparently want. They never give ‘eternity’ a second thought. They don’t care about it. Thing is, they are wasting the only chance they may have for a future. Their only purpose in life is the same as a dog or any other animal: to eat, drink and reproduce.

Why settle for that drop-in-the-bucket mundane existence when the truth has vast oceans of powerful living to offer? Let’s get serious. There is a real Day of Judgment coming. Every human who has ever lived will be resurrected to face this day. There they will stand before the One who has all judgment committed to him and that is none other than Jesus Christ. We all will account for every idle word we have ever spoken.

Every knee will bow to him. Every eye will see him. Every tongue will confess the he is LORD OF ALL. Those who refuse to acknowledge him will die the death and stay dead for all time to come. They will not be awake, but asleep in the blackness of death from then on and forever. The very memory of them will fade away and they will remain forgotten for all time. The fame they acquired in this life will be discarded and it will fade into oblivion.

They could have had wonderful life, a future and real power to help people. But no, they’d rather die than acknowledge Jesus as Lord. How sad and how foolish! What a waste! May I suggest we all choose wisely, while there is still time.

So, what is the Fruit of true Christianity vs. the Fruit of Evolution?

Many theologians blame the holocaust on evolution because Hitler and his henchmen were faithful evolutionary practitioners. Human life was regarded as cheap. The weak were expendable and not worthy of life, so they murdered them relentlessly and without pity.

To be fair, the Catholic Church coerced the Roman army to exterminate multiple thousands of Muslims in an effort to wipe them out completely. But could the practice of murdering those of another race or creed be in the 'Christian' category? No, of course not. Jesus said we should 'love our enemies', not kill them.

Now an atheist may say: 'Well, your God, the God of the Bible is the greatest killer of all.' My answer to that is: Don't forget who owns the planet and everything else. He has the right to do whatever he wants with his own stuff and that includes all human beings, you and me not withstanding.

We are bought with a price and we are not our own. Whatever we have, we have been given by him who owns everything. Let us learn to be thankful, for a change. But let's compare the overall fruits of the rest of Christendom with the fruits of evolution:

a. How many orphanages built? Christianity: Thousands
Evolution: Zero

b. How many hungry fed? Christianity: Thousands
Evolution: Zero

c. How many homeless housed? Christianity: Thousands
Evolution: Zero

d. How many water wells dug? Christianity: Thousands
Evolution: Zero

e. How many schools established? Christianity: Thousands
Evolution: Zero

f. How many sick have been treated? Christianity: Thousands
Evolution: Zero

g. How many prisoners visited? Christianity: Thousands
Evolution: Zero

h. How many strangers take in? Christianity: Thousands
Evolution: Zero

i. How many naked clothed? Christianity: Thousands
Evolution: Zero

j. How much uplifting Godly music created? Christianity: Thousands
Evolution: Zero

k. How many poor enriched with food, clothing, shelter or comfort of some kind? Christianity: Thousands or millions
Evolution: Zero

l. How many hopeless encouraged with good news and with a real future we can depend on? Christianity: Thousands
Evolution: Zero

Conclusion: Evolution and friends add up to a big fat ZERO. All their pomp and arrogance is of no real or lasting value at all. But to be fair, many of them do kind things for people all the time. But they do it because they have a heart in them to do it, even though they may not know why they want to. Chemistry is not the reason. Collocations of molecules are not the reason. It's because they have instilled in them a little bit of God.

What is Evolution and are there any benefits from it?

Boil away all the fluff and Evolution is: No God, no Guilt! Empirical science is only that which can be tested and repeated by experiment. Forensic science is life science dating back to the beginning of a life form. Evolution, as the method of creation of life doesn't qualify as any kind of science. It is philosophy bordering on a religion because it required the belief in that which cannot be seen, felt, touched, tasted or measured by any means. It's all just theory and conjecture that cannot in any way be verified. Fossils don't come with dates.

Bottom line: Evolutionists have a good reason for holding to their belief system. It is, like all religions, to absolve themselves from guilt. Get rid of God and you get rid of guilt. I'd rather keep the guilt because I can relieve myself of it by asking God for forgiveness. That protects me and reassures me and I need that. It also guarantees me that I have a future because of him and that it is secure and sure. God cannot lie, therefore, we are safe. I like safe, thank you God!

QUESTIONS DARWINISTS FEAR

1. Q. Where does the Evidence REALLY lead?

A. This should be any honest persons' modus operandi: to follow wherever the evidence leads them. Every other way is less than honest. Follow the evidence. Simple, not complicated. Just do it. If the evidence, once honestly and thoroughly evaluated, leads to evolution, then so be it. That would mean evolution is god and there is no real purpose for living, but at least you will have given it your best shot.

And don't try to tell me that theory is more important than fact. No, science is knowledge and knowledge is when you know something, not just when you just pretend or hope it might be so. That is merely wishful thinking. Evolutionists seem to want to foist off on the world the concept that theory is better than truth. Nonsense!

For an example of this, all we need do is go to YouTube ® and type in 'Eugenie Scott'. Watch a few of her videos and you will hear her claim 'Theory is more important than fact' and she will try to explain 'Why Darwin still matters'. She claims the Creationists are the ones promoting their own 'Pseudoscience' and that the ones on her side have the only truth. But is she correct or the Creationists?

She, and many other anti-theists or atheists, put on this arrogant, snide, smart-alecky attitude and some resort to the use of foul language. It's as if they can't believe anything they can't see. But in reality, we all believe in a whole lot of things we cannot see, like electricity, radio waves, microwaves, magnetism, gravity, centrifugal force and inertia, just to name a few.

If, on the other hand, we find that the evidence leads us to the conclusion that, although we cannot see him, there really IS a God, then so be it. Let's just be honest.

Does organized religion hold any promise? Is that where we will find the truth, meaning and purpose in life? Do we really have a purpose, a real destiny and a future beyond this present temporal existence or not? Will we find it if we sort through the millions of ideologies or religions of the world?

After many years of searching them, I draw this conclusion: None of them got it right. Religions are manmade attempts to solve the annoying problem of guilt. Evolution is just one of them without a god. They are their own gods. They don't want someone telling them what to do or how to live.

But the question still is not solved through denial.

Reality check: the universe, the solar system, the earth and all life is undeniably beautiful and all of it is sustained in harmony. How? Where does the power come from to make it all happen and continue to happen? The things of God are clearly seen by the things that are made so that the skeptics are without excuse, according to Romans 1:19 through 32.

Notice: Romans 1:19 'Because that which may be known of God is manifest in them; for God has showed it unto them. 20 For the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead; so that they are without excuse: 21 Because that, when they knew God, they glorified him not as God, neither were thankful; but became vain in their imaginations, and their foolish heart was darkened.

22 Professing themselves to be wise, they became fools, 23 And changed the glory of the incorruptible God into an image made like to corruptible man, and to birds, and four-footed beasts, and creeping things. 24 Wherefore God also gave them up to uncleanness through the lusts of their own hearts, to dishonor their own bodies between themselves: 25 who changed the truth of God into a lie, and worshipped and served the creature more than the Creator, who is blessed forever. Amen.

26 For this cause God gave them up unto vile affections: for even their women did change the natural use into that which is against nature: 27 And likewise also the men, leaving the natural use of the woman, burned in their lust one toward another; men with men working that which is unseemly, and receiving in themselves that recompense of their error which was fitting.

28 And even as they did not like to retain God in their knowledge, God gave them over to a reprobate mind, to do those things which are not convenient; 29 Being filled with all unrighteousness, fornication, wickedness, covetousness, maliciousness; full of envy, murder, debate, deceit, malignity; whisperers, 30 Backbiters, haters of God, despiteful, proud, boasters, inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents, 31 Without understanding, covenant-breakers, without natural affection, implacable, unmerciful: 32 Who knowing the judgment of God, that they which commit such things are worthy of death, not only do the same, but have pleasure in them that do them.'

Can we please get to the real science that is true for all people in all places at all times? Real science is repeatable. To me, the idea of the 'big bang' is un-provable and unbelievable, and distinctly improbable, given the sheer size of the universe. We are just beginning to get a glimpse of a tiny fraction of it and within what we can probe there are billions of galaxies, each with billions of stars systems and multiple billions of planets within them! If we really knew how big the universe is, we would be even more confounded.

Scientists claim all that was once compressed into a single particle no bigger than the period at the end of this sentence! Now that is stupid to me! The whole idea is ludicrous and unsupportable by real science and many scientists have come to that conclusion today.

I think scientists will someday learn that each galaxy, of which there are billions, was individually created by the All-powerful Creator God with a burst of his own limitless energy. That's why astronomers are finding new galaxies where there was nothing there the week before and they find them at the rate of one per week.

God is still out there building worlds! He is not yet finished with the greatest project ever conceived. And he's not done with you and me and the planet we live on. He will return in person and straighten out what we are going to mess up. Being a part of it all is part of the reason you were born, as you will see later.

To me, the evidence points toward a Creator, but you must research and then decide for yourself. 'We all serve someone.' according to the old Bob Dylan song. The Big Question is: WHO? It may be time to re-think what you may have been misled to believe.

Or ‘AccessResearch’, ‘TheMedien’, ‘DrTommyGouranga’.

2. Q. Evolution can’t account for Mind... Why and What if there really is a great purpose evolution hides?

A. Because Mind can only come from a Greater Mind and evolution says ‘No, it comes with life by accident.’ If it comes so easily, go ahead: make a mind. This I want to see. Put in the emotions, the intelligence, the creative prowess, the memory, the ability to learn, calculate, speak or teach, just to name a few of the subtleties and powers of our minds. Think about it. Where does all the information to make it all happen within ourselves come from? Who originated it? It’s not ‘what’ but ‘who’ because intelligence, contrary to the dogma of atheism, can only come from pre-existing intelligence not from no intelligence. No honest scientist would deny that.

Does it make good sense to you that it all came from rocks, chemistry, static electricity, physics, millions of years of time, the combination of all so-called sciences or from nothing at all? Not to me. I’d much rather believe mankind was built in the image of the Great Mind of God who made and sustains the entire universe, as it is written in Genesis 1:1. Mind can only come from pre-existing mind. Even Richard Dawkins stated that he thinks life arrived on Earth from some higher life form on some other planet and planted it or ‘seeded’ it on our planet. What difference is there between that and the Great Creator God of the Bible? He’s the ‘Higher Life Form’ that brought life to Earth.

Search your feelings... Could all this life, perhaps millions of different life forms on planet Earth, have arisen undirected without intelligence or information or design? Is there a God who made all the worlds out there and if he does exist, does he care about us? Does the answer reside in Christianity; that is authentic Christianity? I’m not including tradition or ritualistic variety.

I'm talking about the straight Biblical Christ-seeking kind that's not just for show... not just a 'fan' of Jesus, but an actual 'follower' who practices what Jesus preached. Does Jesus Christ exist, can I prove it beyond any reasonable doubt and does he care about me and my future?

If he does, why would I fight against this God? If god does exist and his Bible says he loves you and has your best interests at heart as well as your future in the universe with him, wouldn't you want to know him and what he wants for you? If the Bible is indeed his word, then this God really IS great and he has a greater life waiting for us, so why would we not want it?

What if there really are two alternatives: life or death? What if there really is the choice to be made by you that would change the alternative from certain and permanent death into certain and permanent life, and all you had to do is let go of Darwinism and accept Jesus, what would you do?

I don't know what you would do but as for me, I'd leave no stone unturned to make sure I did not miss this opportunity to find out. I'd study the life of Jesus and do everything in my power to get to the bottom of this 'eternal life' idea. This God says and proves in the Bible's pages that he loves us and gave his life's blood that we might have permanent life of the same kind he enjoys, full of joy, love, adventure, power, creativity and endless delight in what he is doing in bringing the universe to life. Why would I want to resist a God like that?

Notice Isaiah 45:18: 'For thus says the LORD that created the heavens; God himself that formed the earth and made it; he has established it, he created it not in vain, he formed it to be inhabited: I am the LORD; and there is none else.'

He continues in Isaiah 51:16 'And I have put my words in your mouth, and I have covered you in the shadow of mine hand, that I may plant the heavens, and lay the foundations of the earth, and say unto Zion, You are my people.'

Notice also Isaiah 40:21 Have you not known? Have you not heard? Has it not been told you from the beginning? Have you not understood from the foundations of the earth? 22 It is he that sits upon the circle of the earth, and the inhabitants thereof are as grasshoppers; that stretches out the heavens as a curtain, and spreads them out as a tent to dwell in: 23 That brings the princes to nothing; he makes the judges of the earth as vanity.

The Bible is scientific. It told us thousands of years ago the Earth was round and not flat. We in this age should be wary of myths and superstitions like Darwinism. It is superstition to think that no intelligence makes intelligence. It is myth to believe that it took no power to build the universe or that a dot-sized 'molecule exploded into the entire universe. It is superstitious to believe there will be no accountability at the end of human life. It is superstitious to think there is no God who made you and has a great plan for your future beyond this life.

The Great Creator God of the Bible is the one true God who built the so-called 'known' universe and is continuing his vast construction project of expanding the universe, building new worlds every day for his future children to dwell in. It is he who laid the foundation of life in the Earth and is planting the heavens to be inhabited. This is the God of the Hebrew Bible. If there is any possibility that these things are so, shouldn't we all look into the Bible to find out? If there is any possible way for you to live beyond what your flesh body will allow, why would you neglect your search for it? May we all be wiser than that!

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'origin of mind' or 'Pan-spermia vs creation' or 'evolution hides your potential' (It may also be found under Trans-spermia)

3. Q. Creationists say 'Evolution is evidence bankrupt' but Evolutionists say 'Creationists have not one shred of evidence.' Which one is right and why?

A. Creationists say Evolutionists have no evidence to back up their claim that life spontaneously arose from non-life because there simply isn't any real empirical evidence. No one was there to see it happen and they cannot make it happen in the lab. There is nothing scientists can do to bring back the origin of any life form; that is they simply cannot replicate origins. It's not like we can turn back the clock and watch evolution happen.

Evolutionists have fabricated their own 'evidence' by piecing together bone fragments, paying an artist real money to concoct drawings of ancient man and then pretend it is all real and scientific to make evolution seem plausible. Then they manufacture their own weird but scientific-sounding words in Latin-esk language in order to make them sound scientific. But is creative word-processing the grounds for proof that there is no God? They have got to do much better than that to convince me. I am very skeptical about these skeptics of creation. Their speech sounds like political rhetoric to me, so no thanks.

The question remains: which one is the real science, Creation or Evolution? Take dog history for example. It seems widely recognized that all dogs were bred into existence by intelligent breeders who 'monkeyed' with the genetics of a wolf to get, let's say a poodle. Over several hundred years of breeding out genes that were more wolf-like than poodle, the loss of information in each mutative step resulted in the poodles we have today. The course of this intelligent intervening by breeders may have taken hundreds of years. But what cannot be done is to take a poodle and breed it back into a wolf, even if scientists tried for millions of years to make it happen.

The information to make this happen is irretrievably lost and so a poodle will never be bred back into the wolf. That is a truth fact. No scientist and more than likely no evolutionist will dispute this fact. Yet when it comes to mankind evolving from micro-organisms, they pretend it is science, even though it has never been done in the lab and never will be for similar reasons as the poodle to wolf scenario. It's not how the world works.

But evolutionists are not interested in truth. They value theories higher and account them more valuable than facts. That is not science. That is make-believe. Kids are smarter than that and they don't buy this nonsense. Adults, especially scientists, shouldn't buy it either. True science is honest people in search of provable, repeatable and testable facts.

One form of life or body plan cannot shape-change into another. There is NO transmigration of kind anywhere to be found or ever observed on earth. And there never has been. If such a thing did occur as predicted by evolution, the proof should be everywhere on earth, but no, such is not the case. Where are the billions of transitional forms evolution predicts should be in every back yard? Where's the Evidence?

To build a warehouse and fill it with banks of drawers full of bone chips and skull fragments, labeling each piece as if they knew the animals name, its habits, its nature, its DNA and genetic background, where it lived and when is nothing more than fabrication of a long series of fairy stories. Will you build your life, you health and happiness and your future on such falsehoods?

No one was there to watch the universe form. No one knows anything about how or when it was done; nor have they seen by what force, being or power it came to be. Science has no clue, so are we supposed to blindly trust anything they tell us, no matter how absurd? Show me the proof, or you are either dishonest or honest but not scientific.

Notice again the real reason evolutionists deny Jesus is real: they don't want to. Here's why: Romans 1:19 'Because that which may be known of God is manifest in them; for God has showed it unto them. 20 For the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead; so that they are without excuse:

Here's the 'why' answer: 21 'Because that, when they knew God, they glorified him not as God, neither were thankful; but became vain in their imaginations, and their foolish heart was darkened. 22 Professing to be wise, they became fools, 23 And changed the glory of the incorruptible God into an image made like to corruptible man, and to birds, and four-footed beasts, and creeping things. 24 Wherefore God also gave them up to uncleanness through the lusts of their own hearts, to dishonor their own bodies between themselves: 25 Who changed the truth of God into a lie, and worshipped and served the creature more than the Creator, who is blessed forever. Amen.

26 'For this cause God gave them up unto vile affections: for even their women did change the natural use into that which is against nature: 27 And likewise also the men, leaving the natural use of the woman, burned in their lust one toward another; men with men working that which is unseemly, and receiving in themselves that recompense of their error which was meet. 28 And even as they did not like to retain God in their knowledge, God gave them over to a reprobate mind, to do those things which are not convenient; 29 Being filled with all unrighteousness, fornication, wickedness, covetousness, maliciousness; full of envy, murder, debate, deceit, malignity; whisperers, 30 Backbiters, haters of God, despiteful, proud, boasters, inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents, 31 Without understanding, covenant breakers, without natural affection, implacable, unmerciful: 32 Who knowing the judgment of God, that they which commit such things are worthy of death, not only do the same, but have pleasure in them that do them.

Indicting the Jews of his day Jesus said in John 5:37-44 ‘And the Father himself, which has sent me, has borne witness of me. You have neither heard his voice at any time, nor seen his shape. 38 And you have not his word abiding in you: for whom he has sent him you believe not. 39 Search the scriptures; for in them you think you have eternal life: and they are they which testify of me. 40 And you will not come to me, that you might have life. 41 I receive not honor from men. 42 But I know you, that you have not the love of God in you. 43 I am come in my Father's name, and you receive me not: if another shall come in his own name, him you will receive. 44 How can you believe, which receive honor one of another, and seek not the honor that comes from God only?’

People do what they want to do. No one is their boss. Their picture of reality is a matter of choice. It’s not really about the evidence, though maybe it should be if we were honest about it. But people are not always perfectly honest with themselves either. Search your inner self. You probably know innately there must be more to life than just a random accident caused by nothing with no hope and no future. In later episodes I want to show that there really are MILLIONS OF TONS of evidence God left behind for those who honestly are willing to see, but people are so stubborn, they have even suggested that these tons of on-the-ground proof are faked. They will refuse to believe, even if it costs them their lives. Now that is stupid. Choose wisely.

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: ‘where’s the evidence?’ or ‘Sodom and Gomorrah’ or ‘the real Mount Sinai’

4. Q. According to the Bible, thousands of years ago God predicted the advent of Atheism, Anti-theism and Evolution. This God had men write his words down so we could read them. He gets in the face of Darwinists and even calls them names like ‘fools’ and ‘nothings’. Isn’t this evidence that the God of the Bible is alive and real?

A. Notice 2 PE 3:3- 7 This second epistle, beloved, I now write unto you; in both which I stir up your pure minds by way of remembrance: 2 That you may be mindful of the words which were spoken before by the holy prophets, and of the commandment of us the apostles of the Lord and Savior:

3 Knowing this first, that there shall come in the last days scoffers, walking after their own lusts, 4 And saying, ‘Where is the promise of his coming?’ For since the fathers fell asleep, all things continue as they were from the beginning of the creation. 5 For this they willingly are ignorant of, that by the word of God the heavens were of old, and the earth standing out of the water and in the water: 6 Whereby the world that then was, being overflowed with water, perished: 7 But the heavens and the earth, which are now, by the same word are kept in store, reserved unto fire against the day of judgment and perdition of ungodly men.

Also consider this powerful indictment directly from God from Isaiah 41 against the skeptics: 21 ‘Produce your cause, says the LORD; bring forth your strong reasons, says the King of Jacob. 22 Let them bring them forth, and show us what shall happen: let them show the former things, what they were, that we may consider them, and know the latter end of them; or declare us things for to come. 23 Show the things that are to come hereafter, that we may know that you are gods: yes, do good, or do evil, that we may be dismayed, and behold it together. 24 Behold, you are of nothing, and your work of naught: an abomination is he that chooses you.’

Atheists, Evolutionists and the like have NO FUTURE and the irony is they don’t care. This life, this time is all they have and all they apparently want. They never give ‘eternity’ a second thought. They don’t care about it. They don’t think it’s real so they don’t even think about it at all. Thing is, they are wasting the only chance they may have for a future. Their only purpose in life is the same as a dog or any other animal: to eat, drink and reproduce. Oh, and make money destroying the faith of the 'weak minded' Christians out there by writing books which are provocative and counter-culture.

But why settle for that drop-in-the-bucket mundane existence when the truth is the God has vast oceans of powerful unending living in your future to offer to you? Let's get serious. There is a real Day of Judgment coming. Every human who has ever lived will be resurrected to face this day. There they will stand before the One who has all judgment committed to him and that is none other than Jesus Christ. We all will account for every idle word we have ever spoken.

Notice Romans 14:11 For it is written, As I live, says the Lord, every knee shall bow to me, and every tongue shall confess to God. 12 So then every one of us shall give account of himself to God. And again in Philippians 2:9 Wherefore God also has highly exalted him, and given him a name which is above every name: 10 That at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in heaven, and things in earth, and things under the earth; 11 And that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.

There is coming a day when belief and knowledge of God will be worldwide and universal. Notice: Jeremiah 31:34 'And they shall teach no more every man his neighbor, and every man his brother, saying, Know the LORD: for they shall all know me, from the least of them unto the greatest of them, says the LORD: for I will forgive their iniquity, and I will remember their sin no more.

Every knee will bow to him. Every eye will see him. Everybody will know him and ridicule the outdated belief in Darwinism. They will know and know that they know God is real. Every tongue will confess the he is LORD OF ALL. According to Jeremiah 51:39 and 57, those who refuse to acknowledge him will, at their own choice, die the death and stay dead for all time to come. In other words, they will not be awake, but sleep in the blackness of death from then on and forever. So they will NOT be burning in the traditional 'hell', contrary to popular belief. Instead, the very memory of them will fade away and they will remain forgotten for all time. The fame they acquired in this life will be discarded and it will fade into oblivion.

They could have had wonderful life, a future and real power to help people. But no, they'd rather die than acknowledge Jesus as Lord. How sad and how foolish! What a waste! May I suggest we all choose wisely, while there is still time.

5. What is the Fruit of true Christianity vs. the Fruit of Evolution?

A. Many theologians blame the holocaust on evolution because Hitler and his henchmen were faithful evolutionary practitioners. Human life was regarded as cheap. The weak were expendable and not worthy of life, so they murdered them relentlessly and without pity.

To be fair, the Catholic Church coerced the Roman army to exterminate multiple thousands of Muslims in an effort to wipe them out completely. But could the practice of murdering those of another race or creed be in the 'Christian' category? No, of course not. Jesus said we should 'love our enemies', not kill them.

Now an atheist may say: 'Well, your God, the God of the Bible is the greatest killer of all.' My answer to that is: Don't forget who owns the planet and everything else. He has the right to do whatever he wants with his own stuff and that includes all human beings, you and me not withstanding. We are bought with a price and we are not our own. Whatever we have, we have been given by him who owns everything. Let us learn to be thankful, for a change.

But let's compare the overall fruits of the rest of Christendom with the fruits of evolution:

- a. How many orphanages built? Christianity: Thousands Evolution: Zero
- b. How many hungry fed? Christianity: Thousands Evolution: Zero

- c. How many homeless housed? Christianity: Thousands Evolution: Zero
- d. How many water wells dug? Christianity: Thousands Evolution: Zero
- e. How many schools established? Christianity: Thousands Evolution: Zero
- f. How many sick have been treated? Christianity: Thousands Evolution: Zero
- g. How many prisoners visited? Christianity: Thousands Evolution: Zero
- h. How many strangers take in? Christianity: Thousands Evolution: Zero
- i. How many naked clothed? Christianity: Thousands Evolution: Zero
- j. How much uplifting music created? Christianity: Thousands Evolution: Zero
- k. How many poor enriched in some way? Christianity: Thousands Evolution: Zero
- l. How many hopeless encouraged with good news and with a real future we can depend on? Christianity: Thousands Evolution: Zero

Conclusion: Evolution and friends add up to a big fat ZERO in productive help given to their fellow man. All their pomp and arrogance is of no real or lasting value at all. Maybe they will change this someday. If you can point to some examples of atheist altruism, please advise. Do you really want to have no good or purpose for being alive?

Here's just one passage where God give us a purpose: Philippians 2:13 For it is God which works in you both to will and to do of his good pleasure. 14 Do all things without murmurings and disputing: 15 That you may be blameless and harmless, the sons of God, without rebuke, in the midst of a crooked and perverse nation, among whom you shine as lights in the world; 16 Holding forth the word of life; that I may rejoice in the day of Christ, that I have not run in vain, neither labored in vain. 17 Yea, and if I be offered upon the sacrifice and service of your faith, I joy, and rejoice with you all. 18 For the same cause also do you joy, and rejoice with me.

6. What is Evolution anyway and are there any benefits from it?

A. The word ‘evolution’ is a slippery slope. It can simply mean change over time. Even Creationists believe that change within a life form happens over time. No one really will dispute that. But, when people use the word, they typically mean the origin of life came through spontaneous undirected processes over the course of millions of years. In other words ‘from the goo to you via the zoo’.

Now what is the advantage of this system of belief or world view? Boil away all the fluff and evolution is ‘No God, no Guilt!’ Empirical science is only that which can be tested and repeated by experiment. Forensic science is historical life science dating back to an earlier time or to the beginning of a life form. Evolution, as the method of creation of life, doesn’t qualify as any kind of science. It is not testable or repeatable. It is philosophy bordering on a religion because it required the belief in that which cannot be seen, felt, touched, tasted or measured by any means. That is not science. It’s all just theory and conjecture that cannot in any way be verified. Fossils don’t come with dates.

Can you prove God doesn’t exist, especially with the embarrassing weight of the complexity found in every life form? Buildings, cars, machines, appliances, computers, etc. do not spring into existence without design or designer. How much less likely to have evolved from nothing is a real living creature? Does the universe actually work backwards like that?

The second law of thermodynamics (that decay increases with time) indicates we all started OK, but as we age over time we get worse. But, evolutionists say just the opposite: that we start out as nothing, then over time get better and better. Trouble is nothing in the natural works that way. Honest scientists with objective minds will concede this.

Then consider the human mind with all its brilliance, ingenuity, creativity, emotions, attitudes, aptitudes, energy, abilities, speech, thought, reflectivity, mobility, memory, senses, reason, logic, love, needs, relationships, industry, prowess, artistry, music, education, drive, ambition, desires... where did all these come from? Why are these almost exclusive to human beings? Science has proven these things are not chemical alone, else why wouldn't animals have them as well?

Could it be that these all have been given to mankind from an even Greater Mind, namely God? Maybe it could not be otherwise... Here's what the Psalmist David wrote in Psalm 100: 'Make a joyful noise unto the LORD, all you lands. 2 Serve the LORD with gladness: come before his presence with singing. 3 Know that the LORD is God: it is he that has made us, and not we ourselves; we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture. 4 Enter into his gates with thanksgiving, and into his courts with praise: be thankful unto him, and bless his name. 5 For the LORD is good; his mercy is everlasting; and his truth endures to all generations.'

Bottom line: Evolutionists have a good reason for holding to their belief system. It is, like all religions, to absolve themselves from guilt and relieve themselves from responsibility toward God. Get rid of God and you get rid of guilt. Get rid of God and I get to do what I want. I'd rather keep the guilt because I can relieve myself of it by asking God for forgiveness. I'd rather face my responsibility toward God and do what he says because he knows best and he has my best interests at heart. He knows me better than I do and he has rights to me because he owns me. That protects me and reassures me and I need that. It also guarantees me that I have a future because of him and that it is secure and sure. God cannot lie, therefore, we are safe. I like to be safe. Thank you God!

7. Q. If evolution was the real origin of life, why are there millions of different body plans among the animal kinds?

A. There is no way one kind could have come from another. Genetically speaking this is a total and complete impossibility. Ask any geneticist you can find. Each one has unique characteristics, habits, food, mating habits, birthing patterns, nesting habits, methods of mobility, etc. Why? If evolution was real, why would so many diverse and extremely complex creatures even exist. Why do they continue to exist? Some of them are not needed for the survival of any other kinds. Each one seems perfectly designed for its particular purpose. Yet evolution says there is no purpose for life, even yours.

Birds and snakes, for instance have completely different pulmonary systems. Birds have a complex 'forth-and-back-through' breathing apparatus while the snake has an extremely long trachea with two very long lungs. This is just one of many problems yet to be addressed by evolution. Yet they say birds came from reptiles. Hardly! It has never been demonstrated in the observable world, or in the lab. That is mere pretense, not science. Yet it is still in the text books as if it were fact.

Take note of the real sciences of anatomy and you will find prohibitively complex differences in every life form or kind which precludes the possibility of trans-kind metamorphosing. In other words, evolution cannot explain the intricacies of even one life form, let alone the billions of different kinds to be found on planet Earth. But, that's not all.

Evolution of any kind into another is simply not possible genetically, let alone provable in the lab, though scientists have been trying this since genes were first suggested by Gregor Mendel in the 1860's. Genes, DNA, protein complexity and chromosome activity, just to name a few parameters of life that would have to facilitate life did not evolve into being. Darwin knew nothing about genetics. We still are yet to get to the bottom of the complexities of that tiny world. Evolutionists try to explain away this dilemma with fancy scientific-sounding words, but they are mere conjecture. These are not testable, repeatable or factual and they don't seem to care. It's imaginary and evolutionists don't care because the theory of evolution is linked directly to their fame, popularity and income.

Evolution, as the way origins of life occurred is imaginary, seems to me. Proponents point the finger at Creationists in disgust, calling names and accusing them of being unscientific, but who is the one honest enough to follow the evidence wherever it leads and believe the findings. It's not the evolutionist.

Are you going to base your life, your potential and your future and that of your kids on some lame myth? But they say God is imaginary. No, God must exist or you and I will not exist for long. No one can bring life out of dead matter.

Prove it to yourself. God expects you and me to and says so in 1 Thessalonians 5:21 'Prove all things; hold fast that which is good.' How? Look at the creation, its complexities and the information locked up in the DNA. Think deeply about this reality. Then compare all the research you can find there with the Bible, its scientific facts, its on-the-ground proofs you can actually go to and find for yourself, like the real Mount Sinai, the remains of Sodom, Gomorrah, Admah, Zebohim and Bela, Golgotha, Mount Horeb and the Split Rock, just to name a few. These are clearly located and mentioned in the text of the Holy Bible. Read it for yourself and compare it to what's on the ground in the land of the Bible, Israel, Iraq, Saudi Arabia and the entire Middle East.

It's found in Genesis 19:24 'Then the LORD rained upon Sodom and upon Gomorrah brimstone and fire from the LORD out of heaven; 25 And he overthrew those cities, and all the plain, and all the inhabitants of the cities, and that which grew upon the ground.'

If you can't go to the Middle East and check it this out for yourself, check out the YouTube Videos uploaded by those who have gone there. The Bible is the real truth, not pretense like evolution. But don't trust me, prove it for yourself. Believe the proof. God is there.

8. Q. Isn't belief in the un-provable as if it were real, the same as 'pretense'? Is this smart or 'bright'? Isn't doing this what Psycho Therapists call Neurosis?

A. There is none so blind as those who will not see. Being willingly ignorant is not bliss. After watching hundreds of YouTube ® videos uploaded by the evolutionary ‘establishment’, I have noticed several threads running through them all:

1. None of them are really on an honest quest for truth, or they would have to accept Jesus as Creator, Lord and King of their lives.
2. All of them have a grudge against God for some reason, usually a good reason (Such as Christians not behaving like their Lord.)
3. None of them answer any questions directly.
4. All of them claim they have such ‘overwhelming evidence’ that only fools and ignoramuses dare question them, but their speech lacks authenticity; there’s no real proof; instead they are good at side-stepping the issues.
5. They refuse to debate creation scientists who are better than them at presenting and defending hard evidence.
6. All of them are very intelligent and articulate, yet they don’t seem to think very deeply about anything and they don’t care about truth or facts.
7. They suppress their own normal spiritual and emotional senses, leaving them angry, disgruntled and hostile.
8. They all don’t want to give up their immoral lifestyles.
9. They all use vulgar, obscene, perverse or foul language against God and/or creationists.
10. Evolutionists are necessarily and universally a very unhappy, unthankful lot; after all, who are they going to thank for all the good in their lives?
11. Their joy and contentment is noticeably missing, even when they make fun of creationists.
12. They have no future to expect or look forward to.

Neurosis is stupid behavior by non-stupid people. That sums up evolutionists. It is stupid to pretend there is no God, and then make fun of those who know and obey him. But that’s the crux of the matter, isn’t it. They don’t want to obey him and turn from their wicked ways. They are afraid of feeling guilty. They fear having to own up to their sins and they are afraid God will make them loose something. Maybe they'd have to give up a relationship, status or money.

Maybe they really do fear God after all and don't realize it. Trouble is they don't care enough to serve him and love him, even though he gave his all to save their necks. He only wants to give them permanent pain-free life, but they smack his hand away every time. Now is that 'bright'?

Notice what the Psalmist says in Psalm 14:1 'The fool hath said in his heart, 'There is no God.' They are corrupt, they have done abominable works, there is none that does good. 2 The LORD looked down from heaven upon the children of men, to see if there were any that did understand, and seek God. 3 They are all gone aside, they are all together become filthy: there is none that doeth good, no, not one.'

At any rate, they are not honest and they don't care that without God they have no future. They just want to be happy, but are not concerned with tomorrow. Perhaps they should rethink their definition of happiness, for without God, we are nothing, but God will still be God, if that is what we become. We cannot hurt God, in that sense, but he loves you too much not to give you an opportunity to have a future with him. What have you got to loose? Everything.

With God you have a great unending future life. Without him your life will end and never come again. Is that somehow desirable?

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'evolution is neurotic' or 'is it bright to ignore God?'

9. Q. Why are there no transitional forms in the fossil record?

A. Darwin thought and taught that even though there were no transitional life forms found up to his day that the more archeologists searched for them, the more they would find. There should be millions of them. Catastrophically for evolutionists, there still are none that have been found. Some have been contrived from bone and teeth fragments, but later confirmed to be fraudulent.

Evolutionists gloss over this by saying maybe the bodies were too soft and rotted away before they could become fossilized. But virtually ALL fossil animals were buried suddenly, instantly. So, even though their bodies were soft, the outline of the animals and even some body parts have been found. Some fossil animals were buried while eating their breakfast and still have food in their mouths. So the soft body theory collapses under scrutiny.

Fossils don't come with dates or name tags. A team of fifty evolutionary biologists, if working independently, may come up with fifty different interpretations for fossils or fossil fragments, as to what kind of animal it once was. No one on earth really knows for sure. The exact shape and size, hair color, weight and height, skin or scale type, etc. cannot always be determined. But it is not really about the evidence; it's about the world view. No transitional forms will ever be found because of the so-called Cambrian explosion. That is where the majority of life forms, most of which are still around today, suddenly burst on to the world stage. If they all appeared suddenly in geological terms, then what or who caused it to happen?

Even Richard Dawkins said it may have been a case where life on Earth was seeded by a superior being from another planet. The term 'pan-spermia' was coined to describe this idea. Trouble is Andromeda, our next closest neighborhood galaxy is about 2.5 million light years from Earth and that distance alone precludes any possibility of carbon-based life being transported and seeded on Earth from there, even if frozen for millions of years. There is no known space vehicle or power that would make the trip possible.

Give it up! There is coming a time when all who live shall believe in Jesus and trust him. By that I mean the entire world and all its inhabitants, including you and all that you know and love.

Notice: Isaiah 11:1-9 'And there shall come forth a rod out of the stem of Jesse, and a Branch shall grow out of his roots: 2 And the spirit of the LORD shall rest upon him, the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the spirit of counsel and might, the spirit of knowledge and of the fear of the LORD; 3 And shall make him of quick understanding in the fear of the LORD: and he shall not judge after the sight of his eyes, neither reprove after the hearing of his ears:

4 But with righteousness shall he judge the poor, and reprove with equity for the meek of the earth: and he shall smite the earth with the rod of his mouth, and with the breath of his lips shall he slay the wicked. 5 And righteousness shall be the girdle of his loins, and faithfulness the girdle of his reins.

6 The wolf also shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid; and the calf and the young lion and the fatling together; and a little child shall lead them. 7 And the cow and the bear shall feed; their young ones shall lie down together: and the lion shall eat straw like the ox. 8 And the sucking child shall play on the hole of the asp, and the weaned child shall put his hand on the cockatrice' den. 9 They shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain: for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the LORD, as the waters cover the sea.

See also Romans 1:11 'For it is written, 'As I live', says the Lord, 'every knee shall bow to me, and every tongue shall confess to God. 12 So then every one of us shall give account of himself to God. And Philippians 2:5 Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus: 6 Who, being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God: 7 But made himself of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a servant, and was made in the likeness of men: 8 And being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross. 9 Wherefore God also has highly exalted him, and given him a name which is above every name: 10 That at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in heaven, and things in earth, and things under the earth; 11 And that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.

Even animals know better than to bite the hand that feed them. But people sometimes display less intelligence and slap away the hand who loves them and provides for them life. Why not stop fighting against God? What have you got to lose?

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'no transitional life forms' or 'the Cambrian explosion' or 'at the name of Jesus'

10. Q. Is Natural Selection capable of advancing a creature into a 'higher life form'?

A. No. It's all about genes, chromosomes, DNA, RNA and the like. We are still just beginning to learn about all this and scientists wonder if they will ever be able to magnify the cell large enough to see the smallest particle. But evolution has many scientific problems, one of which is the idea that mutations cause upgrades. Mutations do not cause upgrades, even if given millions of years or billions of generations.

Mutations are never beneficial and never add new information on which must be present in order to build or change body plans into some other life form. Natural selection must have something to select. If information is missing or damaged, there is nothing to select from and no good will result. It is fantasy to suggest otherwise. Ask any honest scientist. It just doesn't happen. No one has ever observed it and no one ever will.

But Charles Darwin, in his books 'Origin of the Species' and 'The Decent of Man' claims through multitudinous word-obese prose how this fantasy resulted in mankind. Darwin had no clue about what a cell was. He thought it was a blob of tissue, for that was all the microscopes of the day could display. He would be embarrassed by all his writings if he were to be resurrected today and find all this out. Yet, because people love darkness rather than light, we still find it promoted as truth in virtually every biology book.

Today, we have magnified the cell a lot but still its mysteries lie outside the grasp of science. We really have no clue what makes those living factory-cities we call 'cells' work. We cannot and will never be able to bring forth life by fiat. We may as well accept that fact, for that is reality, like it or not. There is no getting around it. Darwin was wrong. There has to be a Maker who lives outside our time domain and inclusive of the entire universe. He is Spirit and much bigger and much more powerful than we can imagine.

Fortunately for you and me, this Great Being loves us and wants only our good. Notice the words of Jesus in John 3:18 He that believes on him is not condemned: but he that believes not is condemned already, because he has not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God. 19 And this is the condemnation, that light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil. 20 For every one that does evil hates the light, neither comes to the light, lest his deeds should be reproved. <sup>21</sup> But he that does truth cometh to the light, that his deeds may be made manifest, that they are wrought in God.

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: ‘Darwin and the cell’ or ‘where did everything come from?’

11. Q. Doesn’t all life come from pre-existing life of the same kind? Then, why do Evolutionists say just the opposite?

A. The claims of the evolutionists are that there is such a thing as trans-kind migration. In other words, evolution says one kind of animal can and did indeed transform into a completely different kind. But sadly for the evolutionists, this has never been observed, nor has it ever been demonstrated in any lab on earth. This is because it is a genetic impossibility due to missing and vital information that would be necessary for that to occur.

We can breed dogs and get everything from a tea cup Chihuahua to a Great Dane, but they are still dogs. They don’t become birds, fish or reptiles. There simply is no such thing as trans-migration of kind. Darwin’s so-called ‘Tree of Life’ simply doesn’t work. It can’t. This is a permanent law established at the beginning by the Creator of life. There is no breeching this law. Horses can be bred into mules but not into monarch butterflies. Neither can reptiles turn into birds, or monkeys into humans. This is a deal-breaker for evolution. It just can’t happen.

You may ask: ‘What does the Bible have to say about this?’ Let’s go to the book of Genesis and here we read:

Genesis 1:21 ‘And God created great whales, and every living creature that moves, which the waters brought forth abundantly, after their kind, and every winged fowl after his kind: and God saw that it was good.

Verse 25: ‘And God made the beast of the earth after his kind, and cattle after their kind, and everything that creeps upon the earth after his kind: and God saw that it was good.’

Genesis 6:20 ‘Of fowls after their kind, and of cattle , after their kind of every creeping thing of the earth after his kind, two of every sort shall come unto thee, to keep them alive.’

Genesis 7:14 ‘They, and every beast after his kind, and all the cattle after their kind, and every creeping thing that creeps upon the earth after his kind, and every fowl after his kind, every bird of every sort.’

And Genesis 8:19 ‘Every beast, every creeping thing, and every fowl, and whatsoever creeps upon the earth, after their kinds, went forth out of the ark.’

From these four verses, we can easily deduce that the Bible claims all animals reproduce only after their particular kinds. This truth is scientific because it embraces the fact of life that all animals reproduce only after their own kind; not like the fallacy of evolution which claims transmigration of kinds.

So, the bottom line is that the Bible is scientific, while evolutionary dogma is not. Of course, you are free to believe whatever you want. You can believe that the ‘Flying Spaghetti Monster’ is indeed your Progenitor, but that will not make it so. As adults, we should have abandoned pretense when we grew up.

Sadly, evolutionists are still pretending. They just don’t want there to be a God they would have to revere and obey. They would rather die than believe that such a God is really there. Maybe they fear God more than some Christians seem to, but why are they so afraid of the One they pretend doesn’t even exist? He loves them regardless and wants only their best interests.

Here’s what God says about this in Ezekiel 33:11 ‘Say unto them, As I live, says the Lord GOD, I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked; but that the wicked turn from his way and live: turn, turn from your evil ways; for why will you die, O house of Israel?’ The good news is you don’t have to stay far from God. Seek him out and he will find you. Do it while you still see the light of day!

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: ‘no transmigration of kinds’ Or ‘1stbornofeve’ or ‘why evolutionists fear God’

12. Q. Isn't Science Observation, Experimentation, Replication and Notation? Yes. Then Why is Evolution none of the above except Notation?

A. Oratory, conjecture and theory do not constitute science. Science is knowledge that is repeatable, always true for all people at all times and under all circumstances. Drop a billiard ball from a tower and it will fall to the ground every time. It will never float up to the moon. That is science.

Go ahead do this experiment. It's elementary, but evolutionists say, 'No, you can't say for sure because there are no absolutes.' Is that true? Is that statement absolute? They cannot say 'There are no absolutes unless they can prove it absolutely, and they will never be able to prove that. There certainly are absolute truths. I just said one of them. Gravity always works; I recommend you don't challenge that one. Inertia always works; don't try jumping out in front of a bus on the miniscule chance it might not hit you. It will. Inertia works all the time.

If you jump out in front of a moving truck, but say 'I don't believe in trucks.' Will you avoid getting smashed? No. That is absolutely true for all people in all places and in all situations for all time to come. That is real science. Gravity, inertia, centrifugal force, aerodynamics, physics, chemistry and mathematics all come with certain laws which are constant, unchangeable and absolute.

Theory is not science. It is pre-science at best. Theory requires further investigation, experimentation and proof before it can be called science. Science is what is true, not what is pretense. We cannot arrive at truth by pretending and calling it science. This behavior is childish and not mature at all.

Are there indications of this in the Bible? Are there any science facts in the Bible? I'd have to say it is full of them. Here are just a few:

1. Rain falls and as a result the land yields its produce. Leviticus 26:4 'Then I will give you rain in due season, and the land shall yield her increase, and the trees of the field shall yield their fruit.'

2. If you churn milk it turns into butter or if you hit someone in the nose it will bleed. Proverbs 30:33 'Surely the churning of milk brings forth butter, and the wringing of the nose brings forth blood: so the forcing of wrath brings forth strife.'

3. The Earth is round and from high up people look like grasshoppers. Isaiah 40:22 'It is he that sits upon the circle of the earth, and the inhabitants thereof are as grasshoppers; that stretches out the heavens as a curtain, and spreads them out as a tent to dwell in: 23 That brings the princes to nothing; he makes the judges of the earth as vanity.'

4. The Earth 'hangs' suspended in space, is not supported below and north of the Earth is deep space. Job 26:7 'He stretches out the north over the empty place, and hangs the earth upon nothing.'

5. Dinosaur-like creatures are mentioned in the Bible. The name is the Leviathan and here is how the Bible puts it: Job 41:1 'Can you draw out leviathan with an hook? Or his tongue with a cord which you let down? 2 Can you put a hook into his nose? Or bore his jaw through with a thorn? 3 Will he make many supplications unto you? Will he speak soft words unto you? 4 Will he make a covenant with you? Will you take him for a servant forever (make him your slave)? 5 Wilt you play with him as with a bird? Or will you bind him for your maidens? 6 Shall the companions make a banquet of him? Shall they part him among the merchants? 7 Can you fill his skin with barbed irons or his head with fish spears?

8 Lay your hand upon him and you will remember the battle (for you will) do (it) no more. 9 Behold, the hope of him is in vain: shall not one be cast down even at the sight of him? 10 None is so fierce that dare stir him up: who then is able to stand before me? 11 Who hath prevented me that I should repay him? Whatsoever is under the whole heaven is mine.

12 I will not conceal his parts, nor his power, nor his comely proportion. 13 Who can discover the face of his garment? Or who can come to him with his double bridle? 14 Who can open the doors of his face? His teeth are terrible round about. 15 His scales are his pride, shut up together as with a close seal. 16 One is so near to another that no air can come between them. 17 They are joined one to another; they stick together, that they cannot be sundered. 18 By his sneezings a light does shine, and his eyes are like the eyelids of the morning.

19 Out of his mouth go burning lamps, and sparks of fire leap out. 20 Out of his nostrils goes smoke, as out of a seething pot or caldron.

21 His breath kindles coals, and a flame goes out of his mouth. 22 In his neck remains strength and sorrow is turned into joy before him. 23 The flakes of his flesh are joined together: they are firm in themselves; they cannot be moved. 24 His heart is as firm as a stone; yea, as hard as a piece of the nether millstone. 25 When he raises himself, the mighty are afraid: by reason of breakings they purify themselves.

26 The sword of him that stalks him cannot hold; the spear, the dart, nor the habergeon (coat of armor). 27 He esteems iron as straw, and brass as rotten wood. 28 The arrow cannot make him flee: sling stones are turned with him into stubble. 29 Darts are counted as stubble: he laughs at the shaking of a spear. 30 Sharp stones are under him: he spreads sharp pointed things upon the mire. 31 He makes the deep to boil like a pot: he makes the sea like a pot of ointment. 32 He makes a path to shine after him; one would think the deep to be hoary (white). 33 Upon earth there is not his like, who is made without fear. 34 He beholds all high things: he is a king over all the children of pride.'

See also Psalm 74:14, 104:26 and Isaiah 27:1. These scriptures probably refer to some kind of dinosaur, though the word 'dinosaur' which means 'terrible lizard' was not coined until paleontologist Sir Richard Owens used it to refer to a so-called sub-order of Saurian Reptiles in England in 1842.

May I refer you to www.clarifyingchristianity.com/science.shtml for more about science in the Bible? For now, let this mind be in you: 'Fear God and keep his commandments for this is the whole duty of man.' (Ecclesiastes 12:13. After all it is he who owns the Earth and the Heavens and all that in them is, including you and me. He has the power to keep you alive for all time to come or allow your death to remain permanent. Wise men choose life and the God who gave it in the first place. I hope we all utilize this wisdom.

13. Q. What does having a warehouse full of old bone fragments tagged with some made up or scientific-sounding Latin name prove?

A. In a word: Nothing.

Let's say we have been collecting thousands of bone fragments for more than 20 years. We build a giant warehouse and build aisles between floor-to-ceiling banks of drawers to put them in. Then we label each drawer by its supposed year, supposed type and supposed animal kind. We take each fragment and tag it with a name we made up in Latin so it has a scientific sounding 'ring' to it, assign a date we make up and put it in its appropriate drawer. We kept doing this until we ran out of bone chips, but we keep collecting the musty fragments for 50 years. Would all that effort, time and expense constitute proof of anything? Only that we were foolish enough to waste our precious energy and resources like that.

No one really knows what animal a bone fragment or fossil came from, what part of the earth it is from, how old it is or if the animal kind it came from still exists or not. These exercises only show the desperation of wanna-be scientists to hold on to an outdated theory that has been and will continue to be roundly impugned by real science. Give it up. There is no manufacturing of legitimate data proving evolution to be the real way mankind arose.

But, alas, it really is not about the science or the evidence at all. It's about lifestyle choices. Instead we all should be turning to our Bibles to find the God who is our Creator, Sustainer and Provider. It is he we are really looking for. Any other way leads nowhere. Life is far too complex for there to be no Creator. Let's see what this Creator says to skeptics.

2 Timothy 3:1 This know also, that in the last days perilous times shall come. 2 For men shall be lovers of their own selves, covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy, 3 Without natural affection, trucebreakers, false accusers, incontinent, fierce, despisers of those that are good, 4 Traitors, heady, high-minded, lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God; 5 Having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof: from such turn away. 6 For of this sort are they which creep into houses, and lead captive silly women laden with sins, led away with divers lusts, 7 Ever learning, and never able to come to the knowledge of the truth.

Then in verse 13 But evil men and seducers shall wax worse and worse, deceiving, and being deceived. 14 But continue you in the things which you have learned and have been assured of, knowing of whom you have learned them; 15 And that from a child you have known the holy scriptures, which are able to make you wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus. 16 All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: 17 that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works.'

Evolution goes nowhere: when you die, that's it. With evolution, we have no future and no hope. Is that what you want? Not me. Life has so much more to offer. With God, there is a great plan for your life. You have a future with your Creator. He wants your best because he loves you. That's why he made you in the first place. All you need to do is seek him. He will find you if you seek him with a whole heart.

14. Q. Why, if Evolution is real, does 'Fossil Record' support the Bible but not Darwin?

A. First of all, fossils cannot tell us dates or 'scientific' names. They can tell us that they were buried suddenly and not over 'millions of years'. The flood of Noah's day, according to the Bible, was a catastrophic global event which instantly killed both man and beast, including fishes. Their remains are found intact at the top of mountain ranges in the rock strata with their breakfast still in their mouths, proving they were buried suddenly, unexpectedly and catastrophically.

If evolution is true and these animals were buried gradually, their flesh and bones would have disintegrated long before the first thousand years elapsed. This would have left no fossils at all. They had to be buried suddenly and unexpectedly. A fish fossil has been found with a smaller fish halfway down its throat. Another was found which had been buried in the middle of giving birth.

Thousands of pottery fragments have been found with pictograms on the side showing men killing dinosaurs (dragons). If they died out millions of years before the age of man, why would these pictograms exist all over the earth? The Bible says in the book of Job that men and the Leviathan co-existed and that this dragon-like creature actually breathed fire. This is what is depicted in many Peruvian and Chinese pictograms. The fossil record thus supports the Bible. The more fossils are dug up, the more the evidence accumulates corroborating the truth of the Bible.

But it's not just ancient fossils but archeological findings that have been found that backup the Creator God of the Bible. The Red Sea Crossing place of the ancient Israelites has at long last been found. There is a beach on the western shore of the Red Sea that would be capable of holding 3 million people. Between this area and the eastern shore is a land bridge about 900 feet down at the deepest part. If you were to explore to the north and to the south of this land bridge you would plummet to depths of several thousand feet.

Divers thoroughly scanned this land bridge and found parts of ancient Egyptian chariot, horse hooves and human remains. Wheels, axles and other pieces lie strewn about over the sea floor. At both the eastern and western shores, these same explorers found stone pillars marking the points of entry where the Israelites ingressed and egressed to and from the seashore.

The pillars once had inscriptions in ancient Hebrew detailing the reasons the pillars were erected to commemorate the crossing locations. They have since been relocated and defaced to remove the inscriptions which might verify the Bible and nullify other religious texts of the peoples who live in the area today. Check out the videos below for more details and pictorial proof the bible is real.

Notice the song Moses and the children of Israel sang rejoicing after their dramatic rescue by God at the Red Sea Crossing in Exodus 15:1 'Then sang Moses and the children of Israel this song unto the LORD, and spoke, saying, I will sing unto the LORD, for he has triumphed gloriously: the horse and his rider has he thrown into the sea. 2 The LORD is my strength and song, and he is become my salvation: he is my God, and I will prepare him a habitation; my father's God, and I will exalt him.

3 The LORD is a man of war: the LORD is his name. 4 Pharaoh's chariots and his host has he cast into the sea: his chosen captains also are drowned in the Red sea. 5 The depths have covered them: they sank into the bottom as a stone.

6 Your right hand, O LORD, is become glorious in power: your right hand, O LORD, has dashed in pieces the enemy. 7 And in the greatness of your Excellency you have overthrown them that rose up against you: you sent forth your wrath, which consumed them as stubble. 8 And with the blast of your nostrils the waters were gathered together, the floods stood upright as a heap, and the depths were congealed in the heart of the sea.'

This text was written thousands of years ago and the proof has now been made public. See the YouTube® videos I reference below. If the Bible was not inspired by God, the One who spans the millennia and is powerful to deliver the children of Israel just as he said he would with mighty miracles, then none of these things would have been written or preserved for us to find. And had he not done this, there would be nothing left 'on-the-ground' for us to find; but there really is. How much 'on-the-ground' proof does one need, millions of tons? You've got it!

15. Q. Why are mutations usually fatal, harmful or neutral and never add new information or material if mutations are what Evolution used to build all living things?

A. It's mythical to imagine mutations as something beneficial. Mutations do not add the genetic information to create any benefit to the cell. Random mutations and natural selection do not have the creative power to assemble even the 'simplest' living cell.

Even if you have ALL of the ingredients needed to assemble this cell, you would still be light-years away from the power to ‘cook’ the ingredients into an actual living cell. Dead is dead and cannot be ‘jump started’ into life by a mere spark out of nowhere. There MUST be a Power strong enough to get it going and keep it going. That Power is God Almighty.

Here’s a statement from esteemed evolutionary High Priest Richard Dawkins: ‘Cumulative selection is the key to all our modern explanations of life. It strings a series of acceptably lucky events (random mutations) together in a nonrandom sequence so that, at the end of the sequence, the finished product carries the illusion of being very, very lucky indeed.’ -Richard Dawkins, The Blind Watchmaker.

Even if Dawkins’ statement was real and there really was such a thing as ‘luck’ and it could work, there is still a prohibitive missing factor: new information. In addition, real science indicates ‘cumulative selection’ cannot ‘string a series’ of random mutations together in an appropriately ordered sequence to create life. The idea is ludicrous, for mutations are not beneficial and they cannot add the necessary information to the DNA to build anything new. Therefore, there is no possibility of the transmigration of kinds, which is to say that one life form cannot turn into some other form, even if given the ‘millions of years’ evolutionist claim would provide it.

But let’s suppose it could. The spark of life is still missing and without that, life will simply not happen. It’s a non-physical, non-material and non-chemical component necessary for life. Evolution cannot account for this and it never will be able to. The theory of evolution is in crisis and is on the verge of being laughed out of existence as the biggest farce ever foisted off on gullible mankind. Let’s stop pretending.

The Bible says God himself breathed into mans nostrils the breath of life. Notice Genesis 2:7 ‘And the LORD God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living being.’

God spoke the universe into being and it was created. That is real power humans can’t even imagine. Notice Genesis 1:1 In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth. 2 And the earth was without form, and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters.

3 And God said, Let there be light: and there was light. 4 And God saw the light, that it was good: and God divided the light from the darkness. 5 And God called the light Day, and the darkness he called Night. And the evening [1] and the morning were the first day.

6 And God said, Let there be a firmament [2] in the midst of the waters, and let it divide the waters from the waters. 7 And God made the firmament, and divided the waters which were under the firmament from the waters which were above the firmament: and it was so. 8 And God called the firmament Heaven. And the evening and the morning were the second day.

9 And God said, Let the waters under the heaven be gathered together unto one place, and let the dry land appear: and it was so. 10 And God called the dry land Earth; and the gathering together of the waters called he Seas: and God saw that it was good. 11 And God said, Let the earth bring forth grass, [3] the herb yielding seed, and the fruit tree yielding fruit after his kind, whose seed is in itself, upon the earth: and it was so. 12 And the earth brought forth grass, and herb yielding seed after his kind, and the tree yielding fruit, whose seed was in itself, after his kind: and God saw that it was good. 13 And the evening and the morning were the third day.

14 And God said, Let there be lights in the firmament of the heaven to divide the day [4] from the night; and let them be for signs, and for seasons, and for days, and years: 15 And let them be for lights in the firmament of the heaven to give light upon the earth: and it was so. 16 And God made two great lights; the greater light to rule the day, [5] and the lesser light to rule the night: he made the stars also. 17 And God set them in the firmament of the heaven to give light upon the earth, 18 And to rule over the day and over the night, and to divide the light from the darkness: and God saw that it was good. 19 And the evening and the morning were the fourth day.

20 And God said, Let the waters bring forth abundantly the moving creature that hath life, and fowl that may fly above the earth in the open firmament of heaven. 21 And God created great whales, and every living creature that moveth, which the waters brought forth abundantly, after their kind, and every winged fowl after his kind: and God saw that it was good. 22 And God blessed them, saying, Be fruitful, and multiply, and fill the waters in the seas, and let fowl multiply in the earth. 23 And the evening and the morning were the fifth day.

24 And God said, Let the earth bring forth the living creature after his kind, cattle, and creeping thing, and beast of the earth after his kind: and it was so. 25 And God made the beast of the earth after his kind, and cattle after their kind, and everything that creeps upon the earth after his kind: and God saw that it was good.

26 And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creeps upon the earth. 27 So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them. 28 And God blessed them, and God said unto them, Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it: and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over every living thing that moves upon the earth.

29 And God said, Behold, I have given you every herb bearing seed, which is upon the face of all the earth, and every tree, in the which is the fruit of a tree yielding seed; to you it shall be for meat. 30 And to every beast of the earth, and to every fowl of the air, and to everything that creeps upon the earth, wherein there is life, I have given every green herb for meat: and it was so.

31 And God saw everything that he had made, and, behold, it was very good. And the evening and the morning were the sixth day.

16. Q. Why is it that mathematical probabilities preclude chance producing life while they strongly favor the realness of Jesus?

A. I'm not a statistical mathematician by trade, so I must rely on those who are. So, what are the chances Jesus is real and we have historical and statistical proof?

Just how many prophecies are there in the Old Testament about Jesus?

Just Google it: Type in 'PROPHECIES ABOUT JESUS'. Click on one that looks interesting and check it out. One I thought looked inviting claimed over 400 references in the OT. What are the chances of all of them from more than 40 writers being fulfilled by one man?

One statistician claims the odds are astronomical at 1 chance in 10 to the 47th. That is 10 with 47 zeroes behind it. Scientifically, that is overkill impossible.

17. Q. Why can't Evolution explain forces like Gravity, Magnetism, Inertia, Centrifugal, Electricity, Light, Gamma Rays, X-rays, Sound, Nuclear, etc?

A. Because evolution only deals with flora and fauna, plants and animals; not with physics. The bigger question would then be: how did all these forces arise and what keeps them in motion and harmony? Scientists have NO IDEA what these really are, how they came to be, how they stay in place, how they all work symbiotically or why the whole gamut of physics relates to mankind and his future! The bottom line is that we humans believe and trust in many things we can't see. God should be considered as well.

18. Q. What about the whole gamut of human emotions? What about love... brotherly, romantic and Godly love? How do we humans have all these exclusively (because they are missing in the animal kingdom)?

A. Human life is a near God-plane life. We have near God-level emotions and love. There is simply no other explanation. They are gifts and they do NOT arise on their own by random collocations of molecules. Science has no explanation of the phenomenon. It is a product of the mind and cannot be explained by chemistry.

Logically, if evolution was really how we got here, animals would have these characteristics too. Why don't they? The logical answer is that they were never programmed by their Creator to have them. Evolution simply does not have explanatory power over anything, let alone the intricate complexities of the mind.

Love, romance, kindness, etc. cannot be quantified or measured by lab instruments. Yet they are the most powerful and influential powers we can experience.

19. How is it that astronomers are discovering new galaxies clusters that were not there the day or week before, and they do this on a regular basis?

A. Only God can continue to build new worlds. He is apparently not done building the universe. I doubt he ever will be done. It's how he likes to live! The Big Bang is a Big Bust because it is woefully insufficient to explain this. There is much scientific evidence against this naïve assumption. The more I research the Big Bang, the worse it looks for this outmoded theory.

Suffice it to say for now there are VOLUMES out there dispelling this myth. Learn about this by Googling: 'big bang exposed'.

20. Q. If we know ‘less than 1% of anything’, isn’t it probable God exists in the 99% we don’t know about?

A. That depends on what you already know. By now, you may have lived long enough to have figure out life is far too complex to have ‘just happened’. As said previously, we all believe in many things we can’t see.

The atheists do have a valid point in the idea that man made the other gods themselves and that manmade gods are not the God who made the Heavens and the Earth, so they are all essentially worthless. But the God I’m talking about DID make the universe, all the Stars, Moons, Galaxies and Planets. He then created mankind and all life forms, of which there are billions on earth.

If you still can’t wrap your brain around this concept of a Great Super-Natural Being, try looking at the night sky. Try going to your iTunes ‘GoSkyWatch’, ‘Stellarium’ or ‘Go StarGaze’ app. You will be astounded at the vastness of space and we can’t really see all of it. In fact, we may be able to see only about 1% of it. It didn’t make itself!

21. Q. Where did the genius to assemble the human body come from?

A. Look at the systems in your own body: Skeletal, Muscular, Skin, Circulatory, Pulmonary, Endocrine, Nervous, Digestive, Reproductive and Sensory. Each one is a marvel of Engineering, yet together, their value is infinitely greater than the sum of the individual systems. The interwoven kinetic complications and processes of the body are of themselves astonishing.

Take the male and female reproductive systems for example. Histology is the study of the female side. Even a cursory study of this science reveals that there indeed IS a Genius who built this elaborate system. With the placental connection to the mother that will not kink, yet transfers oxygen, blood and nutrients to the baby the nine month length of a normal pregnancy, is amazingly designed. Space does not permit me to go further with this, but study it for yourself and you will be dazzled by its complexity. It had to be built by a great Creator with the power to build and sustain it from generation to generation.

In addition, it all had to come into existence instantly, all systems 'GO!' or else mankind would never have gotten off the ground in the first place. Evolution has no scientific explanation for this sudden and lasting performance.

22. Q. If all Darwin saw through his meager microscope was a blurred glob of tissue when looking at a cell, why, given the Electron Microscopes of today which reveal the inner workings of the cell on a molecular level, why should we trust Darwin's simplistic explanations?

A. The elegance of structure of the Cell. The closer we look the more complex life gets. This is totally unexpected by the evolutionary model. Proponents of evolution still claim life began billions of years ago in an ancient warm pond on the early earth. They say that it self-assembled by chemistry into bubble-like structures that eventually formed into complex molecules and began replicating. Over time, they paired with others to form into every life form we see today.

These are mostly adults saying such things, but this sounds so juvenile it's almost laughable and would be, if it were not so pathetic. Some even assert these cells arrived here from outer space. They reason that the first cells had to come here from outer space because they are unable to demonstrate that life can spring into existence by chemical spontaneity. Other more honest and forthright scientists disagree.

In 2008, Professor of Biology Alexandre Meinesz of the University of Chicago wrote in his book: 'How Life Began--Evolution's Three Geneses' said 'no empirical evidence supports the hypothesis of the spontaneous appearance of life on Earth from nothing but a molecular soup, and no significant advance in scientific knowledge leads in this direction.'

Scientists and Researchers have found that for a cell to survive, at least three different types of complex molecules must work in harmony: DNA (deoxyribonucleic acid), RNA (ribonucleic acid), and proteins. But even if these all came together at the same time under ideal conditions, they would not spring to life in a complete living cell without the other parts of the cell being present and the missing ‘spark’ that would cause them to come alive.

One scientist put it this way: ‘It’s not as great a leap of faith to believe that humans evolved from a bacterium as it is to believe that dead matter suddenly sprang into a bacterium from undirected natural causes.’ Few honest scientists today really believe that a complete living cell self-assembled by chance from a mix of non-living chemicals, even in the most ideal of circumstances.

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: ‘Darwin’s microscope’ ‘the complexity of the cell’

23. Q. Isn’t the gap between dead matter and living matter is greater than the gap between a ‘simple’ organism and a human?

A. Yes. It is a greater leap from rock to a living ameba than from an ameba to a human. But, unfortunately for evolutionists, neither of these is what is real. What is real is that living things come only from pre-existing living things of the same kind. It had to come from a greater to a lesser, not from a lesser to a greater. First graders know that.

Parents do not come from their children, but children from their parents. The parents had to be there first, or the children could not be born. All life is like this. Life does not spontaneously spring into existence, yet evolutionists insist it does. There are billions of life forms on earth and all of them had pre-existing parents. Everyone knows this.

Those who will not acknowledge this truth are simply in denial. But the gap between dead matter and living matter is undeniable and impossible to bridge just by adding billions of years. Even if billions of years were added, dead matter would still not be living. That is a fact of life. Anything else is fantasy.

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: ‘gap between life and dead matter’ or pre-existing parents’

24. Q. Only God can sustain the universe and keep it going. True or False?

A. Go ahead. I dare you. Make a blade of grass. Make an ameba. Make green slime. If you cannot do the creative work of bringing a 'simple' life form into being, how much less can you bring about a universe? Can you sustain anything... even your own life? What if God does exist and he took away his food, water, air and your heartbeat?

Could you keep alive though your mighty power? No. Then how could the universe just explode on the scene under its own power and then sustain itself? Don't you think as I do that if God does exist, he would have known skeptics would come on the scene and he would have addressed them in his word?

One place God does this is in the Book of Job, Chapter 38-42:

'Then the LORD answered Job out of the whirlwind, and said, 2 Who is this that darkeneth counsel by words without knowledge? 3 Gird up now your loins like a man; for I will demand of you, and answer you me.

4 Where was you when I laid the foundations of the earth? declare, if you has understanding. 5 Who has laid the measures thereof, if you know? or who has stretched the line upon it? 6 Whereupon are the foundations thereof fastened? or who laid the corner stone thereof; 7 When the morning stars sang together, and all the sons of God shouted for joy? 8 Or who shut up the sea with doors, when it broke forth, as if it had issued out of the womb? 9 When I made the cloud the garment thereof, and thick darkness a swaddling band for it, 10 And brake up for it my decreed place, and set bars and doors, 11 And said, Hitherto shall you come, but no further: and here shall your proud waves be stayed?

12 Have you commanded the morning since your days; and caused the dayspring to know his place; 13 that it might take hold of the ends of the earth, that the wicked might be shaken out of it? 14 It is turned as clay to the seal; and they stand as a garment. 15 And from the wicked their light is withheld, and the high arm shall be broken. 16 Have you entered into the springs of the sea? or has you walked in the search of the depth? 17 Have the gates of death been opened unto you? or has you seen the doors of the shadow of death? 18 Have you perceived the breadth of the earth? Declare if you know it all. 19 Where is the way where light dwell? And as for darkness, where is the place thereof, 20 That you should take it to the bound thereof, and that you should know the paths to the house thereof? 21 Do you know it, because you were born already? Or because the number of your days is great? 22 Have you entered into the treasures of the snow? Or has you seen the treasures of the hail, 23 Which I have reserved against the time of trouble, against the day of battle and war? 24 By what way is the light parted, which scatters the east wind upon the earth?

25 Who has divided a watercourse for the overflowing of waters, or a way for the lightning of thunder; 26 To cause it to rain on the earth, where no man is; on the wilderness, wherein there is no man; 27 To satisfy the desolate and waste ground; and to cause the bud of the tender herb to spring forth? 28 Has the rain a father? Or who has begotten the drops of dew? 29 Out of whose womb came the ice? And the hoary frost of heaven, which has gendered it? 30 The waters are hid as with a stone, and the face of the deep is frozen. 31 Can you bind the sweet influences of Pleiades, or lose the bands of Orion? 32 can you bring forth Mazzaroth in his season? or can you guide Arcturus with his sons? 33 Do you know you the ordinances of heaven? Can you set the dominion thereof in the earth? 34 Can you lift up your voice to the clouds, that abundance of waters may cover you? 35 Can you send lightnings that they may go, and say unto you, ‘Here we are.’? 36 Who has put wisdom in the inward parts? Or who has given understanding to the heart? 37 Who can number the clouds in wisdom? Or who can stay the bottles of heaven, 38 when the dust grows into hardness, and the clods cleave fast together? 39 Wilt you hunt the prey for the lion? Or fill the appetite of the young lions, 40 when they couch in their dens, and abide in the covert to lie in wait? 41 Who provides for the raven his food? When his young ones cry unto God, they wander for lack of meat.

25. Q. Made up authority is no authority at all. Are Biology and evolutionary textbooks authoritative just because they are ‘in print’?

A. In a word: no. Setting type or using a computer to generate text does not make truth. But if it looks like a duck, sounds like a duck and waddles like a duck... it's a duck. Right? Not necessarily. It might just be a quack. Sounding or looking authentic is not the same as being authentic. Look closely. Look inside. Look at motives. What really makes them tick? Do the math. Do your homework. Get to the bottom of it. Use whatever cliché you want, but don't believe it just because it is in print. Don't believe me just because I say so; prove it beyond a reasonable doubt.

I may use hundreds of made-up but scientific-sounding words, names and phrases to concoct a plausible scientific-sounding story of life's origin and print it in a book. But that does not make it so. It's fiction, gobble-de-goop and tripe. It's a waste of ink & paper. Anything God-skeptics write or say should automatically be looked at critically. Is it real science or just one of their fancy yet bitter diatribes against the God who alone offers them life? I suggest you do your own thinking instead of allowing others to do your thinking and decision making for you.

Real science is testable, repeatable and verifiable every time it's tested and it is true for all people everywhere at all times. Prove all things; hold fast to that which is good. (1 Thessalonians 5:21)

26. Q. Do evolutionists try to get rid of God and thus get rid of their guilt?

A. If mental gymnastics is all it takes to get rid of the guilt, just pretend there is no God and he's gone and so is the guilt. But, if you are honest with yourself, you know this doesn't really work. Evolutionists are all in denial of an important reality. One day, they will find out for sure there is indeed a God and that he is a Force to be reckoned with.

All religions, including evolution (where their god is nothing), exist to absolve man from guilt. All of them created a god or gods in their own image. They made the gods they worship. They are all fake and in my opinion detrimental to human advancement. But before you get mad at me for saying this, let me say that true Christianity is not a religion at all, though a large body calling themselves 'the church' claims it is THE religion.

Religion is men seeking God. True Christianity is God seeking men. He's the one choosing a people out of all kindreds and tongues for his name to build for himself a peculiar people ready for his Kingdom.

People may believe in their version of God by the millions, but that does not make their image into the real God. Where's the truth? Where's the proof? Let's find it, pursue it and retain nothing but. The only real way to get rid of guilt is to run to God, not from him.

You are involved in the quest to find the one and only True God, or you would not be accessing this material. We should all prove to our own satisfaction that God really does indeed exist. We should be able to find millions of tons of on-the-ground evidence for his existence and that the Bible, as his divinely inspired word, is indeed the word of God. For example: in Genesis 19 we find where God overthrew the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah by burning them to ashes along with Bela, Admah and Zeboim (cities of the plain).

According to the biblical account, God rained fire and brimstone on the cities and no one escaped alive. You can still find golf ball-sized pieces of brimstone, embedded in the layers of ash, that will actually burn, even after lying there dormant for more than 3,000 years. The sulfur content is white instead of the normal earth-typical yellow and is more than 99% pure, unlike the earth-typical type which is only about 70% pure sulfur.

By traveling to the State of Israel along the western shore of the Dead Sea, we can find the remains of these burn-out cities. Now, we can see videos taken by those fortunate enough to go there and video what they experienced. How many millions of tons of ash would it take for you to believe God is real and his word is true? YouTube ® has many such videos. May I suggest you view them and believe what you see or go there yourself and bring back physical evidence you will accept?

Instead of throwing the baby out with the bath water and giving up on God because of some real or imagined grievance against the church or some 'Christian', why not get rid of guilt the right way and just ask God to forgive you? Just go somewhere off by yourself and ask God in earnest to show up in your thoughts. He will reward you if you diligently seek him and not give up.

27. Q. Physical Laws demand a Lawgiver. True or False?

A. True. Evolution says nothing about physics or natural law. Gravity, inertia, centrifugal force, magnetism, electricity, radio, light, sound and other forces like the strong and weak nuclear forces... where did they come from? How do they operate and sustain themselves? Another law says that lesser forces can only come from greater forces, so all physical laws must originate and perpetuate from a higher, greater force. These effects and powers demand a Lawgiver. That would be God.

In addition, no ‘big bang’ has the power to explode such an orderly, complicated, vast and precise universe into being. The whole idea is absurd. The big bang model just doesn’t work, as many scientists have now come to see. Just Google® ‘How the Big Bang fell out of favor or go to Physics forums like <http://www.physicsforums.com/showthread.php?t=228943> and you will find no shortage of credible resources debunking the whole thing.

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: ‘physical laws prove God’

28. Q. If the majority of scientists believe in evolution, doesn’t that make it the truth?

A. Trust no man. Why take man’s word over God’s? The Holy Bible states in Psalms 146:3-4 that we should not trust men: ‘3 Put not your trust in princes, nor in the son of man, in whom there is no help. 4 His breath goes forth, he returns to his earth; in that very day his thoughts perish.’

Let’s say there are 10 billion people on the planet and 9.9 billion of them believe that the moon was made of Swiss cheese. Would you believe it just because the majority does? If you do, you may as well believe the world is flat. The Bible shows that people have known that the earth is round for thousands of years. (See Isaiah 40:22-24) The Bible’s science is accurate. Check it out for yourself. Read the book.

Men invented the theory of evolution. It is strictly imaginary and cannot be verified with any degree of certainty. So what make it science? We can verify the Bible through historical documentation, on-the-ground-remains and spiritual revelation, all of which are denied or rejected by those still adhering to the faith of evolution.

There are several people like Herod and Pilate positioned in the specific times in history. You could travel to Saudi Arabia and find the real Mount Sinai (See YouTube Videos on this.) If you were a real Christian and in constant contact with Jesus through the Holy Spirit, you could know the spiritual advantages granted by the influence of the Holy Spirit. It's a mind-to-mind experience... that 'still small voice' which guides, protects, delivers and strengthens. Research ancient documents like the complete works of Josephus where you will find the historical figures mentioned in the Bible, particularly in Luke 2.

Various historical works are corroborated by even a cursory study of the Bible. Therefore, it is logical to trust its veracity. We all should be careful to do our own research and believe only what we can find revealed.

29. Q. Is there truth in science? What is truth?

A. Classic words recorded in John 18:38 as being said by none other than Pontius Pilate as he interrogated Jesus at one of his pre-crucifixion trials. Truth is more than just what is true. It is a body of verifiable knowledge, wisdom and laws that govern life. Jesus said 'Thy word is truth.' in John 17:17. This clearly tells us Jesus believed in the 'old testament' as being the word of God and that it would always be valid. Truth is like that. It is good for all people at all times and in ever circumstance.

Many true Biblical statements have been confirmed by science. There is some truth in science, at least if your definition of truth is whatever is true. In fact, most of what science publishes is true because it is repeatable by experimentation. This leaves evolution out in the cold with no clothes because it is not testable, repeatable or verifiable. But the real question is: Is what is true, what the Bible refers to as truth? Many statements are true that are not found in the Bible. And many true statements

It is also established by the Bible, such as the fact that the earth is round. (See Isaiah 40:22 for example: 21 Have you not known? have you not heard? has it not been told you from the beginning? have you not understood from the foundations of the earth? 22 It is he that sits upon the circle of the earth, and the inhabitants thereof are as grasshoppers; that stretches out the heavens as a curtain, and spreads them out as a tent to dwell in:)

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: ‘truth’ ‘science or bible’

30. Atheists seem to prefer death instead of life. Why not choose life? It beats the alternative by light-years.

A. Because men love darkness rather than light for their deeds are evil. This is a quote from the lips of none other than Jesus himself recorded in John 3:18 ‘He that believeth on him is not condemned: but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he has not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God. 19 And this is the condemnation, that light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil.’

Evolution has nowhere to go. There is no future there; only death. Who wants to be dead forever? Life offers much, but death offers an eternity of nothing. Choose life! (See bible.cc/deuteronomy/30-19.htm or Google® Deuteronomy 30:19.)

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: ‘atheists would rather die’

31. Only God can accurately foretell the future because only he can span the course of time. True or False?

A. True. In order to tell the end from the beginning, the one telling must have been there and be able to project into the future. Only God could do that. Men who claim to know the future are making educated guesses at best. But, we can know with certainty that the word of God does accurately foretell future events. Why? It has never failed yet. Even today, you can see the beginning of the fulfillment of a prophecy in Revelation 16:12 where it talks about the Euphrates river drying up: Revelation 16:12 And the sixth angel poured out his vial upon the great river Euphrates; and the water thereof was dried up, that the way of the kings of the east might be prepared.

Just go to YouTube® and you will see a stunning video by jimbonumber9 showing it happening. The word of God means business. He's not kidding or playing around. You and I better pay attention. It's for our greater good. He means life and a future for us, if we will only accept it and stop resisting him.

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'Euphrates drying up'

32. Q. Doesn't Life require a Life giver?

A. Yes, life cannot make itself and humans cannot create it by fiat. So, it is logical to conclude there must be a Life giver. Can you make even the 'simplest' life form? Even if we were given all the raw materials, the electrical energy and the know how to build the body plan, we are still light years away from being able to create life. It is beyond us. Face it. Life comes only from pre-existing life greater than the new life. That's the way the world works. The best dissertation on this subject that I have found on the Internet is: www.garnertedarmstrong.org under 'Here Is Why Many Deny GOD Exists'.

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'Lifegiver'

33. Q. God must be experienced over time, to be fully appreciated. True or False?

A. True. From my own personal experience, I have learned how to listen for and hear God's voice speaking into my mind words of life. Things always work out better for me when I listen and follow his voice, that is 'obey'. Yes, I used the un-politically correct term 'OBEY'! People do not like that word. They do not want to obey. They want to be free from having to obey anybody.

Why? Because they want their own way and will refuse to obey. No wonder their lives go bad and they end up paying for it on a bed of pain. They bring it on themselves through the freedom their own choice. Some freedoms are NOT in our own best interests. That is a hard lesson to learn these days. Almost no one is teaching it.

God must be experience over time. If you seek him diligently with all your heart over time, he will find you and come to you and live in you. It's what is best for you and me. We should all learn to grasp and embrace his love immediately, instead of resisting it. It's for our own good. He cares about you and me. Why avoid what is best for our lives and our futures?

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'God must be experienced'

34. Why do some orbs spin backwards, even in the same solar system, namely Venus, Mercury and Pluto? And some spin sideways... why?

A. The 'big bang' is really a 'big bust' scientifically. First of all the vast distances of space discovered and photographed by the Hubble Space Telescope evade all reasoning of the whole universe being compressed into a dot the size of a period at the end of a sentence. The very idea is embarrassing. Yet, it is still promulgated by the best 'thinkers' of our time.

Then, somehow, the dot exploded into all we see in the universe today. Poppycock! To teach this to our children is sheer propaganda and our kids should learn to be critical of this skepticism. Instead, they are graded on how well they absorb this baloney. When will we learn to let go of the myths of our day and accept the truth that there really IS a powerful God our Creator?

And have you ever seen an explosion result in order, beauty and harmony? Of course not! Explosions are only pretty to the ones selling dynamite. Everyone else knows they just make a big chaotic mess of things.

The limitless, beautiful and orderly universe did not come into being in a 'big bang. No these things come only by and through design. Each orb you see out there is there by design. God made them and he knows each one by the name he gave it.

Here's what the Bible shows: Psalms 147:2 The LORD doth build up Jerusalem: he gathers together the outcasts of Israel. 3 He heals the broken in heart, and binds up their wounds. 4 He tells the number of the stars; he calls them all by their names. 5 Great is our Lord, and of great power: his understanding is infinite. 6 The LORD lifts up the meek: he casts the wicked down to the ground.

21 Have you not known? Have you not heard? Has it not been told you from the beginning? have you not understood from the foundations of the earth? 22 It is he that sits upon the circle of the earth, and the inhabitants thereof are as grasshoppers; that stretches out the heavens as a curtain, and spreads them out as a tent to dwell in: 23 that brings the princes to nothing; he makes the judges of the earth as vanity. 24 Yea, they shall not be planted; yea, they shall not be sown: yea, their stock shall not take root in the earth: and he shall also blow upon them, and they shall wither, and the whirlwind shall take them away as stubble. 25 To whom then will you compare me, or shall I be equal? Says the Holy One. 26 Lift up your eyes on high, and behold who has created these things, that brings out their host by number: he calls them all by names by the greatness of his might, for that he is strong in power; not one fails.

And since there is order, beauty and harmony and these come only by design, then there has to be a Designer, Builder and Sustainer of the entire universe. We may as well get used to it. Real Science supports design and it's Designer.

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'universe designed' 'planets spin backwards'

35. If evolution is real and it requires millions of year for life to 'develop', why do all life forms come fully developed?

A. They come fully developed because they could not live nor sustain themselves or their kind any other way. They all would have died long before they could ‘develop’. Think about what would happen if the first human that ‘crawled out of the sea’ took more than seven minutes to sprout a pair of lungs. They’d be dead on the spot. No time to develop anything except rigor mortis.

They were made that way. Lungs were not gills before evolution completed them. Nothing half-evolved would have survived. It’s that simple. All life forms came into being in a flash, not over the course of ‘millions of years’. The world and the universe just do not work that way. Down deep, everyone knows this. If they refuse to acknowledge that, they are not being honest.

Though it’s really about lifestyle choices and not about the evidence, check the fossil record. There are NO transitional forms to be found anywhere on earth. There should be multiple millions of them! Where’s the evidence? Why would adults refuse to acknowledge the truth if they really wanted to find it? Reality suggests they really don’t want to find the truth, even though they claim that is ‘all they are after.

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: ‘no transitional forms’

36. Where are all the ‘transitional forms’ Evolution predicts? They should be everywhere, yet there are none to be found anywhere! Why?

A. Because there are none. They won’t ever be found because they simply don’t exist. Rather all life forms came into existence suddenly. The idea of any life form coming into existence over the course of ‘millions of years is a mere fairy story. Get over it, because it will never be confirmed by actual science.

It’s just wishful thinking. Now there are unscrupulous people who manufacture very clever fakes. But, when thoroughly examined and tested by the scientific method, they are exposed for the fraud that should be recognized as a crime.

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: ‘no time to ‘develop’ or ‘why no transitional life forms?’

37. Lesser intelligence comes from greater; not greater from lesser as Evolutionists would have us believe. Why?

A. An example is robotics. We humans cannot create a robot or a computer greater than ourselves. They will always be lesser in power, influence and importance. That's a well known physical law. It's just the way the universe works. It's not science to say that intelligent life gradually arose from pond scum or love sick ameba. Every life form is beautiful in design, elegant in function and perfect in its own lifestyle and reproduction. But it cannot rise to a level of existence greater than it started out being.

Of course caterpillars do become butterflies and tadpoles do become frogs, but they do not become horses or pigs. Each life form is limited and constrained to stay what it's genetic and molecular makeup demands. Limits are a fact of life. I must get used to the fact.

Additionally, each life form is a separate entity in and of itself, which means it cannot transform or morph into another type of creature. Evolution says this happens all the time, yet can offer no proof. We are supposed to buy into that hook, line and sinker without question because they say so? No. They are going to have an uphill battle convincing me without real repeatable proof. Otherwise it's fantasy and certainly not science.

This can only be explained by the existence of a greater Creator.

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'lesser intelligence into greater?'

38. Why can't evolutionary theory explain the presence of mind, emotions, memory, creativity, reason, thought, personality, speech, imagination, learning, intuition, teaching, senses or any part of the mind itself?

A. Because these are functions of the spirit and not of the flesh. It doesn't just come by itself. It is not the result of chemicals self-assembling into a human being. It is given, bestowed or built-in. We do have the powers listed above and a lot more control over some than others in that we can choose what we feed our minds. We can choose to learn this or that and subsequently we can choose what to do with acquired knowledge.

These are real powers we all are born with. We can be careful or reckless, because we have been given the responsibility to choose for ourselves. The question is ‘How do I choose right from wrong?’ The answer lies in what spirit we allow. This also is a choice. We can follow the spirit of the world (people or society), our own human conscience or that of the deceiver.

I know it is not popular to believe in a Devil or Satan, but Jesus did. Anyone can be deceived if we aren’t careful. Evolutionary theory has no explanation for the mind, or anything outside the realm of imagination. This is to say that it has only the explanatory power as its proponent.

The question that comes to my mind as a follow-up question is ‘Why do all animals lack the comparative vastness of intellect human beings enjoy? If we all descended from ‘a common ancestor’, all animals should have minds at least comparable to ours, but they don’t even come close.

Evolution has no explanation for our minds and all their powers because evolution is imaginary. So what is the right answer to the question of the origin of the human mind? We certainly did not make ourselves. We were not dropped here from the ‘Mother Ship’. We are here and have our being because we were engendered by our Maker, Creator and Father who wants to give us all things, including permanent life. Evolution cannot compete with that.

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: ‘origin of mind’

39. Pre-programmed animal instinct requires information installed at conception by a Programmer. Why? And how can evolution account for this?

A. Animals act and react according to built-in instinct and instinct is not re-programmable. This is to say for example, the nature of a horse cannot be re-programmed into that of a dog or a cat. Each animal type or body plan functions or acts and reacts according to its own life-design plan.

This requires tons of information. The information has a separate Source apart from the animal, since the animal did not create itself. It has to have had a brighter, more intelligent and powerful Programmer for it to exist at all. There is simply no other explanation. Why don't evolutionists just admit this?

The answer is proponents of this fallacy called evolution won't hear it because they might have to change their lifestyle and they refuse to let go of their sins. They like them and would rather die than switch. May we all be careful about this, for God may grant our request. Be careful what you ask for. You may not articulate this or speak to God defiantly, but it is by our choices and subsequent actions that we can express our rebellion towards him.

He is in the heavens. We are on the Earth. Therefore let us all choose carefully and wisely whom we believe and serve.

Evolution leaves us with no future beyond the here and now. God offers us real and permanent life, not just this temporary one. Is it wise to slap his hand away? Evolution cannot account for mind, nor for instinct. Where did all the information come from? It had to come from a Source greater than its subsequent. That is the way the universe works. That is reality. Anything else is simply denial. It's time we all dealt with this and accepted the truth.

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'instinct and evolution'

40. Micro life is as complicated as the universe yet is full of living machinery functioning a certain way in all cells in all body plans in all moments of life and in all parts of the world at all times. Why can't evolution account for this?

A. Evolution hold-outs still revere Charles Darwin as if he were the ultimate authority on how life arose, yet he knew nothing about genetics or the design and function of the cell. In Darwin's day, the finest microscopes made the cell look like an indeterminate blob of goo. No wonder he came up with the wordy nonsensical descriptions we find in the 'Origin of the Species' and 'The Decent of Man'.

Sometimes I wonder if any modern-day evolutionists have even read any of it. They rarely, if ever, talk about its poor English, grammatical errors and extreme wordiness. It is an excruciating bore to get through. Apparently he was trying to snow us with his ability to put words on paper, regardless of the lack of meaning built-in to them. The more the words, the less the meaning. No writer of our day could or would write this way, lest he be laugh out of the editors' office and run out of town on a rail.

(Read it for yourself when you need a good nights' sleep.)

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'complexity of the cell'

41. Why can't humans create life? Evolution says nothing was able to create life. But as intelligent as we are, we can't do it? What's wrong with this picture?

A. Have you ever wanted to create a living thing? I have. But I don't have what it takes. Neither does anyone else. But we are so bright, so enlightened, so intelligent and creative. Reality check: we are also limited. Though our creative prowess is powerful, strong, resourceful and imaginative, even God-like, we can't do it. That is where the boundaries are set and there is nothing we can do to change that. Evolutionists have no explanation of this except to pretend that the real reason is that life takes millions of years to do. Yet if that were so, every living creature would die long before they could self assemble or develop.

The whole idea of things evolving on their own requires a lot of ability to pretend. It is neurotic in that it is stupid behavior by non-stupid people. There is something wrong with their thinking and it is that they don't like to retain God in their knowledge because their deeds are evil and they don't relish the idea of being exposed. They get rid of their guilt by getting rid of the God that they think requires them to feel that guilt.

Again, may I refer you to Romans 1:19- Because that which may be known of God is manifest in them; for God has showed it unto them. 20 For the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead; so that they are without excuse: 21 Because that, when they knew God, they glorified him not as God, neither were thankful; but became vain in their imaginations, and their foolish heart was darkened.

22 Professing themselves to be wise, they became fools, 23 And changed the glory of the incorruptible God into an image made like to corruptible man, and to birds, and four-footed beasts, and creeping things. 24 Wherefore God also gave them up to uncleanness through the lusts of their own hearts, to dishonor their own bodies between themselves: 25 who changed the truth of God into a lie, and worshipped and served the creature more than the Creator, who is blessed forever. Amen.

26 For this cause God gave them up unto vile affections: for even their women did change the natural use into that which is against nature: 27 And likewise also the men, leaving the natural use of the woman, burned in their lust one toward another; men with men working that which is unseemly, and receiving in themselves that recompense of their error which was meet.

28 And even as they did not like to retain God in their knowledge, God gave them over to a reprobate mind, to do those things which are not convenient; 29 Being filled with all unrighteousness, fornication, wickedness, covetousness, maliciousness; full of envy, murder, debate, deceit, malignity; whisperers, 30 Backbiters, haters of God, despiteful, proud, boasters, inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents, 31 Without understanding, covenant-breakers, without natural affection, implacable, unmerciful: 32 Who knowing the judgment of God, that they which commit such things are worthy of death, not only do the same, but have pleasure in them that do them.

This is the most thorough, succinct indictment of the heinous ‘theory’ of evolution and its proponents that I can imagine. I didn’t have to write those words; God had them written by Paul the apostle. They speak the truth.

Bottom line? God has set certain limits beyond which we will never be able to exceed. People do not like to be so restricted. They do not like God because they want to be the one in full control. To me, it is better to let go of the reins and leave the driving to the One who knows the way. That way I don’t have the heavy burden of carrying a heavy load I was never intended to have to bear. Now it's gone and he is in charge of my life. I don't want control anymore. My timing, my reasoning, my ideas STINK, by comparison! Father knows best; not me.

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'humans can't create life'

42. Evolutionists still cling to the 'Big Bang' model as to the origin of the universe, however chaotic. Creationists don't buy this. Why? Why doesn't chaos result in order, as evolution proposes?

A. Because explosions do not create beauty, harmony, complexity, order, absolute laws, physics or life, even if the Big Bang explosion took billions of years. Have you ever seen an explosion make order or beauty? Have you ever seen an explosion take 'billions of years? Why is the universe still expanding? Why do astronomers keep finding new galaxies at the rate of about one per week?

I'm saying the 'Big Bang' is unproveable and it doesn't have the explanatory power to answer the basic questions of the origin of the universe or life itself. To me, the whole idea is just silly and should be dismissed out of hand for lack of evidence.

Beauty comes from a great Mind, not from chaos. Harmony comes only from a Spirit of harmony. Complexity comes from an understanding Mind capable of building it. Order comes only from a Mind that can choose it. Absolute Laws come only from those able to enforce them and their governments. Physics come only from the One who can decide how things ought to be, do, act and react within his realm and who has the powers needed to make them happen and sustain them. Life comes only from pre-existing life and the only Being powerful enough to create, build, govern, maintain and sustain the life he creates.

Nothing comes from nothing. Nothing ever could.

43. Why do prophecies about the Christ and their precise fulfillment in him require a powerful God to bring it to pass?

A. Some scholars claim there are more than 300 Old Testament prophecies pointing to Jesus Christ. Get a copy of my eBook ‘The Jesus IQ Test’ to see the top 31 of these. Note: Some scholars intimate that there are more than 300 such prophecies referring to Jesus Christ. These 31 are the most reliable and verifiable ones I have found. But even so, the statistical likelihood of only 8 of them being fulfilled in one individual is 1 in  $10^{17}$ , according to Peter Stoner in Science Speaks (Moody Press, 1963). ‘That would be 1 in 100,000,000,000,000,000. In order to help us comprehend this staggering probability, Stoner illustrates it by supposing that “we take  $10^{17}$  silver dollars and lay them on the face of Texas. They will cover all of the state two feet deep.

“Now mark one of these silver dollars and stir the whole mass thoroughly, all over the state. Blindfold a man and tell him that he can travel as far as he wishes, but he must pick up one silver dollar and say that this is the right one.

What chance would he have of getting the right one? Just the same chance that the prophets would have had of writing these eight prophecies and having them all come true in any one man.”’

44. Don’t evolutionists need a Savior?

A. Many if not all evolutionists believe that when they are dead they are dead and that is all there is to it. They will be buried and never be seen or heard from again. All that they were will be gone and forgotten forever. But as author and comedian Penn Jillette has said: ‘How much do you Christians have to hate people if there is any possibility of there being an afterlife and don't at least try to tell someone?' Even though he believes there is no God, he still believes Christians should proselytize. So do I.

Let's face it, perilous times are here. It's going to get a lot worse, according to Jesus in Matthew 24. Evolution seems clueless because it cannot predict the future and there is no guide book that can foretell what's coming down the pike at them. We can't find it in the Origin of Species or the Descent of Man, that's for sure. What's so scary, you might ask? Israel is on the west, Iran on the east and Iraq is in between. Iraq, according to the Brookings Institute, has more oil than Saudi Arabia.

The oil ocean buried in Iraq is less than 100 feet down. Its depth is virtually bottomless. When the war there goes nuclear, we're all in jeopardy of survival. They're going to nuke the oil fields in Iraq. An unwelcome lake of fire will thus explode on the world scene, causing darkness from the smoke, global superheating, and the end of weather. Earthquakes, huge hurricanes and tsunamis will be common. The icecaps, including most of Greenland, will melt, flooding away the islands of the earth.

This unquenchable fire, with the bottomless pit of oil for fuel, will compromise all life on earth, including yours and mine. What if daily temperature increased by only 1 degree per day? At that rate, after only 1 year, outside temps will be lethal at over 400 degrees F!

It's wise to be afraid of things that potentially could kill you. Science can't save us. Neither can governments, politicians, the medical and pharmaceutical industry, the military or industry.

That's exactly why you and I, regardless of our beliefs, need a Savior. It's a matter of survival of the nations and the entire planet itself. Only the Bible has told us about these things and given us the way out. His name is Jesus. He's the Maker of the earth. He alone will know how to fix what we screw up. He's the Master of molecules and has all the power to make things right again. We need him for life. The big question is: How will you and yours survive without him? If only one out of ten are left alive at the return of Christ, which one in your family will it be? Jesus is called the 'Savior of the world' for a good reason. It's not just a spiritual salvation. It's quite literal and on-the-ground real.

You can see it coming. Will you be ready? Everyone needs the Savior. Be smart and stay sharp. Get wisdom while it's still available. Seek Jesus and find him. Go to a quiet private place with your Bible at hand and ask him to come and meet with you in your spirit. He promised that we would show up if you seek him diligently.

45. Is evolution just another religion with nothing as god, no purpose for life and no future?

A. Religion is man's attempt to absolve himself from guilt by fashioning a god that can release him from it. It is man seeking God. Evolution is a little bit different. It is man's attempt to absolve himself from guilt by fashioning a story that removes any god that can make him feel guilty. It is man denying God.

Adherents to this fairy story are a god to themselves. They make up the rules as they go along as if they owned the place. Denial is wishful thinking and childish. Stupid behavior by non-stupid people is called neurosis. Evolutionists are not stupid people. In fact, they are some of the most brilliant and articulate minds on the planet.

Some of them are even more honest than certain religious people. But they deny what would bring them fully to life when they could have had it to the full. That doesn't seem all that bright to me. It's akin to someone trading a limitless fortune for a cigar box of trinkets. As to the purpose of life, in my opinion, the Christians win. They get permanent life, unlimited frequent flier miles and no worries about what they might lose ever again. They get a permanent home that will never be taken away and a great job they dearly love with no possibility of layoffs, firings or cuts in pay. They get deep lasting relationships with those they love and cherish and plenty of time to enjoy one another's company.

In addition they will have powers to get things done and to help others with no limits to their resources. They will inherit the earth as their headquarters planet and have a close personal relationship with its King. This future looks ever brighter, while the evolutionist has only the blackness and silence of permanent death to look forward to. Choose wisely.

46. If computers, TV’s and other great inventions have creators, and they are not alive, how much more do living things require a Creator?

A. As bright as we humans are, we have definite limits. We cannot create life. If we, being intelligent can’t do it, how much less can nothing create it? It doesn’t have what it takes. This sounds like a simple answer, but reality suggests that complicated life, in any form, requires a higher intelligence than what is created.

Life is impossible without a Creator with all the math, science, physics, chemistry, architecture, etc. and all the unknowns of life mastered, in order for life to exist. Since life does exist, so must its Creator. Do you exist? Just pinch yourself and you will find out.

Are you really comforted by the idea that you did not have a Creator? If you had no Creator, how do you account for the extreme complexity of your own body? Have you ever studied anatomy? At the cellular level, just observing one of the different types of cells of which there are many in your body, you will have to admit there is order, perfect functionality and elegance in the cells design and build.

But, you don’t have to go to an electron microscope to grasp your body’s intricate complex and complicated structure. Just look at the systems that all function together. The largest organ in your body is the skin. It is generally waterproof, air-tight, flexible, intrusion resistant and elastic. It keeps the bad out and the good in, while helping to keep all the other systems and parts in their places. That’s one system.

Then let’s consider the muscular system. This is how we move, walk, lift, run, swim, etc. Blood vessels nourish the intricate network with energy-bearing food particles carried there by the blood itself. This leads us to the circulatory system without which we would immediately die. The circulatory system is a vast tubular network comprised of thousands of miles of blood carrying pathways, having their own sets of valves and other control points which help keep the blood flowing properly.

The blood is pumped by the heart to the lungs and throughout the body. Then there's the Pulmonary, Endocrine, Skeletal, Nervous, Glandular and Organ systems. All of which work together to allow life for a typical 70+ year lifespan.

The closer we study anatomy, the more complexity we find. This is the opposite of the Darwinian evolutionary expectation. He apparently thought the closer we look the simpler it would appear, but this is not the case at all.

Bottom line? Complexity indicates more than design and planning aforethought. It requires the spark of life, the power to make it come into being and the power to sustain it with all the pre-requisites and pre-established earth parameters to keep it going over the few thousands of years men have walked the earth. Life requires a Life Giver.

47. Evolutionists say life is so easy, so automatic, it just comes on its own, undirected, then why can't they make it happen?

A. Millions of years, that's why. They can't replicate natural spontaneous genesis because of the time constraints. As mentioned above, humans don't have what it takes. Life is not simple or easy and it never creates itself. We never observe it arising spontaneously. Why not? Because we don't have enough time.

Seems to me if evolution was smart enough to bring life into being with its millions of years, it should have been able to provide permanent life instead of just a temporary one. But then, only God can do that, and all evolution believers will never acknowledge him.

All of life, every life form is interconnected and dependent on other life forms for its existence. No human will ever have the power to create anything alive. It is way beyond the bounds of human limitation. It's a sheer waste of time to even try.

48. Is the God of the Bible, particularly the 'Old Testament' really 'a cruel, malevolent, bully'? Does teaching kids about Hell as a place of eternal torment constitute child abuse?

A. Death of the first born of Egypt; the Flood; Joshua leading the Israelites to the Promised Land, exterminating men, women and children at the guiding hand of the Lord. At first blush it may appear that way but if he is God, he owns his Creation and can do with it whatever he pleases. So who are we to judge him? Shall the pot say to the Potter: 'What are you doing?'

He owns the entire universe and all that is in it. Consider the fact that, according to the Bible, God is a loving and good God who allows us free choice because he cares about us and wants us to learn character through our choices. As such free moral agents, we are free to create evil and hurt or kill other human beings. It is not he that is cruel, but we.

From the Richard Dawkins Foundation for Reason and Science website comes this article: Religion's Real Child Abuse, by Richard Dawkins, Sunday, May 14, 2006: 'In the wake of the current scandal over child abuse by priests, I have had a letter from an American woman in her mid forties who was brought up Roman Catholic. She has two strong recollections from when she was seven. She was sexually abused by her parish priest in his car. And around the same time a little school friend of hers, who had tragically died, went to hell because she was a Protestant. Or so my correspondent was led to believe by the then official doctrine of her church. (emphasis mine throughout) Her view now is that, of these two examples of Roman Catholic child abuse, the one physical and the other mental, the second was by far the worst.

She writes:

"Being fondled by the priest simply left the impression (from the mind of a 7 year old) as 'yuchy' while the memory of my friend going to hell was one of cold, immeasurable fear. I never lost sleep because of the priest (?) but I spent many a night being terrified that the people I loved would go to Hell. It gave me nightmares."

I am sure her experience is far from unique. And what if we assume a less altruistic child, worried about her own eternity rather than a friend's? Odious as the physical abuse of children by priests undoubtedly is, I suspect that it may do them less lasting damage than the mental abuse of bringing them up Catholic in the first place.

Happily I was spared the misfortune of a Roman Catholic upbringing (Anglicanism is a significantly less noxious strain of the virus). Being fondled by the Latin master in the Squash Court was a disagreeable sensation for a nine-year-old, a mixture of embarrassment and skin-crawling revulsion, but it was certainly not in the same league as being led to believe that I, or someone I knew, might go to everlasting fire. As soon as I could wriggle off his knee, I ran to tell my friends and we had a good laugh, our fellowship enhanced by the shared experience of the same sad pedophile. I do not believe that I, or they, suffered lasting, or even temporary damage from this disagreeable physical abuse of power. Given the Latin Master's eventual suicide, maybe the damage was all on his side.

Of course I accept that his misdemeanors, although by today's standards enough to earn imprisonment followed by a life sentence of persecution by vigilantes, were mild compared to those committed by some priests now in the news. I am in no position to make light of the horrific experiences of their altar-boy victims. But reports of child abuse cover a multitude of sins, from mild fondling to violent buggery, and I am sure many of those cases now embarrassing the church fall at the mild end of the spectrum. Doubtless, too, some fall at the violent end, which is terrible but I would make two points about it.

First, just because some pedophile assaults are violent and painful, it doesn't mean that all are. A child too young to notice what is happening at the hands of a gentle pedophile will have no difficulty at all in noticing the pain inflicted by a violent one. Phrases like 'predatory monster' are not discriminating enough, and are framed in the light of adult hang-ups.

Second (and this is the point with which I began) the mental abuse constituted by an unsubstantiated threat of violence and terrible pain, if sincerely believed by the child, could easily be more damaging than the physical actuality of sexual abuse. An extreme threat of violence and pain is precisely what the doctrine of hell is. And there is no doubt at all that many children sincerely believe it, often continuing right through adulthood and old age until death finally releases them.

It will be said that the Catholic Church no longer preaches hell fire in its full horror. That depends on how up-market is your area and how progressive your priest. But eternal punishment certainly was the normal doctrine dished out to congregations, including terrified children, back in the time when many of the priests now facing expulsion or prosecution committed their physical abuses. Most of the victims bringing or supporting lawsuits are now in their middle years. They therefore, along with many others who were never physically abused, probably experienced mental terrorism of the hell fire type.

The long retrospect of the law entitles middle-aged victims to lucrative redress, decades after they suffered physically. Nobody thinks the physical injuries of sexual abuse could possibly last decades, so the damages now being claimed have to be the mental consequences of the original physical abuse. A typical claimant, now 54, said that his "life was marred by inexplicable confusions, anger, depression and lost faith." (Parenthetically, one can't help marveling at the idea of a life being marred by lost faith. Perhaps it would get the sympathy of a jury.) But the point is this. If you can sue for the long-term mental damage caused by physical child abuse, why should you not sue for the long-term mental damage caused by mental child abuse? Only a minority of priests abuse the bodies of the children in their care. But how many priests abuse their minds? Why aren't Catholics and ex-Catholics lining up to sue the church into the ground, for a lifetime of psychological damage?

I am not advocating this course of action. Much as I would like to see the Roman Catholic Church ruined, I hate opportunistically retrospective litigation even more. Lawyers, who grow fat by digging dirt on long-forgotten wrongs, and hounding their aged perpetrators, are no friends of mine. All I am doing is calling attention to an anomaly. By all means, let's kick a nasty institution when it is down, but there are better ways than litigation. And an obsessive concentration on sexual abuse by priests is in danger of blinding us to all their other forms of child abuse.

The threat of eternal hell is an extreme example of mental abuse, just as violent sodomy is an extreme example of physical abuse. Most physical abuse is milder, and so is most of the mental abuse inherent in a typical religious education. The priest who urged a 14-year-old altar boy to give him oral sex, "blessing it as a way to receive Holy Communion" wasn't only abusing the trust normally enjoyed by any teacher, youth leader or scoutmaster. He was cashing in on the years of religious brainwashing that the child had endured as a cradle Catholic. Holy Communion: nice one! But again, only an extreme example of what churches ? and also mosques and synagogues ? do to child minds in their care, in the normal course of events.

'What shall we tell the children?' is a superb polemic on how religions abuse the minds of children, by the distinguished psychologist Nicholas Humphrey.

It was originally delivered as a lecture in aid of Amnesty International, and has now been reissued as a chapter of his book, The Mind Made Flesh, just published by Oxford University Press. It is also available on the worldwide web and I strongly recommend it. Humphrey argues that, in the same way as

Amnesty works tirelessly to free political prisoners the world over, we should work to free the children of the world from the religions which, with parental approval, damage minds too young to understand what is happening to them. He is right, and the same lesson should inform our discussions of the current pedophile brouhaha. Priestly groping of child bodies is disgusting. But it may be less harmful in the long run than priestly subversion of child minds.'

I am inclined to agree with Professor Dawkins on this one. To frighten innocent children with a misrepresentation of what scriptures teach is sin. So, what does the Bible tell us about hell? Is it a real place? Are there people burning there right now? Will people really burn there consciously in abject torture for all eternity? Does the Bible really support this?

I'm here to stand up and say: NO! The Bible does NOT support this foul and blasphemous doctrine. It doesn't fit the compassionate loving model of God at all. Look, if hell as an ever-burning ever-conscious place of torment was real, Jesus, who got the sins of the whole world dumped on him in the crucifixion didn't receive hell as the punishment, neither will we.

The 'wages of sin is death.' (Romans 6:23) It never says the wages are eternal life in the flames of hell. We must all be very careful of what we accuse God of. He is not a mean cruel ogre worse than Satan himself; yet people, who long to have power and control over others concoct these erroneous doctrines for their own benefit.

The doctrine of hell is unfortunately firmly entrenched in our culture today, but the younger generation is not so easily duped. They research. They study into things more, now that the internet is here. They want to know the truth.

May I suggest you look into this hell enigma until you are fully convinced you have the truth about hell? Look into the original Greek and Hebrew manuscripts. Paul never mentions it, though he wrote over half of the New Testament. Jesus never spoke of it either, though sincere preachers across the land keep spouting the untruth that 'Jesus spoke more about hell than he did about heaven'. It's simply not true.

49. Why are the physical conditions seemingly fine tuned to accommodate mankind?

A. The physics of the earth are set up to accommodate mankind: 4 seasons; a 24 hour day so he has 12 hours to rest and 12 to work; soil, water and sunlight so he can have food and drink; just the right oxygen content in the air he breathes; the right temperature so he doesn’t get too hot or cold; sunlight to provide warmth, energy, food, photosynthesis, vitamin D, etc. If God had not set it up, it could never have come by chance.

There are several other factors contributing to the benefit of mankind which I don’t have space to go into; such as the right size sun and moon, the right distances from these and the other planets in our solar system. The chances of all the factors coming into being on one planet are so tiny, they are less than zero, according to statistical data found in Lee Strobel’s ‘The Case For a Creator’, Frank Turek and Norman Geisler’s book ‘I Don’t Have Enough Faith to be an Atheist’ and many other science laden books debunking evolution. I recommend careful and thoughtful consideration of these books for further study.

50. Evolution has no future; neither do its adherents who would rather die than accept Jesus. Is that what you call ‘Bright’?

A. Talk about painting oneself into a corner! Evolutionists have a dead end, literally. What makes it worse is they don’t care, seems to me. They would rather indulge themselves today even if it costs their tomorrow. Now does that seem bright to you? No, it is not bright to want only this life.

We come to life in a carbon-based body that can only live for a short time. Then we die. Atheists say that is all there is. There is no life after death. But what if they are wrong? Is there really a way to know for sure without dying to find out? According to Jesus, we can enter into life through faith in him.

Innately and naturally, we all ponder life and death. Why are we here? What is life about? Do I have meaning and significance? Where am I going? What is death? Is there life after death? What is the Purpose of Life? Questions like these are clearly beyond science to answer.

Atheists don't care about eternal life. They supposedly 'know' it isn't so. But what if it is real and you miss it? Would your life not have been little more than an exercise in futility? Is it smart or bright to not want to live forever? No, especially when the potential to do so is really there through belief in Jesus Christ. There is so much more to life than usually imagined. There is a great future to look forward to, as I will explain later.

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'purpose of life' or 'life's meaning'.

51. Evolution cannot explain the origins of the universe, forces such as gravity, inertia and centrifugal force or anything else for that matter. Proponents have no clue how life came to be. Why not?

A. If evolutionists are so smart, if scientists are the authority we all should revere, why can't they explain to us the origin of the universe and all its properties, like gravity, centrifugal force, inertia or wavelengths? They really haven't got a clue where it all came from.

All things contain loads of mathematics and information. Where did all that information originate? Information and math is the product of MIND. It had to be there first before anything else. According to Proverbs 3:19 'The LORD by wisdom has founded the earth; by understanding has he established the heavens.' He is the Great Mind and Architect of all that is.

If evolutionists were to believe in anything but their own belief system, they would have to do the hardest thing there is on earth to do: admit they were wrong. Many find that too difficult. They would have to acknowledge that there is indeed a God who has all power and who made everything. If they did that, they'd have to give up their lifestyle and seek after God and follow him, instead. That is what they won't do, even if their lives depended on it! (See Romans 1:28-32 and John 5:40-44)

If their ideas are correct, when we die, we will never live again. If the Christians are right, the instant we die, the next thing we know we will be conscious and alive again. This time we will be endowed with Spirit-based rather than carbon-based bodies, which are infinitely better. They will be disease-free, permanent and a bazillion times more powerful. Why wouldn't we want this?

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'origin of life' or 'origin of the universe'

52. The 'power' of random mutations acting on chance variations is not sufficient to create anything, let alone the simplest living thing. Yet, that is what evolutionists try to foist off on us as real. Why?

A. Mutations destroy information at the cellular level and they never add any new information. Every geneticist knows this. So how can a long series of these result in a new or better being, even if you add into the mix 'millions of years'? That is more like comic book biology than real science.

Mature and honest scientists acknowledge that this is not the way the world works. Evolutionists who still cling to mutations as the power to create new body plans are simply in denial. Why can't they just admit it? Because in their minds evolution is their life and livelihood. They must perpetuate their lifestyle and their income at all costs, regardless of the truth. Many of them slam the door shut the second I confront them with even the possibility of there being a Creator.

But mutations never do anything beneficial for any life form. In every case, information is lost. That's what makes a mutation a mutation. New and higher life forms have to be made by the Creator. New information must be added at the molecular level in order to get a new and different body plan. This is universal.

Haven't you noticed that chickens never become fish. Turtles don't become dogs. Every life form reproduces after its own kind, not after a different kind. (See Genesis 1:11-12). This is the structure and law of the natural realm God built into life. It cannot be breeched except by God alone. We have his word on it.

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'mutations disprove evolution'

53. If you could live for all time to come with a Great God who was your Father, doing wonderful things in relationship with him or else die and stay dead for all time to come, which would be your most logical choice?

A. The evolutionist would say it's a mute point because there is no God. But, obviously, the real answer is that the logical choice is to want to live forever with God. The sad thing is that really IS the choice we all have, even though the evolutionists deny it. They would rather die permanent death than to acknowledge God's existence. That to me is illogical and outright stupid. Life is serious business and it's far too valuable both now and forever to waste.

The work, planning, provision, pain and effort Jesus Christ went through to get you there was both expensive and extensive, yet the one word you are least likely to hear from an evolutionist is 'Thank You'. After viewing hundreds of their YouTube ® videos, I don't recall hearing it even once, and especially toward God, of course.

They all seem to have a vendetta against Jesus or God or at least one of his followers. They are all bitter, arrogant and hostile. They try to rewrite history in the eyes of the public and the public is dumb enough to follow them like lemmings running off the cliff to their deaths. I hope you are not one of them. To me, it makes no sense to be mad at God if he doesn't exist. Ignoring him or ridiculing him will not make him go away. He does have a great plan for your life, even if you slap his hand away.

Imagine if you will a world ruled by God. He cannot be ousted, assassinated or die in office of some disease. He won't quit and he will never give up on you or anyone. He has all knowledge and is ready, willing and able to share it with one and all. He is willing to give you everything he has, including permanent life and something right up your alley to do for all time to come. It will be something designed specifically for you and you will love it.

In his Kingdom, you will never have to worry about anything. No bills to pay, no mortgage, no credit cards and no doctor or hospital bills. You can not be hurt, killed or maimed. You will have a much better body that can travel at the speed of thought anywhere in the universe. You can also disappear and reappear again. You will have a much improved mind and you will not need to sleep. You will be given special powers to do your job. You will be able to heal; work mighty miracles like Jesus did and do exploits in his honor.

Imagine racing through space and materializing on a distant planet at his direction. There you kneel down in the soil and craft a brand new human being. Using your own DNA, you breathe into his nostrils the breath of life and a brand new world has begun with your very own son!

Is anything too hard for God? He did it here on Earth and he can do it again through his sons and daughters, for we will do what we see our Father do. He created the heavens and the earth not in vain but to be inhabited, according to Isaiah 45:18. He said he 'spread out the heavens like a tent to DWELL IN!'

Lay aside your prejudice against him and give him a real chance to change your life. Just go somewhere private and ask him to show up. He promises to do so, if you seek him with a whole heart. But it can't be fake. He may now show up bodily or audibly, but mind to mind. Listen for him. Do it every day for 30 days and listen for new thoughts to arise in your heart. Thoughts about him you have never had before. You will never regret it!

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'eternal life' 'afterlife' or 'life after death'. Better yet, READ your Bible!

54. Myths embraced by religion and its dogma do not prove or disprove God. But we know we have free choice. There is coming a day when all shall know him from the least to the greatest. Is this predicted in the Bible? If so, where?

A. We humans always attribute ‘myth’ to all other forms of worship other than our own. But we often fail to see the myths we ourselves embrace in our own forms of worship. Yes, one day in our future, all shall know the one and only true God. Yes, the Bible predicts a day when everyone on earth will know who God is.

It is found in Jeremiah 31:33-34 and 10:11: 33 But this shall be the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel; After those days, says the LORD, I will put my law in their inward parts, and write it in their hearts; and will be their God, and they shall be my people. 34 And they shall teach no more every man his neighbor, and every man his brother, saying, Know the LORD: for they shall all know me, from the least of them unto the greatest of them, says the LORD: for I will forgive their iniquity, and I will remember their sin no more.

Notice that ‘all the gods that did not create the heavens and the earth shall perish from the earth, and from under these heavens.’ (Jeremiah 10:11) This means when Jesus returns as King of kings and Lord of lords, he will put an end to all world religions, yes and including the Christian religion.

Why do I say this? Because religion is merely man’s attempt to absolve himself from guilt by creating a god in his own image that he can manipulate and control. True Christianity is not a religion, for it is God’s attempt at absolving mankind of his sins and their consequences by paying the penalty of sin for us. He’s the one doing the calling and seeking, not us. He’s doing for us what we could not do for ourselves.

55. The miracle of living food. How did that evolve to match the eater?

A. Humans can't eat dirt. But our food springs from the dirt. We notice that every life form had to come 'online' at once in a sudden flash or we would simply die. Our food is either alive when we eat it (raw as in a salad) or it was once alive and we cooked it. Cooking makes the food's nutrients more available to our digestive system. We did not adapt to eat our food and digest it and our food did not adapt for our benefit. They were meant for each other and planned that way.

This shows us the cunning, love, generosity and goodness of the God who loves us. He provides many good things for our benefit including our food. I suggest you study the complexity of the human body and its intricate anatomy on the molecular level as well as the overall view. If you are like me, you will have to conclude there is no way evolution has the power to create such fine-tuning of the earth, air, water, food and a plethora of interlocking complex systems that had to coalesce into life for it to work. A Master Builder had to make it happen.

Notice Acts 17:24-30: 24 God that made the world and all things therein, seeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, dwells not in temples made with hands; 25 Neither is worshipped with men's hands, as though he needed anything, seeing he gives to all life, and breath, and all things; 26 And has made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and has determined the times before appointed, and the bounds of their habitation; 27 That they should seek the Lord, if haply they might feel after him, and find him, though he be not far from every one of us:

28 For in him we live, and move, and have our being; as certain also of your own poets have said, For we are also his offspring. 29 Forasmuch then as we are the offspring of God, we ought not to think that the Godhead is like unto gold, or silver, or stone, graven by art and man's device. 30 And the times of this ignorance God winked at; but now commands all men everywhere to repent:

The miracle of living food or life matching-food is phenomenal to me. Consider what would happen if you were the one left without food. The whole thing is a set-up. The Earth was built for life on it. If you don't want there to be a God who owns and controls it all, then go make your own food.

No thanks. I don't want to have to control everything for life to work. I'm glad there is a God to take care of me and especially one who cares about me so much he came to taste what our kind of life is like for us. Then he allowed himself to be mercilessly and cruelly murdered on a cross by his own creatures, to pave the way to permanent life for us, even while we were yet sinners. No man-made god can match that!

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'miracle of living food' 'a God who cares'

56. Wouldn't answered prayer prove God's existence and power?

A. Atheists don't try this one, so how would they know? After being a Christian for more than 50 years now, and after these many years of prayer, I have seen most if not all of my prayers answered. Some prayers don't get answered for twenty years or more, but it's his timing that is best for me. Other times God says no, and I have learned to be so thankful for his no, because after the fact, I can now see had he said yes to my foolish and unseeing prayer, disaster would be the result! Many of my prayers get answered while I'm still in session. I never put any limits on God (as if that were possible). He can do whatever he wants. He owns everything, including me and all I have. Thank God he loves me!

May I suggest you try this: Go to a quiet, private place every day for 30 days and ask God to show up in some way. He promises to do so. It can be in just a thought you never entertained before that steers you in a different direction.

Notice: Jeremiah 10:11 For I know the thoughts that I think toward you, says the LORD, thoughts of peace, and not of evil, to give you an expected end. 12 Then shall you call upon me, and you shall go and pray unto me, and I will hearken unto you. 13 And you shall seek me, and find me, when you shall search for me with all your heart. 14 And I will be found of you, says the LORD:

This is how God may answer: Through a thought, a gift, a yes, no or wait answer that comes into your head, a word from the Bible or another person or even a sign of some sort, though Jesus did say not to seek after a superstitious sign. Watch for an answer. Wait and above all, be patient and listen. He will answer you in his timing and in his way.

57. How do true Christians know they worship the only true God?

A. There is a difference between the religion of Christianity and true Christianity. The difference is in what they do with their time. How do they worship? Is there a real, lasting, close and personal prayer life? How’s their daily walk with Christ? Do they study and pour themselves into Bible Study? What do they do with their Bible Study time? Does it benefit others or only themselves?

The true God must be experienced. He is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him. (See Hebrews 11:6) He wants undivided attention. He wants our whole heart. He sees what is said and done in the secret places, and that’s where it counts. True Christians know they worship the one and only true God by their relationship with him. No other god will do. They can ‘hear’ him because he has given them ‘an ear to hear’. That is how they communicate back and forth. He also does this through other Christians they fellowship with and through his word, the Holy Bible.

Do I have to try all the millions of man-made gods to really know if I have found the one and only True God? No, because I did not make up this God, he made me. Then how do I know he’s real, since I can’t physically ‘see’ him? I have eyes to see him in my mind’s eye. I see his signature on every living thing.

I see him in the words on the Bible page. I see him in my thoughts. His thoughts come into my thoughts and we commune there together. I hear him speak to me in these thoughts, and we are close friends. He calls me his son and his friend. He actually honors me because I serve Jesus.

I have the awesome privilege of instant contact with the God who built and who maintains the entire universe! I can have an audience with the Great King any time I want one. I talk with him constantly throughout the day and I know he hears me. In fact, he knows me and my needs, wants, hopes and dreams better than I do!

I know he cares about me and that he has my best interests at heart. I feel his presence everywhere. I can ask him anything. We can talk about everything. Emotions are no roadblock. He is not going to be caught by surprise at anything I might say to him. This is how I know I have the right God.

58. Why does the universe appear to have been designed intelligently?

A. The fine tuning of the universe requires a powerful Fine Tuner. Beauty, order, light and its properties, its sheer vastness, the laws of physics that keep it going, its continued expansion, radiation, forces, energy, thermodynamics... just to name a few, are good enough reasons to conclude it had to be not only designed, but built, sustained, maintained and added to by a super-powerful Being.

The ‘big bang’ myth should be discarded out of hand. It appears designed because it IS DESIGNED. This remains the best explanation. The day is coming when all people will know this Great Being we call God.

May I suggest Lee Strobel’s book: ‘The Case for a Creator’. It details these ‘fine tunings’ and gives the facts from real PHD level scientists who can no longer hold to the thoughts and aspirations of an anti-theist from the age of the steamboat, i.e. evolution.

You can also see several of his videos on YouTube ® or collect his books from Amazon or his website www.leestrobel.com. Another good resource is [www.answersin genesis.org](http://www.answersin genesis.org). There are extensive amounts of resources from real science there that leave no doubt about the existence of the Great Creator God.

59. How do Christians prove the active presence of the Holy Spirit?

A. I asked this of a pastor I respected one time and he said: ‘God is in your thoughts.’ After pondering on his response for several years I came to realize it is both that ‘God is in my thoughts’ and ‘That God’s thoughts are in me!’ Atheists block themselves off from access to this power because they refuse to even acknowledge God.

Notice Acts 5:32: ‘And we are his witnesses of these things; and so is also the Holy Spirit, whom God has given to them that obey him.’ God gives his Spirit to those who obey him. As long as they refuse to do this, they will never experience the active internal working of the Holy Spirit inside them.

His power in me gives me hope, understanding, wisdom, skills and abilities, protection and providence, just to name a few of his benefits. I notice when I hear ‘that still small voice’ inside me and follow where it is leading me, things always work out for the best. It real helps. This is how I prove the active presence of the Holy Spirit.

What’s so cool about this great Power is its vastness and universal utility. Consider the Internet. It is so useful and powerful for information gathering, distribution, communication and retrieval of information, there has never been the like in all human history. With the Internet, anyone who has a computer and an Internet connection can potentially reach thousands or even millions of people with video, audio, text or picture messages. It truly is a remarkable invention. Yet, it has its limitations. It is computer or mobile device dependent. It requires electricity. And it is not always dependable.

But compared to the Holy Spirit, it is nothing. Let me explain: God can communicate one message at a time to anyone with a mind. He can do it at anytime, anywhere, even in one’s sleep. A thought enters my head. It can be an idea or a word. He doesn't require a computer, satellites or electricity. Yet, he can communicate Mind to mind. The Internet has no such advantages. What's more he can do this for multiple people, in multiple locations around the world and with multiple languages and differing messages, each individualized for each person. Now that's real Power!

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'Holy Spirit proves God'

60. Morality and Eternity is set in the hearts of all men. These are things all men have pondered at some point. How can this happen without God?

A. Evolutionists realize that all people know right from wrong without reading the Bible or the Ten Commandments. Also, they know all people around the world have pondered eternity and the afterlife. But they cannot account for this through evolutionary or natural processes. The mind itself is an impossible enigma to evolutionists, let alone complex and deep spiritual thinking.

This internal knowledge comes to us without being taught to us by parents or school or even church. It is spiritual and comes from a Spirit. God is a Spirit, according to Jesus, and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth. As mentioned in Episode 59, the Holy Spirit imparts spiritual knowledge to all of us, including morality and eternal matters. This cannot happen apart from there being a Great and Powerful Supernatural Being, the One we call God.

So in effect, evolutionists borrow from Christianity with Christ Jesus being the Creator in an effort to refute it. We call it circular reasoning. It goes nowhere. God built morality into our thinking, whether you are Christian or atheist. The mind and spiritual thoughts must come from a higher source than mere chance. That would be in the realm of superstition and pretense to believe that such higher thought processes came as a result for random variations working on mutations of molecules that just 'came together' over the course of millions of years. They must have a lot more faith than I do!

Many, if not all evolutionists have never read the Bible, studied the life of Jesus Christ or for that matter even the works of Charles Darwin. May I suggest we all do these things before we criticize?

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: ‘Mind, morality and spiritual though prove God’

61. How could evolution account for mind, consciousness, thought, personality, memory, creativity, ability, speech, wisdom, emotion, attitude, conscience, senses, decision, volition, a sense of humor, love or any other attribute you can think of, related to your mind?

A. Simply, it can't. It takes a lot more faith than I have to believe that all of the above attributes of the mind came out of nowhere, for no reason and by no one. No animal possesses any of these qualities, at least not in the quantity or quality enjoyed by humans. The output of a chimp, for example, is almost nil, when compared to a ‘normal’ human being. Evolution cannot account for this phenomenon. Only the existence of a mighty God, One greater than us can. I think, therefore God is.

How is it that we can learn and keep on learning our entire lives, yet our minds never are full up? There is always room for more learning. I believe it's like our minds our one computer in a network of millions of servers with unlimited band width. They will never be full. The Bible states we are ‘fearfully and wonderfully made’. (See Psalm 139:4 which says: ‘I will praise you; for I am fearfully and wonderfully made: marvelous are your works; and that my soul knows right well.

The presence of mind is a great proof there is indeed a great God who made everything, including you and me. We did not create nor just assume our minds and they could not have evolved because lesser comes from greater intelligence, and not the other way around, as evolution claims. The universe and all things therein just doesn't work that way and everyone knows it, though they may stubbornly refuse to admit it.

This is also why there is a vast difference in output between animal brain and human mind. There is no way to bridge the gap with some evolutionary story. In my opinion, evolution, as the means of our origin, in malevolently imaginary. To cling to a belief system that is unverifiable is not science and is completely self-serving at the grave expense of all those naïve enough to fall for it.

In many cases they do make it sound like science by utilizing over complicated and made-up Latin-esque titles for ordinary particles, chemicals, molecules or life forms; but just because one can do this does not mean they are scientists, neither does it make what they say science. If it's not observable, repeatable, testable or verifiable, how can we call it scientific?

We cannot see mind, yet we know we have them of you would not be able to process this information. Why is it that the mind can continue to collect information and learn new things every day yet is never full? Animals and man are completely different in mind, yet their brains are really not the issue. An elephants brain is much large than any mans, yet its output is infinitesimally smaller. Why?

The answer is the minds of men are bestowed. We didn't earn them. We didn't invent them, nor manufacture them, any more than an elephant did. They were given to us at birth by the Great Mind who owns, designed, built and sustains the entire universe. Why not just be thankful for it?

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'Mind proves God' or 'Why the mind didn't evolve'

62. Does the fact of the symbiotic relationships between animals and plants require a Great Planner with power to make it happen and to keep it going?

A. In my opinion, yes, because it's not just that bigger eats littler, but that there are other relationship that are co-dependent. One example is the clown fish and the sea anemone. The anemone's poisonous tentacles kill other fish, but the clown fish hides there and gets protection all the while luring other fish near. It also helps keep the anemone's tentacles clean and free of harmful microbes.

Evolutionism says this is mere adaptation, but no other fish gets away with that and lives. Rather, all the symbiotic relationship schemes work because they were designed to work by a great Creator with the power to make them work. Let's keep an open mind toward God and his existence. Then we will be able to see reality clearly. Facts really are more important than theories, contrary to evolutionism.

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: ‘symbiosis proves God’

63. Is Evolution logical? Where did logic come from?

A. As you probably have figured out by now, my days of being an evolutionist are over forever. It’s just not logical to believe in pretense as the means for getting a handle on reality. I may or may not like that reality, but never the less, the overwhelming evidence is on the creation side.

If evolutionism was true, we should find transitional forms everywhere we find fossils, but there are none so far. One hundred fifty years of searching have turn up not even one. So, is it then logical to conclude we will find them some time in the future? No. Is it logical to cling to a belief system from the age of the steamboat in order to perpetuate it when it’s not even logical? No, of course not! Give it up. They will never find them, unless they make them up in someone’s garage and plant them in the ground in fraud.

Logic is the product of mind. It goes back to the reality that the mind of man must have its beginnings in a greater, not lesser mind. This greater Mind is what I call God. It is illogical to think that greater comes from lesser. There are no instances of this anywhere in the known universe.

It is also not logical to think that some spaceman from outer space planted the seed of life from some other planet, given the prohibitively vast distance to the nearest star system and the physical limitations of fragile life.

Evolutionists are in denial because they do not like to retain God in their knowledge, lest their evils and sins be exposed. It is logical for me to be embarrassed for the fact that I, too, once bought into evolutionism because it was in authoritative-sounding textbooks I was studying way back then. Thanks go to God, true logic prevailed in my own life and evolutionism stands naked and exposed for all to see. More and more scientists, who are truly honest and noble people, are seeing this truth.

Skepticism, for the sake of just being contrary, is not only illogical and dishonest, but foolhardy, self-serving and childish. It is rebellion, stubbornness and what the Bible calls ‘variance’. You say ‘white’, I’d say ‘black’ That’s a game for fools. Nobody wins. It is illogical to even go there.

Here’s a quote from Richard Whatley, Archbishop of Dublin who wrote this in the 1860’s from:

<http://historicalapologetics.org/richard-whately-on-replacing-reasoning-with-taste/>

Men did indeed formerly reason on little and ill; but they professed and attempted to reason; they sought, if they did not always find, some rational ground for their conclusions; and though no doubt often biased by their feelings, they did not, as now, avow and glory in this. The evidences of Christianity again were contemned; but it was by avowed unbelievers; not, as now, by persons professing a veneration for Christianity, and even a belief in it. In short, it is an age not particularly perhaps of disobedience to logic, but of open rebellion against it. So I have unfurled my standard, and mustered a respectable minority.

- Richard Whately

64. Given the choice of life or death, aren’t evolutionists choosing death over life? In my experience, many who still cling to the notion would rather die than give it up. Is that what they call reasonable?

A. Many otherwise bright, intelligent people choose evolution because it justifies the lifestyle they think they want and they will not let go of that for love or money, even if it means their death. I personally don’t get the logic of behaving that way. Is this life so cool, so fantastic and lasting that it is worth sacrificing everlasting life for? Not to me. There is nothing that important.

Here’s a parable I made up to illustrate: The Parable of the 2 Doors.

A certain man woke up in the woods one morning, not knowing how he got there. He gets up and starts walking through the woods, trying to find his way out of the woods. He gets the feeling something creepy is watching him. Out of the corner of his eye, he gets a glimpse of a wolf lurking through the underbrush ravenously searching for his breakfast.

He snaps into action and runs away from the wolf, only to come to a 20' high wall he can't climb over. The wolf howls for backup and the pack takes up the pursuit. He is the main course on the menu. There is no escape. His only hope is to find a breach in the wall. The wolves are closing in, and fast. Just ahead he sees a door. In fact, there are two of them; a black one and a white one. He hopes he can open one of them and escape.

When he gets there, he opens the black door on the left only to find a bottomless pit of darkness. Narrowly avoiding falling in, he slams it shut and opens the white door on the right. There, he sees beauty all around. There are rolling hills, gorgeous trees, plants, flowers and grass. Children play happily in the fields while a farmer sings at the top of his lungs while going about his chores. His wife is happily working in the garden, harvesting carrots. Everyone seems happy and filled with joy, in love with life.

Jesus greets him at the door, identifies himself and invites him to come in and enjoy a bright and never ending future with him there. 'No! I don't believe in God or Jesus!' he says and stomps back out in a rage. Knowing he will soon be eaten by the wolves, he opens the door on the left, jumps into the pit and is never seen or heard from again. He chose poorly.

Think about this. What would you do? As for me, I'm choosing life over death, every time. There is nothing worth the alternative. Thing is, we all have been offered eternal life. All we have to do is accept Jesus, turn from our sins and walk in newness of life. But this is no easy task. You will suffer for it. But everything worthwhile requires suffering. I have my share to go through and so will you. There is no getting through this territory without acquiring a few scars.

We are being moved into position. We are in a spiritual battle and moved into the front lines. But, Jesus is our 5 star General and he never loses even one of his soldiers. We will win the battle in the end. He is leading all the way.

We can fully trust in him. We have nothing good to loose. Let us not cling too tightly to anything in the physical world we live in for now. Jesus gives us purpose in life. In John 16:16 Jesus said that every man presses into the kingdom of God. We are being fitted for our place as Kings and Priests. And that is what living is all about.

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: ‘would you take a bullet for evolution?’ or ‘would you bet your life on evolution?’

65. If life evolved into existence out of nothing but ‘a single molecule smaller than the period at the end of this sentence’, why is everything in the world beautiful instead of ugly as one might expect from a ‘big bang’?

A. It is not the struggle for existence evolution predicts. Beauty is everywhere. Colors, textures, fragrances, sounds, weather, tastes, smells, sights and so much variety and all of it very good. Evolution simply has no explanatory power to make good reason for it all. And it all works symbiotically together! This overwhelms any other explanation except creation by a great and powerful Creator and Sustainer.

Take the life of your favorite butterfly for example. This beautiful work of living art exists in four forms across its life span which is only a few days. That may be why they seem to be in such a hurry, flitting about as they do.

Butterflies are almost if not perfectly symmetrical. More than 22,00 different kinds have been identified. Each kind has only one or two types of flowering plants they will eat, live and breed from. They find their host and nectar plants mostly by their keen sense of smell. Their sense of smell enables them to locate these plants within a range of five miles, according to some scientific publications.

They will breed only with their kind and no other. Most of them land, eat and breed conspicuously. That is to say out in the open and quite readily visible, even to enemies which would devour them for lunch. They are not always hiding under a leaf or camouflaged to blend in with the background. Usually, certainly more frequently than not, they are in stark contrast, such as the bright orange color of an open Gulf Fritillary against a deep green Kalanchoe Piñata backdrop.

This is but one tiny example of the beauty of our world which runs contrary to the evolutionism model which suggests no reasons whatever for butterflies to even exist, let alone be beautiful and enduring, despite overwhelming odds against their continued existence. They should not be there in the evolutionism model because they serve no real survival value for anything else. Even in the caterpillar stage, the animals that would eat them have plenty of other choices on their menus.

Consider this: If all the butterflies you have seen were suddenly extinct, would your life be seriously jeopardized in any way? I dare say, probably not. Neither would it compromise the lives of anyone else. They are there for our enjoyment. They are all beautiful and really not necessary for life on earth, if you ask me. But I'm glad they are there. God made them and they could not have come on their own accord or by un-divine, imaginary and unexplainable forces.

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'big bang myth' or 'order out of chaos' or 'big bang debunked'

66. Does the 'Big Bang' account for the possibility of evolution as the source of all living and dead matter?

A. Order and harmony do NOT come from chaos and conflict. When was the last time you noticed a beautiful new building result from an explosion? Explosions result in piles of rubble or sanitation problems, not in anything alive or better in any way than what it once was before the explosion.

Besides that, to my knowledge, evolutionism only covers biology, that is, life studies. It does not really attempt to explain the origin of the universe. Of course, people can believe anything they want to believe, but that doesn't make it so. It really boils down to what a person wants out of life.

Either there is a God, and because of him, there is a purpose in life and a great future with him and no more death to worry about. Or, there is no such

God and we have no purpose and no future, other than to eat, drink and be merry for tomorrow we die. That's not good enough for me. There has to be more. Religion does not cut it for me. Even so-called Christianity is but a shadow of the real thing. With its rituals, traditions and erroneous doctrines which come more from Hollywood than from the bible, it is still man seeking to absolve himself from guilt but creating a god in his own image.

Authentic Christianity is God doing the seeking. He's doing the calling, forgiving and changing of one's heart, spirit and attitude into his image. That's the purpose of life. We are being recreated into a likeness of his Son, Jesus Christ.

Luke 16:16 records Jesus saying: 'The law and the prophets were until John; since that time, the kingdom of God is preached and every man presses into it.' That's the purpose of life. We must put on the divine nature with all his attributes to prepare for kingdom living. I personally believe the Bible tells us that his government or kingdom shall have no end. But if his kingdom is only limited to the earth, it would have an end.

The heavens are out there waiting for the children of God to come to them and spread life across the universe. Isaiah 9:6 states 'Of the increase of his government and peace there shall be no end; upon the throne of David, and upon his kingdom, to order it, and to establish it with judgment and with justice from henceforth even forever. The zeal of the LORD of hosts will perform this. (See also Isaiah 45:18, 51:16 and Luke 1:33)

Imagine having real power to change planets into living utopian worlds populated with our own offspring all across the universe. Imagine being able to go there and visit them at the speed of thought. God can do this and a whole lot more. We are to be his children and do what he does. I'm not going to trade that for anything this world can offer!

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'order from chaos?' or 'origin of the universe'

67. If mindless evolution is real, where did all the information in the world and the universe originate?

A. If evolution is responsible for all things, then it is also responsible for all the information in the universe, right down to your DNA. Yet, there is no way evolution would be powerful enough to make the information necessary to make anything exist from nothing, let alone the volumes of it needed to create life, even if given ‘millions of years’. I refer you to a YouTube ® video: ‘Does carbon dating prove the Earth is millions of years old?’ by TheLORDismyShepherd1. You can visit their Channel which contains many great videos debunking the ‘millions of years’ myth. Or just type in the search box ‘millions of years’.

Information is only the product of MIND. Evolution simply cannot explain the obvious and glaring presence of information in everything. Nothing can, ever has been or ever will be made without information. It comes from an intelligent Source. That intelligent Source by definition must be greater than what it puts the information into. So it is with us. There’s no getting around it.

As intelligent as we can be, we will never top our Creator. Lesser comes from Greater, not Greater comes from lesser. That intelligent recognition is reality. Therefore, God must exist and he must be greater than and much more intelligent than what he has created. He is the Great Mind that created your intelligence and mine. We don’t know the half of God’s greatness. Thankfully, he will come to the Earth and receive his own. The question is: ‘Will I be ready?’

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: ‘information proves God’ or ‘where did all the information come from?’

68. If evolution is true as the source of all life, why does each life form serve a specific purpose?

A. Evolution predicts survival as the sole purpose for existence. Yet each animal, each plant, each insect, each fish, bird or reptile serves a different and specific purpose in its own specific place and under its own specific living conditions. It is universally accepted as the norm. Everything has its purpose.

Humans are no different. We are built for a reason and with a great purpose in mind. Yet, on their own, humans can't seem to figure out what that purpose is. That's because we were built to need our Maker and fulfill his purpose for us. He set eternity in our hearts, that is, everyone at some point ponders eternity and the purpose of life.

Ask yourself this question: 'What did Jesus have to say about what the purpose of life is?' The answer is found in Luke 16:16: 'The law and the prophets were until John: since that time the kingdom of God is preached, and every man presses into it.'

Our purpose in life is to enter into eternal life in service in the Kingdom of God. This will be a real world-ruling government with Jesus as King of kings and Lord of lords. By the grace of God, he will let us into his story and gives us the right to rule and reign with him on the Earth. (See Revelation 5:10: 'And has made us unto our God kings and priests: and we shall reign on the earth.') Only a Great God and Creator could build the universe with a purpose for us in mind. Only a Great God could love us weak humans enough to die in our place so we could have access to this Tree of Life. Why shouldn't I take him up on the deal?

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'purpose proves God' or evolution and the meaning of life'

69. What were sex and gravity before they evolved?

A. This is kind of a tongue-in-cheek attempt at humor, but really, what was the world like before sex? My answer is that sex came online the day life came online, or maybe a short time later. The whole set of reproductive systems, male and female were designed to fit together. If the male aged and died before the female could evolve, we wouldn't be here having this conversation.

Reproduction, sex and gender prove God, because they could not have evolved over 'millions of years' lest they would cease to exist before they could reproduce. Just think about this. You and I are 'fearfully and wondrously made. We didn't just come into existence on our own.

Female bodies are completely different than their male counterparts. They could not have been more suitably ‘fitted’ or made to fit. And this principle holds true for every kind of living creature. That’s a lot of ‘evolving’! No, it proves a Grand Creator, not a mindless random collection of accidents.

On the gravity question, who can explain it at all? Why does it work? What are the conditions that came together to make it work? What or whom sustains gravity? Why is it that gravity is perfect for mankind? Why isn’t it too strong for us if it is just one of those things that ‘happen from time to time’?

The answer is the entire universe was designed and built for mankind or at least God had him in mind when he built it all. Gravity and every other physical law was purposefully set in motion by the Great Creator and cannot be denied. These laws did not ‘evolve’ into being.

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: ‘sex proves God exists’ or ‘where did gravity come from?’

70. How do microbes have the mind to think? If you poke them, they react. They know where to go to get their food and the know how to propel themselves so as to get at it. Where did they get this will power, understanding and navigational skill if evolution is real?

A. Let’s keep in mind what evolutionism is all about. Self. Proponents don’t like to keep God around, lest their deeds be exposed as evil. God embarrasses them. It’s really not about the evidence, but about the life style and choices people want to make. It’s about what they want out of life. Their lifestyle gets messed up with God peeking over their shoulders. They hate to feel guilty, yet they love their iniquity or sin. Microbes present a lot of problems for evolution.

Micro life is amazing in this day of super electron microscopes. We can see what they do as never before. Amebas have little minds. They make decisions. They travel. They reproduce. They eat and eliminate. They make choices that affect their lives. Where did all the information and power come from to make all this happen, let alone the fact of their very existence?

We don't really need to go into great detail to realize the reality that living creatures require a Living Creator. Anyone who will not believe this is simply in denial. They would much rather trust in themselves or those like them, than in God, his Bible or least of all, Christians. Many Christians set a poor example of what a Christian should be; no wonder evolutionists don't want to be Christians. A bumper sticker says: 'Why are there Atheists? Because there are Christians!'

We who claim to be Christians have a very high calling... to be like Christ. We should stand for something. Namely, we should stand for Jesus and his ways which lead to true freedom and life. He is the Way, the Truth and the Life. That is what we should look like as Christians. I pray that we all get better at looking like Jesus, starting with me.

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'microbes think' or 'microbes intelligence proves God'

71. If evolution is real, how could evolution 'fine tune' the Earth and the universe, as it appears to be?

A. The Big Bang hoax is the idea that nothing exploded into everything for no reason and that's how the universe came to be. This explosion took billions of years. Then, life took millions of years to self assemble out of nothing into what we see today. Yeah, that happens. We see stuff like that every day. Not.

Do explosions result in perfect round orbs? Do these orbs support themselves on nothing? Do they revolve and spin? Do they support life? Do they have moons that orbit around them in any timely, orderly manner? Do new orbs continue to form, long after the explosion is over? I'd say these ideas are absurd, silly and childish, but that would be an insult to the intelligence of children. They know better than this.

Even if all the billions of people believed the moon really is made out of Swiss cheese, would you believe that too? Sorry. Not me. Fine tuning, of not only our planet but the entire universe, is not possible without an intelligent, benevolent and extremely powerful Being to make it happen. Wake up to reality. Admit it. Swallow your pride. Get a grip.

Study the book 'The Case for a Creator' by Lee Strobel or watch his videos of YouTube ® to see the precision and detail of the great lengths God initiated to make the life you and I now enjoy possible. Truth is we don't know the half of it. It's way beyond the scope of this book, for sure. Suffice it to say there a lot more to it than meets the eye.

But here are just a few of the things that had to come together to make life possible: The right size planet. The right atmosphere. The right distance from the sun. The right brightness, temperature, radiation, rotation, color, size and gas make-up of the sun. The right oxygen, nitrogen, helium and other gas levels of the atmosphere of our mother earth planet. The right tilt and movement of the earth to provide seasons. The right constants that sustain the earth which in turn sustains our lives. The very presence of water required for carbon-based creatures. The right soil out of which we derive our food. The right vegetation which makes our oxygen, freshens our air and provides, shade, food and building materials.

You get the idea. All this did not happen by mere chance or happenstance. It was all set up for us. (I didn't mention all the intricacies about the physiology and psychology of human anatomy and mental acuity for sake of space.) And it was set up for a great purpose: so we might have life and have it to the full in relationship with our Creator across the breadth, length, height and depth of the entire universe for all time to come. That, to me, is more than enough reason to believe, trust and pursue God and all he has in mind to do for and with us as his children.

72. Evolutionism says science is truth and it has or someday will have all the answers. What is the Christian perspective of truth and its' originator?

A. What we know about the universe, our sun, our moon and the laws of Astrophysics, Medical Science, Physics, Chemistry and Biology is increasingly pointing toward the necessity of a Great Creator God. The more we look into living creatures and into the electron microscope at the molecular level, the more complex life is and the more the need for there to be a Creator. If there is a God and there is overwhelming prove that there indeed is, then it follows that we better find out what he said and take the responsibility to follow it.

Then the question becomes: ‘Which God is God?’ Is the God of the Bible the one and only true God? Is Allah God? How can we know and know that we know we’re right about this? Have you studied the Quran? Have you compared it with the Bible? If you were to search for the God of the Bible in a sincere life-long pursuit how would you know if you have found him, given the fact that he is invisible?

Jesus said, ‘Thy word is truth.’ (John 17:17). God must span time from before the beginning to the distant future. He must control all things, own all things and sustain all things, including you and me. If God is real, he can accurately predict the future and he must have left behind plenty of proof that he was there in the past.

After studying the Quran, at least the American translation since I don’t know Arabic, I must admit I was not impressed. I suggest you study it for yourself. It is not on par with the Holy Bible. Neither is any other ‘holy book’ in my humble opinion.

Now, if the Bible is truly the word of the one and only True God, let’s see on-the-ground proof. Go to YouTube® and in the search box type: the real Mount Sinai or Sodom and Gomorrah found.

Each one of these contributors has multiple videos showing Noah’s Ark, the Red Sea Crossing, Mount Sinai, the Golden Calf Altar, the Split Rock and other video evidence of the historical and verifiable evidence that the Holy Bible is actual and factual. Be brave enough to see this evidence and believe the truth.

73. If evolution were true, how did small creatures like butterflies and honey bees come with such features as an extraordinary sense of smell?

A. On the molecular level, many of the features of these creatures are still and probably always will be a mystery. Bumble Bees and Honey Bees should not be able to fly due to an excessive body weight-to-wing-lift-and-motion anomaly. Science cannot explain this. Evolution doesn't come close to explaining this.

Then there's their ability to find suitable mates. Given their multi-eyed compound eyes, how can they find their flowers, their mates, their pollen, their nectar, their host plants or their fellows? All these are mysteries. They think. How do they do that? They make choices which affect their lives and longevity. How do they do that?

Could evolution supply the information and power required to make all this happen? It cannot be proved scientifically. It cannot be replicated in the lab. It cannot be tested, verified nor disproved by all the modern technical equipment in the world because it is implanted in the minds of these tiny creatures. Evolution simply cannot account for this and neither can science.

There is a spirit component or essence to all life that cannot be quantified or falsified by science. The closer scientists look at God's creatures, the more mysteries they uncover, which is to say, the less they discover actually know. They will never reach the bottom.

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'bees and butterflies debunk evolution'

74. If evolution is really how we all got here, how did it provide for dignity, rights, free will and the desires we all have for self preservation?

A. Evolution cannot provide anything. Rights are given by one in authority who has the power to grant them. Your 'rights' all come from God. Men do not give rights. Governments do not give them; they are supposed to protect them.

Men and women, once given their rights, own them. They were given by someone Greater than themselves, or they would not have them. They are a gift, albeit possibly temporary, from our Maker. Dignity comes from realizing the fact that these rights are endowed, granted and unalienable.

You have Free Will because God gave it to you. You can make your own choices and decide for yourself. You have a mind of your own because God share what he enjoys with you. Your mind is similar to his, not some animals. Our minds create new ideas, they think, they have language, can tune in to God's own mind or Spirit; our minds elevate us far above any animal, enable us to learn, store and retrieve information and have few limits; our minds work for us, protect us and nourish us. They can be programmed and reprogrammed. They come ready to be 'written on' from the get go.

Self-preservation keeps us alive. It is basic to our survival. We need to survive. We need the One who gave us our minds and we innately desire to be like him and to be with him. Few things of mind come pre-programmed, but one is that we think about eternity. This one is universal. We all think about it at some point. Maybe this, too, is a matter of self-preservation. We don't want to die, especially permanently. Yet we practice death every day. We call it sleep. It is good for our minds. It rebuilds and refreshes them.

Evolution cannot do anything about anything because it is sheer fantasy. There must be a God. I think, therefore God is. If I exist, so does he who made me. That makes sense. God is not going anywhere just because people don't want God to exist.

75. What does evolution have in common with Organized Religion?

A. Evolutionists will automatically say: 'Nothing!' But I beg to disagree. Religion is all about the riddance of guilt. So-called Christianity absolves people of sin and its associated guilt by following certain do's and don'ts, legalism, if you will. Some churches require parishioners to do penance or pay money to get their sins absolved. With evolution, the way to get rid of guilt is just to get rid of the god that makes you feel guilty. Just another form of religion, if you ask me.

Other forms of religion require self flagellation, self torture or the performance of certain rigorous rituals. This is why I lump all forms of religion together in a giant dump heap. I would take all the ‘gods’ people have concocted out of their own imaginations and rid the earth of them. The Bible actually predicts a day coming when ‘all the gods that did not create the heavens and the earth shall perish...’

Notice Jeremiah 10:10-12: 10 But the LORD is the true God, he is the living God, and an everlasting king: at his wrath the earth shall tremble, and the nations shall not be able to abide his indignation. 11 Thus shall you say unto them, The gods that have not made the heavens and the earth, even they shall perish from the earth, and from under these heavens. 12 He has made the earth by his power, he has established the world by his wisdom, and has stretched out the heavens by his discretion.

At that day, can you imagine anyone still clinging to evolution or religion in any form? Of course not! Who needs any of them at the time when God himself shall live here with us? No one! He will provide ample proof of who he is and all shall know him from the least to the greatest. Evolution will be ridiculed and mocked as the silliest religion of all for all time to come. It’s embarrassing. Otherwise intelligent adults believing in this imaginary theory as if it were the truth in some circle would be called neurosis.

76. How could a god who doesn’t span the eons accurately predict the future?

A. Short answer: no one who does not span across the eons can accurately predict anything. Thus, if there is such a One who could accurately predict the future, it is proof that he exists, spans the eons and cares enough to share the information with his children. Now all we have to do is find out what this God said would happen in our future and wait to see it come to pass.

One such prophecy is found in the Book of Isaiah, Chapter 17, verse One through Three: The burden of Damascus. Behold, Damascus is taken away from being a city, and it shall be a ruinous heap. 2 The cities of Aroer are forsaken: they shall be for flocks, which shall lie down, and none shall make them afraid. 3 The fortress also shall cease from Ephraim, and the kingdom from Damascus, and the remnant of Syria: they shall be as the glory of the children of Israel, says the LORD of hosts.'

As I understand this passage, according to the prophet Isaiah, Damascus will be nuked. Leveled. Ruined and destroyed. This is a city of nearly 2 million people. It is a major cultural center and has never been destroyed. God said it would be. Watch for this to happen in the near future. If it does would you then believe?

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'Damascus to be destroyed' 'on the ground proof God exists'

77. If evolution is truly the means by which we came into being, where did man get his emotions, aptitudes, abilities, attitudes, ideas, creativity, senses, wisdom, understanding... and many such like things that no animal can compare to?

A. This is a loaded question. It's a question loaded with the intricacies of the human mind. How does the mind come up with ideas? How does it add and subtract? How does it learn and remember what it learns? What gives us the ability to do anything? How do we get attitudes and then the power to control them? How does evolution provide the five senses of sight, smell, taste, hearing and feeling? What about intuition? How do we come to have and exercise wisdom?

No animal has any of these things except the five senses and a touch of low-level basic personality. Humans are much more complex and sophisticated. We scientists have noticed and observed no evolution of these great gifts that separate mankind from the beasts. They are not evolving over time into someone or something better and we are not devolving into something lesser. Why? Evolution is silent about this. It is silent about things its proponents don't want to talk about. It doesn't want to entertain the concept that there might be a God and that if there really is, then we ought to change our ways.

We are made in the image of God. As God, he alone has the rights as an owner does over his property. But I might say, 'So now what?' What does God expect of me? What does he want me to do? Jesus put it simply, 'Follow me.'

He doesn't just want bleacher fans or spectators. He want active players on the field. He wants to be pursued.

He said in Matthew 11:25-30: 25 At that time Jesus answered and said, I thank you, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because you have hid these things from the wise and prudent, and have revealed them unto babes. 26 Even so, Father: for so it seemed good in your sight. 27 All things are delivered unto me of my Father: and no man knows the Son, but the Father; neither knows any man the Father, save the Son, and he to whomsoever the Son will reveal him. 28 Come unto me, all you that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. 29 Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and you shall find rest unto your souls (lives). 30 For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light.

You have a destiny, and it lies with God. You were designed to have a working relationship to him as your Father and it is to last for all time to come. Evolution cannot provide any such thing. To proponents, it's 'eat, drink and be merry for tomorrow we die.' To them, when we die, that's it. There is no more. No wonder God calls them 'fools'. Psalms 14:1 says: The fool has said in his heart, 'There is no God.' They are corrupt, they have done abominable works, there is none that does good.' You don't have to be one of them.

As far as evolution goes, I'd say now is a really good time to give it up. It's not real. You may as well get used to the idea that there really is a God and it would be smart to find out what he's doing.

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'fools say there is no God' 'mind proves God'

78. In Stanley Miller's famous 1953 experiment using glass tubing, flasks, heat, electricity and specific gases replicating the earlier Earth's atmosphere, didn't he prove life arose from the right chemical attractions, combinations and conditions?

A. No. First of all there's no way to determine what the Earth's early atmosphere was like. Second, the red goo 'organic chemicals' or amino acids needed for life that were supposedly the results of his experiment were not alive. In fact, they were toxic to life. What were they really? It's Cyanide and Formaldehyde, embalming fluid, hardly conducive to life! In fact, formaldehyde or cyanide is so toxic, a small amount will kill you in a very short time.

Most scientists have dismissed his experiment all together, in the light of current findings. Why then, if the publishers of our children's textbooks were honest, is this data still there? All books claiming Miller's experiment is proof of evolution being the means for the creation of life should be destroyed and disregarded as evolutionary propaganda.

It is a crime in my opinion to continue this charade, foisting off this lie to our children. We may as well promote the flying spaghetti monster as the creator of all life. Who created this fictional 'flying spaghetti monster' anyway? Well, let's just see. Let's just see what Wikipedia has to say about it. We type in flying spaghetti monster in the search bar and we read:

'The Flying Spaghetti Monster (FSM) is the deity of the parody religion<sup>[1][2]</sup> the Church of the Flying Spaghetti Monster or Pastafarianism. The "Flying Spaghetti Monster" first appeared in a satirical open letter written by Bobby Henderson in 2005, protesting the decision by the Kansas State Board of Education to permit the teaching of intelligent design as an alternative to evolution in public school science classes.<sup>[3]</sup> In the letter, Henderson parodied the concept of intelligent design by professing belief in a supernatural creator that closely resembles spaghetti and meatballs. Henderson further called for Flying Spaghetti Monsterism to be allotted equal time in science classrooms alongside intelligent design and evolution.<sup>[4]</sup>

After Henderson published the letter on his website, it rapidly became an internet phenomenon and a symbol for the case against teaching intelligent design in public schools.<sup>[5]</sup> Pastafarian "beliefs" are generally satires of creationism. They are presented both on Henderson's Church of the Flying Spaghetti Monster website, where he is described as "prophet", and in The Gospel of the Flying Spaghetti Monster, written by Henderson and published by Villiard Press in 2006. The central belief is that an invisible and undetectable Flying Spaghetti Monster created the universe. Pirates are revered as the original Pastafarians (a portmanteau of pasta and Rastafarian),<sup>[6]</sup> and Henderson asserts that the steady decline in the number of pirates over the years has resulted in global warming.<sup>[4]</sup> The FSM community currently congregates at Henderson's website to share ideas and crafts devoted to the Flying Spaghetti Monster.

Because of its popularity and exposure, the Flying Spaghetti Monster is often used as a contemporary version of Russell's teapot – an argument that theories that cannot be proven false must be proven true by those who propose them, or be rejected. While generally praised by the media and endorsed by members of the scientific community, the Flying Spaghetti Monster has received criticism from the intelligent design community. Self-described Pastafarians have engaged in religious disputes, including in Polk County, Florida, where they played a role in dissuading the local school board from adopting new rules on teaching evolution.'

I suggest you go there and read the entire article. It's hilarious the lengths to which evolutionary proponents will stoop to keep their fame and fortunes intact by duping the masses with these silly, but funny concoctions. Isn't it funny to poke fun at God, your Creator who holds your life and your future in his hands? In a word: no, not really.

79. Why does life only work in concert with other forms of life? Doesn't this prove survival of the fittest?

A. They call it a 'symbiotic relationship'. Could it be because God designed and built it that way? Bigger eats smaller. Stronger eats weaker. Faster eats slower. Smarter eats dumber. Humans eat everything else, but usually not each other. That's the way our planets 'natural realm operates.

There are carnivores, herbivores and omnivores. The food that supports life originates in the soil. In the soil are microbes that give the plants their food. Everything is dependent on something. Water, air, sunlight, chemistry and other factors must be present to support life and keep it going.

God provides the food and water and all the other factors to keep your life going and mine. When one carefully and honestly examines the human body or any creature for that matter, design is evident throughout. Every cell looks like a large city under an electron microscope. Each and every part functions in perfect harmony and performs specific jobs which carry food, provide mobility, eliminate waste products, reproduce, communicate or something else.

These things are far too complex to have arisen undirected on their own without a Creator. Instead of 'proving' evolution as the vehicle that brought life to the world, it proves the existence, creative prowess and genius of God. Like it or not, no other explanation has the power to do this.

To me, evolution is empty, hopeless, futureless and ignorant in that it ignores the evidence and buys into a lie anyway. It makes no sense. It cannot explain the existence of anything. Symbiosis is planned parenting by God himself. He alone knows what is best and for how long. It may not always be this way. That is symbiosis may be changed, at least to some degree, in the future.

For example, in the Bible, in the book of Isaiah, chapter 11, the very nature of man and beast will be converted from away from the carnivorous, violent symbiotic way to a new nature, that of herbivorous kindness and gentleness in spirit. This I think will be a grand and sweeping change and will be welcomed by all.

Notice what it says: 'And there shall come forth a rod out of the stem of Jesse, and a Branch shall grow out of his roots: 2 And the spirit of the LORD shall rest upon him, the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the spirit of counsel and might, the spirit of knowledge and of the fear of the LORD; 3 And shall make him of quick understanding in the fear of the LORD: and he shall not judge after the sight of his eyes, neither reprove after the hearing of his ears: 4 But with righteousness shall he judge the poor, and reprove with equity for the meek of the earth: and he shall smite the earth with the rod of his mouth, and with the breath of his lips shall he slay the wicked.

5 And righteousness shall be the girdle of his loins, and faithfulness the girdle of his reins. 6 The wolf also shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid; and the calf and the young lion and the fatling together; and a little child shall lead them. 7 And the cow and the bear shall feed; their young ones shall lie down together: and the lion shall eat straw like the ox. 8 And the sucking child shall play on the hole of the asp, and the weaned child shall put his hand on the cockatrice' den. 9 They shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain: for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the LORD, as the waters cover the sea.'

But the skeptics and anti-theists will say 'Who cares what the Bible says. It's fiction!' What do I say to that? 'Some day on your timeline of life, you will meet your Maker, regardless of whether you believe it or not. Will you care then? Why not rather make the most of your life while there is still time? Would I be showing you love if I didn't at least try to tell you? I care too much to do that to you, even though we have never met. It's never too late to change your mind.

Some Christian or church may have hurt you in some way. We're only mere mortals and we all do stupid things. The church isn't perfect because it is full of non-perfect people. Please don't throw the baby out with the bath water. Reach down deep inside and let it go. Start over. Allow yourself to love and be loved by those who know Jesus and because of him have a future.

It's not like many TV preachers teach about heaven being eternal retirement in the clouds, either. It's about a Kingdom with Jesus returning to be King of kings. You can be a part of his government. Jesus promised to return to take over world government, not to siphon off Christians in the 'Rapture' and let the rest go to hell.

So, granted, the church has a lot wrong. But you can be right. Follow the book. Read your Bible. Add it all up like an arithmetic problem and you will find the right answers. We can trust it because there are multiple millions of tons of on-the-ground proof. Search YouTube and you can see this proof...

80. Why does the bacterial flagellum with its 40+ proteins which is the transport mechanism of bacteria present a huge problem for evolutionists?

A. It's a real problem because of the high degree of design involved in making it happen. It can rotate at an estimated 100,000 rpm, stop itself, reverse and regain its 100,000 rpm in only  $\frac{1}{4}$  of a turn. No humanly devised motor can even come close to that. Evolution says 'It's just one of those anomalies that happen from time to time.' Or 'It came to life on the backs of crystals.' Or it just came into existence undirected over the course of millions of years.' Or 'Just because we may not be able to come up with an appropriate answer today doesn't mean we won't find one tomorrow.'

But my contention is if nothing can 'create this out of 'necessity' or any other reason, why can't humans do it, given all their intelligence and creative ability? The flagellum has many complex parts such as a rotator shaft, drive shaft, armature, stator, basal body, universal joint and filament(s) with thousands of flexible moving parts. They are made of something. What? No one knows. And where did the assembly instructions come from? And who built the first one and made it work? And how does the bacterium know how to use it to navigate where it chooses to go?

Let's see science make one, even if we give scientists all the parts. They will never be able to do it. Even if they could, it still would not be alive or functional. And the communication connection between it and the bacterium would not exist. The bottom line is that we just don't have what it takes. We can't make anything alive, even if the parts are bestowed. To put it another way, no scientist or group of them will ever be able to create anything alive, even if given all the parts. The spark of life remains missing from our grasp. It is only found in the realm and jurisdiction of God himself. It is Super-natural.

I highly recommend the study of the flagellum. Go to YouTube ® and just type in 'bacterial flagellum' and you will find numerous excellent videos showing the research and animation work invested by scientists regarding the exquisite design of this remarkable sub-microscopic phenomenon.

Beware of course, of the naysayers, like Dr. Eugenie Scott, who seem hell-bent to defend their evolutionary bias beyond reason saying evolution has the power to build the flagella automatically without design and without a Designer. If that was true, why can't she build one? If nothing can do it and she can't doesn't that make her less powerful than nothing? How can she be less than zero?

She claims: 'Just because we haven't yet explained something doesn't mean we won't explain it sometime in the future and the Creationist's argument for design is not valid just because we have not yet explained it.' My answer is what is taking you so long to find out you don't have what it takes? Evolutionists have had well over 150 years since Darwin, yet not one shred of real, testable and repeatable scientific evidence for the theory has been produced. Why? Could it be the evidence points to a Creator?

Sometimes I question their ability to reason. They get rich selling their silly books making fun of God and 'those dumb ignoramuses stupid enough to follow him'. They enjoy the fame and notoriety that comes from making outlandish claims, calling foul and juvenile names and bashing those saints who want to do what's right and teach only the truth. Shame on them all! Sometimes they should look in the mirror before they accuse anyone of being ignorant. My mom always reminded me 'When you point the finger, there are at least three fingers pointing back at you.'

Could it be they are desperate to cling to their archaic, outdated and disproven theory so they can keep their wealth, influence and power going, even if it costs their eternal lives? Are status, money and power over people so important as to validate the wasting of one's one and only opportunity for real true life? Are you going to worship money or God? Will you serve and trust people and tradition or God and his truth? As for me, I'm not going to waste my opportunity to live forever for the sake of all the money, fame or power in the world!

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'flagellum'

81. If evolution is truly the means by which all life arose, why do we only observe intelligent causes producing new products, inventions or new intelligent causes?

A. The theory of evolution as the origin of all life once again faces an impossible to explain phenomenal enigma. Science on the one hand sees that only creative, intelligent human beings create intelligent things. For example, Steve Jobs and his company created the iPods, iPhone, iPad, Apple TV and other ingenious I products in the Apple line. Thomas Edison created the light bulb, radio, the phonograph, tape recording and many other remarkable inventions. Ben Franklin created the lightning rod, eye glasses, the Franklin stove, the odometer and the early battery. Leonardo da Vinci invented the submarine, the helicopter, the parachute and the ancestor of the airplane. Alexander Graham Bell is credited for the telegraph and telephone.

In every case, intelligent products come only from pre-existing intelligent inventors. But in the theory of evolution, non-intelligence builds intelligence and even makes it come to life. Seems to me it is illogical, unreasonable and sheer fantasy to pretend this can happen. Yet evolution proponents say they are the reasonable thinkers and creationists are the ‘whacked’ ones. They are not interested in scientific evidence at all, though they claim they have it in spades. Truth suggests otherwise. There is not a shred of evidence in favor of life arising undirected out of nowhere via evolution. It just isn’t there.

Of course you are free to disagree, but where is the evidence. Don’t tell me you have a warehouse for lab full of fossils and bone fragments you have categorized and tagged by phylum, date and scientific name, and claim that as your proof; big deal. Anyone with enough money and imagination can do that. So what? That doesn’t constitute proof because it is not testable, falsifiable or repeatable, so it’s not science. Nor is it any kind of proof.

Show me what happened in the past. Show me what will come to pass in the future, if you can. Show me the mechanisms that made life appear on Earth out of nowhere. Were you there when the Earth was made? No? Can you make any life form, even a simple blade of grass? Go ahead and create a life form; I dare you. When you try, you can’t use anything already in existence as building material; you must create your own out of your great power alone.

Having a little trouble doing this, son? Maybe tomorrow will be a better day. Why don’t you try then? Only God can create life from his own ingenuity, power and fiat. Nothing else will do. Beware of superstitions. We all seem to have trouble keeping them away. In my view, evolution is just another one of them to avoid.

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: ‘evolution is just another superstition’ or ‘intelligent agent required for life to begin’

82. Complexity + information + specification + purpose + reproduction + structure + pattern + harmony + power + environment + intelligence + communication + mobility + hydraulics + DNA + mind + spirit and much more are all required to make life; but man still can’t make it, even if he met every conceivable required condition. If evolution ‘created’ life over the course of billions of years, why can’t we?

A. Evolutionists say we probably will break through that barrier some day, but the real truth is that God has set limits we will not cross as human beings, regardless of our ‘vast’ intellects. It’s not the size of the brain, or the quality of the brain but the spirit in man that gives him his mind and its intellect or lack thereof. The brain is the computer or server in which all things known to a person are stored. If a portion of the brain becomes injured or damaged, some of the information stored there will be lost, yet the person remains largely intact.

Life is far too complex to suppose it all ‘just happened’. Life has meaning, significance and purpose only when plugged in to the Source of its power; that is its Maker. Get rid of God, and you lose everything. Life will be totally meaningless. My question for evolutionists is why would you want a meaningless existence with no hope and no future? Instead, why not let go of your foolish pride and give it up? You can’t win and getting rid of God really doesn’t make you free or get rid of you annoying guilt feelings. If it did, you would no longer feel anything. Is that what you want? Not me!

No, I want a life filled with meaningful ideas, plans, hopes and dreams, and one that convinces me that I am worth something to someone. I want to be convinced to the core of my being that I have a future after this life is over. It all adds up to a resurrection with the promise of a better body, composed of spirit, that will no longer have the possibility of damage, suffering, pain or death. It will have the power to travel at the speed of thought and be able to disappear and reappear again at will. Why wouldn't I want that life?

This is not a fantasy, but the type of life and body we see in the resurrected Jesus. He promised we could join him in that type of life and do great wonders for ever across the universe. This is not some vague idea of retirement in the cloud somewhere, devoid of meaning or plan or purpose. In fact, the Bible alludes to the idea that through God's children life will spread across the entire universe. Where you might ask? Try Isaiah 40:22, 45:18, 51:16, 66:22 and Revelation 21:21 for starters.

Can't we give God a little credit for being greater than we can possibly imagine? The silly Hollywood carton-style of heaven, being a cloud onto which the convert goes to roll around on in a white robe for all eternity doesn't cut it. God is so much bigger-minded than that. What would be fun about that? It's boring! Why do you suppose he made all those worlds out there? All that real estate is out there to one day become inhabited and renewed. We, as God's children, will be doing those things we see our Father do. And what is that? It is building worlds and filling them with life! Maybe it's time we all looked at the Bible again with a fresh pair of lenses!

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'complexity debunks evolution' or 'why are there so many stars?'

83. The body's ability to make blood which carries energy rich oxygen and nutrients to all the cells of the body and carries away waste products... How could that system have evolved, for if the first blood cell failed the body would die?!

A. This is the same argument we could use for all body parts, functions and systems. They all had to come together at the same instant in a flash or it simply would die within seconds. Evolution is no match for this argument. It cannot account for this fact of life. Without the blood and the entire circulatory system, all life would cease to exist.

Instead, it just works. Blood is manufactured automatically for us by our bones which in turn are made from the blood. It works in you and me and in all life forms every day we live. That is just the way it is in all carbon-based life forms. We find and consume our food, which in itself is a miracle, then the blood circulating in the stomach, passes minute food particles to each tiny platelet and pushed them all through miles of pipe we call the blood vessels to each and every cell in the entire body.

The blood is a living thing. That is where our life is. We don't want it to leak out and we don't have to be told this. We keep close tabs on any cut or tear in our skin and we watch how our blood clots, which by the way is a whole other issue and very complicated. But at least we instinctively know we don't want our blood to leak out lest we die. I still find it almost amazing that evolutionists aren't awed by the systems of the body because had they not all come alive in a flash, a heartbeat if you will, none of it, including the blood, would have survived.

This is no accident. It had to be planned well in advance and then implemented with great precision, skill and power. Evolution can't account for it because it states 'it all arose gradually over the course of millions of years.' This means a gradual 'step' followed by another, followed by another until life appeared. But is that really the way it happened? I have real doubts, because each step would have died long before it could somehow find a mate or come together with some other unit that would cause survival.

Say for example a heart decided it needed something to do, like pump blood. Did it hop around looking for tubes we call 'vessels' to attach to and then find blood cells to invite inside? Can we see how ridiculous this whole concept really is?

All the body's systems, parts, electrical impulses, nerve signals, etc. had to be made at the same instant by the same Maker or death would immediately happen.

You can buy into the fantasy of evolution all you want, but believing it cannot make it so. It's not real and they who are into it not in denial, and those who are honest with themselves, know this. It's time we gave this inferior theory the boot!

84. Blood clotting... no way that could have evolved for the first person who cut herself would have died trying to evolve the ability to clot her blood, so how can Darwinism account for this, since evolution supposedly requires ‘millions of years for life to emerge?’

A. If you mean by the term ‘evolution’ you mean change over time, granted. All life forms do that, but we’re talking about the ‘Origin of the Species’, whatever a ‘species’ is. But for blood clotting to have evolved over time seems ludicrous to me because the first living being would have died long before it could reproduce, so there would not be beings that would be alive today.

I’ll do my best to explain how blood clotting or better said blood coagulation works, though sometimes I wonder if science really knows everything about the subject. Coagulation is a complex process resulting in the stopping of blood loss due to an injury. A damaged capillary, vein or artery gets sealed over by a blanket of platelets and a layer of fibrin, which creates the seal. It’s kind of like those self-sealing inner tubes on spare tires.

Coagulation begins almost instantly when we cut a blood supply line. The body knows what to do without being told to. It is not necessary to even give it a thought. The damaged endothelium lining in the blood vessel immediately gets the repair started. Changes in the plasma protein fibrinogen and tissue factors which still allude science seem to work together automatically to repair the damage. Platelets rush to the site and start piling up, sticking to one another with a kind of sticky secretion. Then the plasma proteins take over during what is termed secondary hemostasis. This occurs in response to a complicated cascade of fibrous strands which shore up the platelet seal.

This stops the bleeding and begins the repair process of the wound. Without this going on, we would all bleed to death at the slightest scratch. Disorders of this mechanism can go either way. Too much ability to clot and thrombosis occurs. Too little and unwanted hemorrhage happens. It requires both cellular platelets and proteins with coagulant factors to make this work, and they must be in perfect balance or a disorder is the result. Some say diet has a lot to do with it. Others say exercise or liquid intake is the main thing. I think it is d, all of the above.

By that I mean everything needs to be in balance. Right diet, sunshine, fresh air, exercise, liquids and minimal toxicity in these things result in good health. But getting back to the question, how did evolution make it happen? The simple answer is: it didn't. It's far too complicated to have happened just by accident.

Blood coagulation is not simple. It is something that evolution could never accomplish. For further information, watch the YouTube videos on how coagulation occurs. It involves lots of different and complex factors and chemicals I don't have space here to cover, such as zymogen, serine protease enzymes, glyco-protein co-factors, transglutaminase, stromal fibroblasts, leukocytes, the tenase complex, lipids, vitamin K, calcium, hematic gamma-glutamyl carboxyl and much more. The whole study may take a lifetime and we still would not know all there is to know about it.

The bottom line is we have a Great Creator who DOES know all about it and he's the only one who does. We may as well get used to the fact of life, that Darwinism has too many problems and needs to be abandoned. It's outmoded and outdated and it doesn't have sufficient explanatory power to explain even one of the thousands of complex factors that must come together instantly at the same time to make it work.

85. Since the earth is the only planet with life on it out of billions of galaxies each full of billions of stars and planets, how does Darwinism address the 'big bang' and the fact that, as far as we know, earth is 'life exclusive'? In other words, why is the earth the only planet, as far as we can detect, with life on it?

A. First of all, we really don't know if other planets support or contain life; we just have been unable to detect it anywhere in the universe. Second, Darwin does not address the 'big bang', since the theory was proposed over 100 years after Darwin.

Consider what a religion is: It is a belief system concerning a cause, nature and purpose of the universe, especially when considering the creation or production of life and the origin of it, by an entity or agency, agencies or happenstance, often involving devotional and ritual observances, and often but not limited to a moral code governing the conduct of human affairs. It involves the collection, body of or congregation of a number of persons or sects adhering to these beliefs or a specific fundamental set of concepts or practices.

To subscribe or submit to anything fitting that description is to become a part of said religion. That to me could easily apply to evolution. Its proponents follow its tenants without looking. Proof is not required for belief. It is assimilated because others have assimilated it, regardless of study, research or facts. My question is: Is this what you want? Is that all it takes for you to believe? Call me hard headed, but I need a lot more than this! I want on-the-ground proof. Show me!

You may ask, 'Well, religions all have a holy book, a high priest or a priesthood, governing body, support personnel outreaches and literature they produce, so how could evolution be a religion?'

My answer is this: Evolution's holy books are the Origin of the Species and the Descent of Man. High priests would include Richard Dawkins, Sam Harris, Christopher Hitchens, Eugenie Scott, the late Stephen Jay Gould and others. Governing bodies would include the Society for the Study of Evolution, Human Behavior & Evolution Society and the National Center for Science Education. They support or participate in many outreaches like Richard Dawkins' Un-baptising Tour, many speaking engagements, book signing tours, magazine articles, websites, etc.

The point is: no one really knows much about the origin of the universe because there were no witnesses there to see it happen. Theories are not facts. Evolution is merely a theory, and not a very good one at that, because it cannot be proved or verified, yet proponents claim it has been proved and is indeed a fact. The only thing they got right about that last statement is that evolution is a 'has been'. Modern technology and honest scientists confirm the theory is in real trouble. The evidence simply does not support it.

Give it up. It has been disproved overwhelmingly by close observation and real scientific study done on numerous varieties of animals, fish, birds and plants over many years by an ever-growing number of prominent scientists who recognize the truth that the entire animal must come online in an instant or the animal would die. No gradual step-by-step 'process' will work. It's that simple. Evolution is dead, if you ask me. It just doesn't have sufficient explanatory power. The closer technology brings us to the inner workings of the cell, the more the detail, intricacy and complexity we find. Evolution simply does not have the power needed to build life and it can't adequately even explain any part of its origin.

86. Evolution claims survival of the fittest as the only motivating force to improve life. But how does that translate to human beings spiritually?

A. In evolution it is 'dog eat dog' with no room for the weak. No improvement is possible from any outside source such as God, the Holy Spirit or Jesus. There is no one to pray to and no one to hear our prayers. It is an odd religion because it has no Creator God who has any authority or power to intervene in the course of human affairs. Instead, its adherents have to fend for themselves without a Provider to take care of them or love them.

It's a rather sad state to be in, because it's like being homeless, starving and thirsty and being caught in a vortex dragging them to their doom with a ball and chain around their ankles while inching closer by the day toward their execution. They are on death row with no possibility of escape. They have no future and there is no afterlife for them to look forward to. Why step over a billion dollar fortune to pick up a wooden nickel? That is what they are doing. They would rather die than change themselves for God.

What makes it worse is the fact that they could have petitioned the judge for mercy and he would have granted it, reversing their sentence and setting them free. He would have marked his account closed, paid-in-full. He would have allowed him access to his God-given right to an afterlife full of joy and wonderful things to see and do with friends and family. There's a great big universe out there, and I believe it is God's intention to bring it to life!

No Hollywood version of Heaven for me, thanks. I don't want eternal boredom sitting on my cloud just 'rolling around heaven all day'. No, I think God has bigger things in mind than that. Let's give God a little credit, shall we? He's much bigger minded than making eternal retirement lounging on a cloud for all eternity for his children.

Now, you may be asking where in the Bible you can find evidence for the idea that God is building the universe to be inhabited. Well, check out Isaiah 40:22-23, 45:18 and 51:16 for starters.

Evolution cannot explain a lot of things. One of those is the work of the Holy Spirit which they deny. This is the greatest tool, if I may use that term, for improving ones' life that was ever available to mankind. Some people say the Holy Spirit is only the power of God. Others say 'No, it is the third person of the Godhead.' A pastor friend of mine put it this way: 'If the Holy Spirit isn't a real personality, how could we grieve it?' Good question.

Admittedly, I don't know everything. Neither does anyone else. Here's what I do know: God gives the Holy Spirit to those that obey him. And the Holy Spirit can be a witness. (See Acts 5:32) I know I am led by it and that when and if I obey this inner voice which is my Guide, things always go better and in the end work out for my best. This is something we all need and evolutionists can't utilize due to denial of it.

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'Holy Spirit denied by evolutionist' and 'Holy Spirit is proof of God'

87. Are evolutionists correct when they say symbiosis is just the natural way things work in evolution?

A. Symbiotic relationships could not exist without a Creator because they would never develop between competitors for food. Extinction would have ruined the ongoing stream of life. Why? Because each animal must eat its specific suite of foods that it was designed to handle. It's somewhat like jet fuel or diesel being put into your car; it won't run long on it. It will stall out and die. So it is with carbon-based life forms.

Some varieties eat and can only eat one particular kind of food, such as the Panda eating only Bamboo. Each animal is specifically designed and can eat only specific food. A creature's teeth, their hands or paws, their digestive systems, their preferred climate, their instincts and proclivities all indicate design. The question is whether evolution, i.e. nothing has the power to make this happen for each and every creature that has ever lived. The real answer to me is no.

As a designer and technical engineer/draftsman for more than 40 years, I know that everything that is built or that exists started with a set of plans. The more detailed these plans are and the more stringent the builder to adhere to the dictates of the plan, the more perfect the project turns out. Life is in the details. So is the Maker. His signature permeates each particle in any given life form. There is no denying it. Every creature is special, different and specifically built for its own interlocking purpose and, in my view, designed that way.

Also, that design requires and obviously indicates a Designer. It simply doesn't happen without a plan. Evolutionary scientists are no match as far as having explanatory power, let alone the power to show it in the lab, electron microscope or in the open field. So, to cut to the chase, evolution is a fantasy. Now, granted the church as a whole still has, in my view a lot of fantasy as well. To me, it's a fantasy to believe we must just accept God's existence on faith.

Here's a question: Did God leave us any on-the-ground proof that he is real and means what he says? How about the earth and the heavens for starters? Design, mathematics, forces and laws are everywhere and in every particle in the universe. Those who still refuse to acknowledge his existence, for whatever the reason, want complete control over their lives. But that is the biggest fantasy of all. None of us are self-sustaining. We are all dependent on lots of things we had nothing to do with creating. We were all born into a ready-made world. Congratulations! You're alive. Thank God. Through him you and I have a future!

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'symbiosis proves evolution or God?'

88. How does evolution account for miniature life? Can evolution satisfy my need for peace of mind? Two different questions... are they related?

A. Evolution cannot explain microscopic life because it cannot explain how any kind of life came out of lifeless matter. Only a Great Creator God could miniaturize life far beyond our ability to see the bottom of it. Mankind is so limited; he will never completely unpack the cell and figure out how life came to be.

We want to be our own god. Or we want to be God ourselves. Are we really so great? Can I sustain my life beyond my normal expected lifetime? No. I cannot perpetuate my life for five minutes and neither can anyone else. How then can we account for life? What is the best explanation? Life is too complex to have arisen spontaneously and humans as intellectual as we can be can't make a 'simple' blade of grass. Everything we can observe is full of mathematics and design inside and out.

Everyone will admit that computers, TV's, cars, boats and planes have designers, yet far more complicated life doesn't? It all just came into being as one of those odd anomalies that 'just happen in the universe from time to time'... Where's the logic? It's missing... It doesn't compute. It comes back to motives. Why do people want to disavow belief in God?

People reject God because their deeds are evil and they don't like to feel guilty. After watching hundreds of atheists and evolutionists I've noted their anger. They all seem bitter and off balance emotionally. They have no peace of mind though some of them try to be jovial or tongue-in-cheeky in their remarks. To me, it's a front to hide the bitterness and deep unhappiness they feel inside.

With them, there can be no peace of mind. Why? They don't find any purpose in living other than to tear down Christianity and religion in general. They only find friends who are bitter as they are. They do not keep the ways that would give them peace of mind. In fact, many of them practice and promote just the opposite.

Let me elaborate and granted there are some exceptions to the rule. Those atheists lack peace of mind and block themselves from it because of the following ten causes:

1. They seem to have another source of morality other than God and it is themselves.
2. Possibly without realizing it, they submit to this false 'god' of materialism and it is more important to them than anything else.
3. They take the name of the true God who gives them every breath and every heart beat and they trash it.
4. They reject a relationship with the true God who gives them rights, life and liberty and indeed every good and perfect gift.
5. They don't care whether they dishonor their parents or not.
6. They seem to be unrestrained in their anger... they have anger issues.
7. Adultery is not even a word in their vocabulary... they want to do whatever they want, with whoever they want and whenever they want.
8. Stealing is not on their radar because they really don't care if they cause some honest teacher to forfeit their jobs due to so much as a mention of a possibility that there might be a Designer who built the universe.
9. They seem to lie because even if someone disproves evolution beyond a reasonable doubt, they will continue to teach otherwise.
10. Lastly, they want what they shouldn't have... that is they covet what someone else has earned. To me, this really is power hunger or greed.

Now sure, I can't see into their spirits, but peace of mind comes when we follow the Ten Commandments, which, by the way, we just discussed. Follow them and you will have peace of mind and you will give God the clout he deserves for creating life in all forms miniature, small, large, visible or invisible.

89. Creativity, adventure, inventing, joy, happiness and fulfillment are all products of intelligence and mind that simply cannot come from anything less. Can evolution explain this?

A. In a word: NO. Here’s a challenge for you: Go to YouTube ® and find videos by atheists who will do their best to adequately explain how any one of these items evolved into being. I, myself, have done this and after searching for and watching scores of videos like this, I have found none that can adequately explain how we got our minds. Even if they could explain away the numerous problems and difficulties with the theory of evolution, they cannot explain intelligence, consciousness, self-awareness, or any of the other dozens of properties or attributes of mind.

That’s because these attributes are spiritual in nature and not the result of a collocation of molecules. Otherwise, all animals should have minds like ours, but obviously they don’t. They cannot speak, or think like we humans do. The output of the minds of animals is minimal at best, yet they all do have certain personalities within types. They have no spiritual context or values systems by which they live and move through life. That’s what makes us different from every animal.

These are real powers given only to mankind. They are valuable to us in all sorts of ways and we can live by them. They provide ways for us to grow, to find employment, to find happiness and more. They were given that we might connect to our Creator. Animals cannot really do that, at least not in the same powerful and profound ways. Animals cannot pray, for example. They have no potential for any sort of spiritual connection with their Maker. But mankind does. He alone has been given a mind like that of his Creator.

Mankind is here on Earth, albeit temporarily for now, to grow up through contact with his Creator and his word, into the likeness and image of God himself. That is our purpose and reason for being. Through his power, we can acquire the very attributes of God. We acquire his divine nature by studying his word and listening to his Holy Spirit speak to us mind to mind. This must be experienced to really know its full value and potential. Evolutionists tend to not have this power available because they are not willing to acknowledge, let alone obey, the God who gives them every breath and heartbeat.

But notice Galatians 5:16-25 with 2 Peter 1:3-9: 16 This I say then, ‘Walk in the Spirit’, and you shall not fulfill the lust of the flesh. 17 For the flesh lusts against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh: and these are contrary the one to the other: so that you cannot do the things that you would. 18 But if you are led by the Spirit, you are not under the law. 19 Now the works of the flesh are manifest, which are these; Adultery, fornication, uncleanness, lasciviousness, 20 Idolatry, witchcraft, hatred, variance, emulations, wrath, strife, seditions, heresies,

21 Envy, murders, drunkenness, reveling, and such like: of which I tell you before, as I have also told you in time past, that they which do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God. 22 But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, 23 Meekness, temperance: against such there is no law. 24 And they that are Christ's have crucified the flesh with the affections and lusts. 25 If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit.

3 According as his divine power has given unto us all things that pertain unto life and godliness, through the knowledge of him that has called us to glory and virtue: 4 Whereby are given unto us exceeding great and precious promises: that by these you might be partakers of the divine nature, having escaped the corruption that is in the world through lust.

5 And beside this, giving all diligence, add to your faith virtue; and to virtue knowledge; 6 And to knowledge temperance; and to temperance patience; and to patience godliness; 7 And to godliness brotherly kindness; and to brotherly kindness love. 8 For if these things are in you, and abound, they make you so that you shall neither be barren nor unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ. 9 But he that lacks these things is blind, and cannot see afar off, and has forgotten that he was purged from his old sins.

And there is the crux of the issue. People hate the light because their deeds are evil. The thing is, the result of ignoring God too long is permanent death. The choice is yours and mine. As for me, why would I choose permanent death when I could have had permanent life?

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: ‘mind proves God exists’.

90. The miracle of life on earth demands a Creator. Why?

A. Because all the factors that constitute life must come together instantly and at the same time. Darwinism demands a very slow, gradual and accidental progression into the life we have today and in supposedly took ‘millions of years’. This is really the ultimate, obvious and most ubiquitous of all the proofs.

All carbon based life forms have at least one thing in common: unless all their parts, systems, energy, minds and reproductive systems came online in an instant flash-burst of a split second, they would not live long enough to reproduce. It’s just that simple. It is axiomatic and every honest person knows this and should be able to admit it. Slow, gradual step-by-step processes over millions of years of evolution will not cut it.

The Creator scenario is the best fit. In fact, it is the ONLY fit. No other explanation can work. If you think man is so great he doesn’t need God, how would God respond? Notice Job 38:1-41:

Then the LORD answered Job out of the whirlwind, and said, 2 ‘Who is this that darkens counsel by words without knowledge? 3 Gird up now thy loins like a man; for I will demand of you, and you will answer me.

4 Where were you when I laid the foundations of the earth? Declare, if you have understanding. 5 Who has laid the measures thereof, if you know? Or who has stretched the line upon it? 6 Whereupon are the foundations thereof fastened? Or who laid the corner stone thereof, 7 when the morning stars sang together, and all the sons of God shouted for joy? 8 Or who shut up the sea with doors, when it broke forth, as if it had issued out of the womb? 9 When I made the cloud the garment thereof, and thick darkness a swaddling band for it, 10 And brake up for it my decreed place, and set bars and doors, 11 And said, “Hitherto shall you come, but no further: and here shall your proud waves be stayed?”

12 Have you commanded the morning since thy days; and caused the dayspring to know his place; 13 that it might take hold of the ends of the earth, that the wicked might be shaken out of it? 14 It is turned as clay to the seal; and they stand as a garment. 15 And from the wicked their light is withheld, and the high arm shall be broken.

16 Have you entered into the springs of the sea? Or have you walked in the search of the depth? 17 Have the gates of death been opened unto you? Or have you seen the doors of the shadow of death? 18 Have you perceived the breadth of the earth? Declare if you it all. 19 Where is the way where light dwells? And as for darkness, where is the place thereof, 20 That you should take it to the bound thereof, and that you should know the paths to the house thereof? 21 Do you know you it, because you were then born? Or because the number of thy days is great? 22 Have you entered into the treasures of the snow? Or have you seen the treasures of the hail, 23 which I have reserved against the time of trouble, against the day of battle and war? 24 By what way is the light parted, which scatters the east wind upon the earth?

25 Who has divided a watercourse for the overflowing of waters, or a way for the lightning of thunder; 26 to cause it to rain on the earth, where no man is; on the wilderness, wherein there is no man; 27 to satisfy the desolate and waste ground; and to cause the bud of the tender herb to spring forth? 28 Has the rain a father? Or who has begotten the drops of dew? 29 Out of whose womb came the ice? And the hoary frost of heaven, who has gendered it? 30 The waters are hid as with a stone, and the face of the deep is frozen.

31 Can you bind the sweet influences of Pleiades, or loose the bands of Orion? 32 Can you bring forth Mazzaroth in his season? Or can you guide Arcturus with his sons? 33 Do you know you the ordinances of heaven? Can you set the dominion thereof in the earth? 34 Can you lift up thy voice to the clouds, that abundance of waters may cover you? 35 Can you send lightings that they may go, and say unto you, "Here we are?"

36 Who has put wisdom in the inward parts? Or who has given understanding to the heart? 37 Who can number the clouds in wisdom? Or who can stay the bottles of heaven, 38 when the dust grows into hardness, and the clods cleave fast together? 39 Will you hunt the prey for the lion? Or fill the appetite of the young lions, 40 when they couch in their dens, and abide in the covert to lie in wait? 41 Who provides for the raven his food? when his young ones cry unto God, they wander for lack of meat...

You can read the rest of the book for yourself in your own Bible. It's scientific and really quite remarkable. But here's the point: God is Sovereign. He owns you and me and all that is in the entire universe. Nothing is too hard for him and no one can stop him. He is in his heaven and you are on Earth. Let your words be few. Be careful what you say to him and what you say about him. He has the power of life and death over us. He can cause you to come to permanent life or permanent death. Choose wisely. Run to him, not from him!

91. Does the Bible actually predict the advent of atheists and skeptics?

A. Not only does the Bible predict their advent but also their future and their fate. They claim there is no God and therefore no afterlife. Look with me at 2 Peter 3:3-7 'Knowing this first, that there shall come in the last days scoffers, walking after their own lusts, 4 And saying, "Where is the promise of his coming? For since the fathers fell asleep, all things continue as they were from the beginning of the creation."

5 'For this they are willingly ignorant of, that by the word of God the heavens were of old, and the earth standing out of the water and in the water: 6 Whereby the world that then was, being overflowed with water, perished: 7 But the heavens and the earth, which are now, by the same word are kept in store, reserved unto fire against the day of judgment and perdition of ungodly men.'

What's more lets' look at Isaiah 41:21-24, 29 'Produce your cause, says the LORD; bring forth your strong reasons, says the King of Jacob. 22 Let them bring them forth, and show us what shall happen: let them show the former things, what they be, that we may consider them, and know the latter end of them; or declare us things for to come. 23 Show the things that are to come hereafter, that we may know that you are gods: yes, do good, or do evil, that we may be dismayed, and behold it together. 24 Behold, you are of nothing, and your work of naught: an abomination is he that chooses you. 29 Behold, they are all vanity; their works are nothing: their molten images are wind and confusion.'

The God of the Bible knows their frame. He knows they are but dust. But one day along the timeline of life, they will be raised in a resurrection to face God in the Judgment. Then what will they have to say for themselves to him? Just because they refuse to believe in him does not make him go away. We all can either choose to obey and serve God or not. We would all be well advised to choose wisely, since we only have one shot at life.

But don't get the idea I'm trying to scare you with the threat of Hell where the wicked will 'spend eternity burning consciously' in abject suffering and pain. No such idea is to be found in the Bible. Jesus didn't mention it. Neither did Paul, Peter or any of the other Apostles. It's not found anywhere in the Old Testament, either.

So where did this obscene idea of conscious endless torment in the flames of Hell come from? From religions which do not claim that the Bible is their only source of doctrine! Yet, many 'doctors of divinity' still hold to this tradition, even though it is blasphemously condemned by the loving nature of the God and of the word of God found in the Bible.

If you'd like more on the subject of Hell, get a copy of my white paper on it. But I question the illogical continued use of this doctrine because if this Hell was the required propitiation for all the sin of mankind, Jesus would have to burn there forever, but instead God required the death penalty but because he had never sinned, he didn't have to stay dead, but God raised him back to permanent life the third day. That makes sense to me; but torturing people forever makes God out to be a liar and a 'mean, malevolent bully'. In my view this doctrine should and one day will be abandoned. But I digress.

Only a Great God who spans the eons of time and lives outside of time could predict the advent of his skeptics and enemies, and give them the appropriate end: permanent death. The choice must be made to live permanently or die and stay dead permanently. That is the message of the Bible. The good news is there IS a way to live eternally or permanently and that is by committing oneself to Jesus as our Lord and Savior forever. Otherwise, in the judgment, people will be condemned to die permanently.

Notice with me Jeremiah 51:39 and 56-58: ‘39 In their heat I will make their feasts, and I will make them drunken, that they may rejoice, and sleep a perpetual sleep, and not wake, says the LORD. 56 Because the spoiler is come upon her, even upon Babylon, and her mighty men are taken, every one of their bows is broken: for the LORD God of recompenses shall surely requite. 57 And I will make drunk her princes, and her wise men, her captains, and her rulers, and her mighty men: and they shall sleep a perpetual sleep, and not wake, says the King, whose name is the LORD of hosts. 58 Thus says the LORD of hosts; The broad walls of Babylon shall be utterly broken, and her high gates shall be burned with fire; and the people shall labor in vain, and the folk in the fire, and they shall be weary.

Conclusion: God knew skeptics were coming and he knew some would reject him all the way to death. He will grieve them and let them go. He will give them what they wanted: perpetual sleep in death. As for me, I choose life. What do I wish for you? I wish that you, too, would choose life. But the choice is up to you. Choose wisely.

92. If people really evolved from a single celled organism that came out of nowhere, then where did LOVE come from?

A. According to a recent PBS Special, love is nothing more than sexual desire incited by chemicals which are automatically and unconsciously produced by the brain. At least that is my take on the program. But what about my choice about whether to love someone or not and how I should or should not love them? I do have free will and can choose to love or not and how. Then there are the differing kinds of love, not to mention the various intensities with which my love is enjoined. You can see that love is not that simple.

For example: I may love my dog, but I love my mom in a totally different way. I love my brother but I love my wife in a totally different way and maybe multiple ways. I love my car but I love my job in a totally different way. I love my fellow man but I love my Christian brother with a totally different type of love that is warmer and much closer. I love myself or I could not love others. I love God because he first loved me and gave himself for me that I might live permanently with him. This is a higher plane of love than all of the others because it supersedes them all and takes precedence over all of them. There can be only one in first place and it must be him. My wife did not die for me. He did.

Love is the product of mind, free will and choice. It involves a complex and complicated process requiring time, knowledge and experience on which this love is built and solidified over time. It can be fed and it can grow over time. It is not just chemical in nature. There is a spiritual, mental, cognizant component to it and that requires mind. Animals do not possess this characteristic.

I think I can persuade you with one simple observation: Mind, with all its complexities, is not the result of chemicals or random collocations of molecules coming together at random because if that were the case all animals would have it just like mankind but they do not. Evolutionism indicates they all should have minds like ours; yet humans are utterly unique in mind and have God-like powers. We are not the end result of a long string of lesser evolved beings.

God pre-programmed animals with instinct. They come out of the womb fully functional and ready for life. They are up on their feet and walking within a few minutes. They know where to go to get their food. Not so with humans. Why? We come out knowing nothing and we can't walk until about a year later. We need to be taught everything, including where to go to get our food and even how to suck. Yet, as we grow up we get better and better and our output volume and quality steadily improves and gets more productive. Evolution cannot explain this phenomenon.

For example: consider the sheer volume and quality of the output of our minds compared to the smartest of all the animals in the animal kingdom. We alone can speak in words with thought behind them. We alone can communicate by writing. We alone can create.

93. Why the vast difference between animal instinct and human mind?

A. Quantitatively and qualitatively there is little difference between the brain of a chimpanzee and that of a human being. You can confirm this finding by researching the scientific thought extant on the Web. For example I typed in ‘human mind vs. animal brain’ and found an article written by Bradford G. Schleifer with this title: ‘Human Mind vs. Animal Brain. Why So Different?’ The sub-head on it is ‘Human beings possess a capability far beyond animals. Many ideas exist to explain the mind. Knowing the truth has vital implications!’ Below that is a picture of a brain x-ray as a scientist inspects a human brain in Russia.

This will take you to a website called ‘The Real Truth’. I urge you to read this material and glean from it what you can. Is it the truth? You study it; then decide for yourself.

The article speaks of the many things unique to humans such as Humor, Appreciation of beauty, Self-consciousness, Awareness of death, Understanding of time, Connections between words, Meaning of life, Malleability, Lack of harmony with nature, A sense of morality, Character, Free moral agency, Capacity for wisdom, Desire for worship and Love.

It really is not dependent on the size or quality of the brain, for the human brain is only slightly more complex than that of a chimp. This is a problem for evolutionists because, even though the brains are nearly identical, the human brain output is vastly greater and superior in every way. Evolution would predict otherwise in that they should be the same or nearly the same, given the same or nearly the same physiological makeup.

Religionists cite the difference as being spiritual in nature and claim humans have an immortal component they term the ‘immortal soul’ and that is supposed to make the difference. While I agree that there is something spiritual about the human mind, I do not account this difference to an immortal soul. Why? Because I do not find it in the Bible. Instead, I find just the opposite. For example: Genesis 2:7 states ‘And the LORD God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul.’ (Hebrew: nephesh which means a breathing creature or being.)

Ezekiel 18:4 and 20 indicate that ‘souls’ die. The idea of an ‘immortal soul’ came to us through Tertullian, an early Catholic writer who lived in the late second century A. D. Plato wrote that ‘Every soul is immortal.’ But to me, this immortal soul concept is not biblical and should be examined with far more scrutiny than most people care to give it.

Besides, that to me does not account for the vast differences between human mind and animal brain. Yet this article is actually well documented and shows a lot of insight into the truth, if you ask me. Kudos to the author.

So, if I do not attribute the vast difference between human mind and animal brain to the immortality of the soul, and I don’t put any faith in the power of evolution to account for these differences, then what do I say does account for them? Simply put, there is a spirit component given to all men that has not been given to animals and there must be a Creator with the power and watchful eye to bestow this upon every human who has ever lived.

Evolution is a faith-based initiative with nowhere to go but down. It has lost its credibility and even though it sounds authoritative and sound, when one really looks at it without that pre-positioned faith that it is real, it crumbles to the ground like a house of cards. It certainly requires more faith than I can muster. I choose to rely on a Being who has real power to make things happen. Things like life, mind, instinct, intellect, love, joy and peace. I’m sure at least some evolutionists are sincere. They care for their families and do their best at whatever they do. Some of them are more honest than some theologians, unfortunately for the theologians. My prayer is that all would come to a working knowledge of the truth and act on it.

94. What purpose, meaning or joy would life hold without God?

A. ‘I just want to be happy!’ was the response I got when I asked a young woman atheist what she wanted out of life and what purpose she had as the meaning or goal of her life. And what’s wrong with that? We all want to be happy. There’s nothing wrong with wanting to be happy, but, have you ever seen a happy evolutionist? After watching hundreds of YouTube ® videos uploaded by evolutionists, not a one was happy. Why not?

I think they may all be angry at Christians (or others who are religionists of one brand or another) and they take their anger out on the God of the Bible. Now is that fair? Some Christian put them down, made them feel small in front of their peers or hurt or abused them in some real or imagined way. No one likes that and few of us take that abuse very well. I cannot blame them for being disgruntled or offended, though I think they may be a little thin skinned at times. I strive against my human nature to be less easily offended. Some of them, though have legitimate gripes or good reason to be mad.

Darwin himself started to go through seminary to become a preacher. Then his beautiful affectionate daughter came down with Rheumatic Fever and died at the age of ten. He was crushed as any of us who are fathers would be too. But the way I understand what happened next was inexcusable on the part of the Church. No wonder he turned away. Of course, I was not there and everything I have learned about Charles Darwin and after studying his life and writings for some time, I have formed these conclusions for myself, though they may be just my own and not completely true.

Darwin wanted to know her fate because she died before accepting Jesus as her Lord and Savior. The priest gave him bad news. Anna would be tormented in the flames of Hell for all time to come. Furious, Charles Darwin left seminary, the Church and God. Being the intellectual he was and given his scientific prowess to investigate, he more than likely studied the Bible to find out if what the Clergy had said could be found in the Holy Bible. Hell is supposed to be the fate of all who die in an unrepentant state. It is the concept of eternal conscious punishing in the flames of Hell fire as the ‘reward’ of the unsaved. Now whether or not he thoroughly investigated this doctrine is still a mystery. May I invite you to get my DVD entitled ‘Hell Be Dunked’?

But to answer the question ‘What purpose or meaning or joy would life hold without God?’ let’s look at what a few evolutionists are doing with their time. Richard Dawkins, Christopher Hitchens, Sam Harris and others write books, tour and hold campaigns trying to debunk Christianity. Maybe that is fun to them. They seem to love to argue and quite honestly, to me they all seem to display a certain arrogance.

Debunking Christianity, or trying to, has become their goal, mission in life and purpose. So, as I see this, their purpose is to show the world that we have no purpose, no meaning and certainly (as they tell us) no future and no life after death. What this leaves us with is: ‘Let’s eat, drink and be merry for tomorrow we die. Is that a life’s mission worth anything to you? It most certainly is not to me. There has to be more, much more to life than that. But maybe this life is all they need. Maybe money is their god and as long as they have that, they don’t bother worrying about their eternity. I hope they are happy, but I am concerned about their eternity.

Unfortunately for them, time will eventually run out. When they die, what will happen to them?

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: ‘evolution and the meaning of life’

95. We cannot create life from dead matter, no matter how hard we try, even if given all the materials and prerequisites to build life. If it’s so easy it can happen on its own without intelligent intervention, why can’t we do it, given our ‘mighty’ scientific intelligence?

A. What a great question! Life requires information. Information requires an author or an source. But we cannot be that author. God has set the limits and we have zero power to override them. That is why we will never be able to create life as human beings, even if given all the materials beforehand. Evolution says there wasn’t an Author or Source, but that it is ‘just one of those strange anomalies that happen in the universe from time to time. The question is: ‘Why doesn’t the real universe work that way?’

Everybody knows it does not work that way in the real world, yet there are many who embrace this illusion. Why? Well, for one thing, we tend to follow our leaders. They leave students no other options on tests but to answer with evolutionary biased answers, even if the student believes otherwise, so what can they do except capitulate or take a failing grade. They sound scientific and authoritative when writing evolutionary propaganda in scientific journals, news flashes and magazines.

They produce PBS television shows that never address alternatives to evolution, but rather claim evolution is fact without leaving any room for doubt or question, and speak as if they are the obvious and only purveyors of truth. Worse yet, when questioned, they instantly explode into a hostile evolutionary tirade in a desperate attempt to humiliate the questioner, even to the point of cursing and name calling.

But the biggest reason I can find is that evolutionists do not want there to be a God who knows their innermost thoughts and sees their sins in spite of their best attempts to keep them secret. What are they afraid of? Exposure. They fear being exposed and thus be made to feel guilty.

As it is written by the Apostle Paul in Romans 1:28-32: ‘And even as they did not like to retain God in their knowledge, God gave them over to a reprobate mind, to do those things which are not convenient; 29 Being filled with all unrighteousness, fornication, wickedness, covetousness, maliciousness; full of envy, murder, debate, deceit, malignity; whisperers, 30 Backbiters, haters of God, despiteful, proud, boasters, inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents, 31 Without understanding, covenant breakers, without natural affection, implacable, unmerciful: 32 Who knowing the judgment of God, that they which commit such things are worthy of death, not only do the same, but have pleasure in them that do them.’

And to quote Jesus himself in John 3: 18 ‘He that believes on him is not condemned: but he that believes not is condemned already, because he has not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God. 19 And this is the condemnation, that light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil. 20 For every one that does evil hates the light neither comes to the light, lest his deeds should be reproved. 21 But he that does truth comes to the light, that his deeds may be made manifest, that they are wrought in God.'

Personally, I think this behavior is pathetic because they love their sin more than their very lives, and if they don't give them up, they will die in their sins and the next thing they know they will face Jesus at the Judgment Day and then what will they say? I have a feeling they will not be laughing, jeering or mocking. God laughs last.

96. Why the vast difference in the attitudes between Christians and Atheists?

A. The differences I have found after looking at hundreds of YouTube ® Christian and atheist videos and comparing their apparent attitudes is that Christians are the happier ones. Atheists are angry and arrogant. You seldom if ever hear them say 'Thank You'. Christians has someone to thank: God. Thankful people are happy, usually more contented people.

All Christians have lots of things to be thankful for. They find them wherever they look. Therefore, if they are thankful, Christians should be happier than atheists, though we shouldn't expect them to be perfect and they may get in an attitude just like anyone else. But the point is that, over all, Christians seem happier to me. Christians have meaning in life. They have a goal, or at least they should have, depending on their level of maturity in the faith. Their goal is to be with their Master for all time to come and do the great things he is doing for all eternity.

It's almost funny. When I look at some YouTube ® videos uploaded by evolutionists like Richard Dawkins, Christopher Hitchens, Sam Harris, Michael Ruse and Eugenie Scott, I do see smiles and they appear to be smiling and happy, but it seems to me they are only happy when they are putting down Creationists. But is this just smug arrogance rearing its ugly head or is it true happiness? I'm sure they want to be happy, and that they try to be. I'm sure they love their children and families just as the Christian community does. But my question for them all is 'Is that all there is to life, just to eat, drink and be merry with family and friends and then we die and it's all over?' They apparently think that when they die, that's all there is. There is no judgment to face, no God to meet and no consequences for their actions and no future after death? What if there really is?

Watch these videos for yourself if possible and see if you get the same sense of happiness, meaning and purpose in the Christian and the same sense of hostility, anger and arrogance in the atheist. Try to get a sense of their spirit and attitude. To me they all seem smug, arrogant and prejudiced against Christ and Christianity in general. Apparently, they feel superior, as if believing in something we cannot see is stupid, backwoods and ridiculous, certainly not scientific. But they cannot see evolution happening or find any real transitional life form fossils or any other real hard science to show, when there should be millions of them. So, who then are the ones believing in that which they cannot see?

Is this life all there is? That's what evolutionists buy into. But is that really true? Or will we all face God and have to answer to him one day? They are believing in something they cannot see! And then they get in an attitude about it. Why? They hate Christians and call them names. They seem to think Christians are duped and stupid. We know what psychologists call those of us who believe in fantasy as if it were the real deal: neurotic and delusional, yet Richard Dawkins writes a clever diatribe against Christianity and calls it 'The God Delusion'.

It seems to me they are the delusional ones. And they forfeit their future for the sake of today. Is that 'bright'? It's like trading a multi-billion dollar fortune and a permanent life in which to spend it for a penny in a candy store and 15 seconds to spend it.

It's a matter of perspective. It's a matter of choice. That choice is yours. Choose wisely!

97. Why don't evolutionists seem to care about eternal life possibilities?

A. The answer seems obvious. Evolutionists don't seem to care that they are going to die, yet they refuse to even entertain the idea that there might be a way to avoid death through faith in Jesus. It seems to me if there were any possibilities at all, they should be actively pursued. But, no, they won't do it. Why not? Is this life all there is? More importantly, is this life worth more than eternity? Apparently so, to evolutionists.

Notice the words of Jesus when he confronted the Scribes, Pharisees and teachers of the Law. These guys knew he was the Messiah, the One Savior of the world who could open the access door to eternal life, yet to acknowledge him would be to lose their jobs, their positions, their power over people and their prestige in the community and with the Roman Government. Their lives here and now were more important than living forever. To me, that's strange thinking because it's like refusing to sign the papers in order to inherit a fortune just because it requires them lifting the weight of the pen!

The story is recorded in John 5:38 'And you have not his word abiding in you: for whom he has sent, him you believe not. 39 Search the scriptures; for in them you think you have eternal life: and they are they which testify of me. 40 And you will not come to me, that you might have life. 41 I receive not honor from men. 42 But I know you, that you have not the love of God in you. 43 I am come in my Father's name, and you receive me not: if another shall come in his own name, him you will receive.

44 How can you believe, which receive honor one of another, and seek not the honor that comes from God only? 45 Do not think that I will accuse you to the Father: there is one that accuses you, even Moses, in whom you trust. 46 For had you believed Moses, you would have believed me: for he wrote of me. 47 But if you believe not his writings, how shall you believe my words?'

Evolutionists are just like the Scribes and Pharisees. They will not come to Jesus so they might have life, even though they know they must in order to have a future. There simply is no other name by which we must be saved. (See Acts 4:11-12) Is power over people, money or fame really that important? They know deep inside their belief in evolution is unscientific and unfounded, if they really look into it, but their lifestyle is just too important to them.

Penn Jillette, an atheist comic has what I would call a remarkable video on YouTube ® I would recommend. He asks his question something like this: ‘How much do you Christians have to hate someone to proselytize, if you really believe there is a possibility of a future life after we die?’ He thinks we Christians should proselytize! So let’s do it!

There really is on and only one Savior. There is no other way to get where we are all headed, which is to be and live with God for all time to come. His return is nearer today than ever and one day he will be here and we each will meet him face to face. Will you be ready?

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: ‘Will you be ready? Or Penn Jillette proselytize’ or ‘why don’t evolutionists care about heaven?’

98. As time goes on, life gets more and more feeble. (The Law of Entropy) It does not get progressively better, as evolutionists teach; i.e. new body plans supposedly emerge from lower forms over millions of years. With millions of years all things are possible. But if the complete being did not come to life instantly in a flash, fully formed and ready to go, what would have happen to it?

A. It would simply die. An animal that emerged from the sea without lungs would die long before it ‘developed’ lungs, as if they could do this on their own. So it is with every organ in every fleshly carbon based life form body type. All organs had to come to life in an instant burst and each function of each organ had to work perfectly the first time or it would have died.

Additionally, the entire body, as a whole with all systems working in perfect harmony had to come to life instantly in a flash of a split second. If not, life would not exist. You and I would not exist and you would not be getting this message.

The question then becomes: Why do people still insist evolution is real? Is it really about the evidence? No. It’s about lifestyle; that is how a person chooses to live his life. If a person chooses to get rid of guilt through repentance and faith in God, he has chosen wisely. If he chooses to get rid of guilt by getting rid of God, he has chosen poorly and will come to regret his decision one day in the future.

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: ‘sudden appearance of life’ or ‘the Cambrian explosion proves God’ or ‘the Law of Entropy’

99. Doesn’t goodness and quality of life prove there is a good God who provides it all for our good?

A. It’s all a matter of point of view. Anyone can ignore all the goodness in his life and take it all for granted. Or he can think he himself is the one who is to be thanked. Evolutionists are notorious for being unthankful because according to their point of view, there is no one to thank but themselves. In their world view there is no God, no Provider and no Life Giver who is the One who gave them every breath and everything else they will ever enjoy. But when we take the time to study the billions creatures on our Earth, we see each one is much more than functional, it’s elegant and beautiful in its own little realm, and each creature has its own set of wonderful blessings. For example, each one has its own food and water, shelter and mate, just to name a few.

If life just exploded into existence out of nowhere for no reason, why is there the beauty and elegance we see everywhere in all things big and small? Consider the thought that even though we don’t see God now, we really do not know everything about the universe. Would you say you know 50% of everything? How about 5%? Maybe there really is a compassionate Spirit God who sustains it all for our benefit and that he may have a magnificent plan for you and me. Perhaps he exists in the percentage you don’t know about. Perhaps there is a dimension outside our time domain where this God exists.

But there’s more... a lot more to life than just beauty and elegance. Life is full of wonderful relationships, activities, love, joy, creativity, hobbies, happiness, employment, celebration, dining, dancing, fun in the sun, sports, music, travel, adventure and hundreds of other interests you may have. Just look around for the good and you will still find it, even in difficult times like these. Trust me, it could be worse. We still have a whole lot to be thankful for. But atheists and evolutionists have no one to thank for all this goodness in their lives.

There really is no such thing as a 'self-made man'. We all owe someone for something. Our parents, especially, had the lions' share of influence over your life and mine. Our teachers, pastors and peers had a hand in it along with our co-workers and friends. But, there is also another reality to consider: God.

Who gave you thought? Not any of the above humans. Who gave you abilities? Certainly not your parents, though they no doubt helped you improve them. Who gave you the ability to speak? How about the ability to learn and to teach? Where did you get the ability to communicate? Who gave you the ability to love or to make friends? Where did you go to get the availability of thought? Can you imagine? Where did that come from?

You were given your multiple talents and abilities at birth and then you and all those others added to them and improved them to the point you enjoy them today. You can lose them or they can be taken away. They are all gifts from God. They did not evolve into your possession. Science cannot explain the spirit side of life. Every creature has a measure of spirit, each with its own personality and the ability to express that personality in a wide variety of ways.

Consider your own life. Where did your mental, spiritual and emotional gifts come from... chemicals? Think about this with me if you would: John the Baptist is quoted as having said: 'A man can receive nothing, except it be given him from heaven.' And of him Jesus said 'For I say unto you, Among those that are born of women there is not a greater prophet than John the Baptist.' Jesus knew John was no liar. John believed we all get our blessings from the God who is Lord of heaven and Earth. This is the truth. God knows what he is doing and he knows what is best for you and me. It is his Earth.

Without me, God is still God and nothing would change. Whatever I do with my life will not affect God or change him in any way. But I without God, am nothing. Without him, when I die, that would be the end of me. But through him, he promised a resurrection to permanent life. It will be a life filled with promise and power to get things done. Why would I want to slap his hand away from giving me all things even the universe to dwell in? Why would I refuse all the good he longs to give me, even permanent life with a satisfying, thrilling future helping his universe come to life? What about you?

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: ‘where did all this beauty come from?’ or ‘how did goodness evolve?’

100. Why do Darwinists ignore the fact of Jesus’ existence as if it was fairytale?

A. Evolutionists pretend Jesus is the myth and their faith in evolution is the only truth. But Jesus is just so compelling he cannot be ignored. If they would dare to look at his life objectively instead of with their jaundiced eyes, they would see the real truth. The greatest thing about Jesus is the fact that he is the access Door to permanent life. This Darwin cannot offer. Neither can any religion.

Evolution simply has no way for people to live forever. Once you are dead, it’s over... there is nothing more. This means there is no future for them after death but what makes it worse is they don’t care. Money fame and power are more important to them than their eternal destiny. Given the reality of death and the certainty of it, why would they ignore the possibility of eternal life?

But, if there really is any possibility for you to live on forever why wouldn’t you want to know about it? The good news is that there really is a way for you to live forever. You may have to experience death first, but then you will be raised from the dead to live forever with God, if you put your faith and trust in him. That ‘way’ is Jesus. He set it up. It is his world. He made it and he makes the rules for our benefit that we might live together with him for all time to come and do wondrous things throughout his universe.

But in order for an evolutionist, atheist or anti-theist to convert to Christianity, the antagonism must be turned into enthusiasm. Only God can do that. Yet, Jesus did ordain his disciples to go out and make disciples of all nations. It might take a while for them to come around, but eventually all shall know him from the least to the greatest. This means everyone on Earth. Here’s what God said through the prophet Jeremiah in Chapter 31: 34 And they shall teach no more every man his neighbor, and every man his brother, saying,

Know the LORD: for they shall all know me, from the least of them unto the greatest of them, says the LORD: for I will forgive their iniquity, and I will remember their sin no more.

All must come to Jesus if they want eternal life. Atheists don't even want it, which to me seems strange and counter-productive. It ignores meaning, significance and purpose. Why do that to yourself when you don't need to? Your future lies with him. Why slap his hand away? What is there to be afraid of? Yes, you may have to change friends and do a 180 from the lifestyle you have been living. But why not do what is best for you? It's in your best interests.

Notice John 6:41 The Jews then murmured at him, because he said, 'I am the bread which came down from heaven.' 42 And they said, 'Is not this Jesus, the son of Joseph, whose father and mother we know? How is it then that he said, 'I came down from heaven?' 43 Jesus therefore answered and said unto them, 'Murmur not among yourselves. 44 No man can come to me, except the Father which has sent me draw him: and I will raise him up at the last day.

45 It is written in the prophets, 'And they shall be all taught of God.' Every man therefore that has heard, and has learned of the Father, comes unto me. 46 Not that any man has seen the Father, save he which is of God, he has seen the Father. 47 Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believes on me has everlasting life. 48 I am that bread of life. 49 Your fathers did eat manna in the wilderness, and are dead. 50 This is the bread which comes down from heaven, that a man may eat thereof, and not die. 51 I am the living bread which came down from heaven: if any man eats of this bread, he shall live forever: and the bread that I will give is my flesh, which I will give for the life of the world.

Only a Great and Powerful God could make this way happen. The way is clear: it is through Jesus Christ. He is the Way, the Truth and the Life. No one will 'get to God' except through him. (See John 14, particularly verse 6). Seek him out and live.

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'Jesus is no fairytale' or 'come to Jesus'

101. Even if millions of people tried to convince me that the lie of evolution is true, would their viewpoint constitute truth?

A. A statement cannot be the truth and a lie at the same time, in the same sense, in the same way and to the same degree. That's the Law of Non-contradiction. Truth is only truth if it's true for all people in all ways and in all places at all times. Majority rule does no good here. So, why should I care if millions of lemmings jump off the cliff? I don't have to. Neither do you.

Is this same standard true for Christianity? Do I need to be a Christian just because my parents were? No. Does the fact that there are millions of Christians mean that Christianity is true? No. So why should I believe it is true? There are lots of reasons to believe it is true. But, the point is millions of people and their respective individual opinions do not constitute fact or truth.

So what does? Jesus in his prayer recorded in John 17:17 said 'Your word is truth.' He was praying to his Father God. In his mind, God's words are truth. Can Darwin and his followers convince me otherwise? No. Why not? Because there are the many Bible proof prophecies hidden in its text, for one thing. Some scholars have recounted more than 300 references or prophecies in the so-called 'Old' Testament that are fulfilled in Christ.

Just Google 'Old Testament prophecies fulfilled by Jesus' and you will find 957,000 results. It's not like this is anything new, but one of them calculated the odds of even 8 prophecies fulfilled by one person as being one chance in  $10^{17}$  power. That is equivalent to covering the entire state of Texas with a 24" deep layer of silver dollars and then spray painting one of them red, burying it at random and then someone blindfolded picking it out from all the others on the first attempt. It's not very likely. But there are three hundred of these prophecies, not just eight.

This has to be the work of a Greater Mathematician than any human. Then there is the fact that there are millions of tons of physical evidence on the ground in the Middle East, which proves that the Bible is truth, otherwise it would simply not be there. Just Google 'Sodom and Gomorrah' and go to the YouTube ® videos and you can easily see the proof for yourself. Better yet, plan a trip to the Dead Sea and drive up and down the road on its western shore and look for odd formations that resemble cities. There are 90 degree angles, obvious streets, towers, ziggurats, sphinxes, arched doorways and windows all in ashes... the remains of the five cities God destroyed when he overthrew the 'cities of the plain' as recorded in Genesis 19. May I suggest you read it for yourself?

These are just 2 of my favorite proofs that the Bible is really the true word of God and I can rely on it. It's a book about Jesus for he is the Creator. Notice Colossians 1: 12 'Giving thanks unto the Father, which has made us meet to be partakers of the inheritance of the saints in light: 13 Who has delivered us from the power of darkness, and has translated us into the kingdom of his dear Son: 14 In whom we have redemption through his blood, even the forgiveness of sins: 15 Who is the image of the invisible God, the firstborn of every creature:

16 For by him were all things created, that are in heaven, and that are in earth, visible and invisible, whether they be thrones, or dominions, or principalities, or powers: all things were created by him, and for him: 17 And he is before all things, and by him all things consist. 18 And he is the head of the body, the church: who is the beginning, the firstborn from the dead; that in all things he might have the preeminence. 19 For it pleased the Father that in him should all fullness dwell; 20 And, having made peace through the blood of his cross, by him to reconcile all things unto himself; by him, I say, whether they be things in earth, or things in heaven.

Jesus is unique. He is the ONLY Savior. No one else will do. We can and must trust him. He holds our tomorrow. That's why I trust him. What about you?

102. Why did evolutionists feel the need to fake the 'Icons of Evolution'?

A. The progression of apes to men, many paintings which appear in Biology textbooks, Haeckel's Embryos and Darwin's 'Tree of Life' do not represent reality by any stretch. They have been purposely faked, touched up or invented. The only limit is the imagination of the authors themselves. Haeckel's embryos have been scientifically exposed for more than 100 years, yet they are still found to this day in Biology Textbooks in all Universities and High Schools. What is worse is that they are presented as absolute, scientifically proved and accepted facts! This should be labeled for what it is: a fraud and a crime.

Yet the bias against God and creationists is now so strong, these crimes are swept under the rug and even supported by publishers. Why? It seems to me this is not only unwise and unfair, but it deprives the student of much needed truth, further 'dumbing down' our education system. May I suggest the book 'Icons of Evolution: Why much of what we teach about evolution is wrong' by Jonathon Wells.

We all should be adult about it and strive to give our children the best education possible. It is no wonder skeptics are the fastest growing faith-based group in America, according to the Barna Research Group. We are spoon-feeding it to our kids. God is now booted out and ridiculed in the classroom, to our shame.

Now to answer the question of: 'Why?' Could it be because their case is so weak, they have to fabricate the evidence to support their case? Can we grasp the depth of the hypocrisy? They claim science is the only real source of truth, yet what they publish is anything but! A careful study of actual photos of the embryos compared to Haeckel's sketches which were at the time transferred to a woodcut for printing reveal enormous differences. This means the images are not even close to representing reality. Yet we still find this tripe in the textbooks of today. Our kids consume it readily. What else can they do? They trust what's in print and what their professors and teachers say.

Of course they should trust them, to a degree; but they must prove trustworthy or be out of a job, if you ask me. I'm sure many of the teachers are sincere. They may never have actually seen the real evidence for themselves. They are probably the result of what they themselves were taught in school. Then there is the accrediting establishment. They apparently get together and decide what will or will not be allowed to be taught. They choose the textbooks and the curriculums. What were they taught?

Unfortunately for all students, they are evaluated on how well they regurgitate what is being spoon-fed to them. The teachers and evolutionary promoters claim they are teaching critical thinking... that is until the promoters are the ones being criticized.

103. Does the Bible mention that the special Gifts of God prove we have a Great Father God who loves us and gives us many blessings?

A. Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and comes down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning. (James 1:17) There’s no denying it: life is full of good and wonderful things. Atheists are some of the most unhappy, unthankful people I have seen. Why? I might have thought their ‘freedom from God’ would make them happy. But, I’m here to say they all have a reason, whether really valid or not, to resent or even hate God.

Just look around you. There are so many blessings in your life, you could spend all your time just counting them and you would run out of time before you ran out of blessings and gifts you did not earn. That is a fact no one, no honest person at least, can deny. Yet many if not all atheists think they have nothing that was given to them, except misery and hardship. God is a burden to them. Something has happened in their life that seems bad and they are angry with God about it. They hold a grudge against him. And I can sympathize with their plight. We all suffer; it’s just that some run from God and others run away.

We all go through loss. I have lost my mom, my dad, grandparents and great grandparents, aunts, uncles, cousins and my wife to a stroke. But I count it as part of life. It all makes me consider what life is really about: It is training for our future. What I mean is we are being prepared for a magnificent future with God. Please hear me out.

Better days are coming. Jesus is alive and well and he will return to our planet to fix what’s wrong and set up a world government that will take over all others and rule all people in love. We humans are about to wreck our beloved planet, our only home. When all seems lost and we have reached the last straw, that's when he will come to save or rescue mankind from himself.

You see, we rejected him; he did not reject us. But in spite of our unfaithfulness, he still so loved his world that he came to destroy the devil's work by dying on the cross in our place. We are the ones that brought death into his world. He is the one to bring life back from the brink of extinction. And that is exactly where we are headed according to Jesus in Matthew 24.

But thank God, we do have a Savior who will come in time. I, too, believed what I read in my textbooks about evolution, but as I grew up I realized there has to be more than that in life. I wanted much more out of life, in fact, and I set out to prove to myself, one way or the other the truth about whether there really is a God or not. These are my findings. God is there and I am so thankful. We have a future because of him.

Thankfulness extinguishes covetousness on contact.

104. Why are mutations always the result of a LOSS of information and always detrimental, yet evolutionists claim they are the cause of speciation?

A. Evolution claims mutations are responsible for our existence. Speciation, according to evolution, is the result of 'natural selection acting on random mutations. Variety in life forms, of which there are probably billions of different ones, according to evolution is the result of mutations. But if that were true, life would have disintegrated itself to death long before reproduction could have occurred. Mutations never result in anything good or worth keeping. An eight legged, two headed calf does not live long. I actually saw this in a museum in Indiana. Mutations are bad. They do not add new information required for a different body plan.

The ability to change from a lower life form into a higher one requires the ADDITION of NEW information. The real science PROVES it never works the other way around. Mutations never add any useful or helpful information. Evolution says a long succession of mutations from ameba to man is how we all got here. It is wishful thinking because provable science clearly demonstrates its impossibility. Give it up! It just doesn't work that way in the real world. In my estimation, to believe that is neurosis: stupid behavior by non-stupid people. It is denial of reality and a completely bogus faith.

I've seen texts say something like this: 'A loosely hanging frayed scale became a feather. Thus, reptiles became into modern day birds....' In other words, over the course of millions of years, all things are possible. NO. Millions of years DO NOT constitute the power to bring to life that which was non-living. Nor do millions of years have the power required to turn one life form into another. It's just not real.

Honest scientists do not buy into this lame theory as having the power to 'mutate up'. There is no way that acquired characteristics or mutations or injuries add up to a new life form or body plan. This has never been observed and never will be because such things cannot affect the DNA, genes or chromosomes of the parent or individual.

Instead the loss of information that occurs with every mutation has harmful or fatal affects, none of which could result in a new or better body plan. Loss of eyes, loss of ears, two heads, and extra foot or malformed genitalia are samples of the results of mutations. Some mutations are less dramatic and only result in a smaller 'runt' or weak eyes or something benign. But in all cases, loss of information never equals the gain of information that must occur to morph into a totally different kind of animal or a new body plan.

To believe or support this idea seems nothing short of fabrication, pretense and fantasy, regardless of how well the progenitors of the theory of evolution cloak it in scientific-sounding jargon. All that does is mask the flaws in the idea and keep society stupefied and mystified with the unreasonable. And for this they want to be called 'Brights'?

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: ‘mutations are bad’ or mutations offer no new information’

105. If evolution is true, why aren’t permutations or acquired injuries to the parent passed on to the child, as evolution demands?

A. The bottom line is this: Evolutionists have found a way to get big bucks to promote their agenda in their conceit and malicious arrogance. They don’t like the idea of a God interfering with their perverse lifestyle. They base their sinister ideology on mere conjecture with zero proof.

They are good at disassembly of their opponents, but never ever answer any questions directly. That’s because they have no real answers. It’s all just rhetoric and devoid of solid scientific evidence. Their ideas don’t make any logical sense. Can complex life arise on its own spontaneously without intelligence or information or the power to put it all together and breathe into it the breath of life?

Additionally, theory seems to be more important than facts to these guru’s of nonsense. That’s not science. Science is in pursuit of truth, not in pursuit of a collection of useless theories that lead nowhere scientific. They are all lying idol worshippers with ‘nothing’ as their not-so-great-great ‘god’.

They are deceitful workers of iniquity that have no future and no hope and they don’t even care, as long as they can make their big bucks destroying Christianity, throw truth to the ground and go on living in sin in the process. They make up their rules as they go along. They are masters of side-stepping the issues and pride themselves on their ability to make the righteous look like the stupid ones. And admittedly, some Christians in their zeal to save others they do things they end up regretting later. Nobody is perfect. But, we all should look in the mirror more often before we accuse others. We all do stupid things too. I speak for myself: I know... I’ve seen me do it.

Little do they know that they walk over a fortune to pick up a penny. They leave off the best parts of life. They have little depth and they worship they know not what. We all should take a much more critical look at Darwinism and give it the boot.

106. Why did Charles Darwin abandon God and Jesus Christ in the first place?

A. Charles was once on the fast track to becoming a minister of Jesus Christ at one point in his life. What happened to change his mind? Research into his writings reveals the answer. He could not fathom 1) how a good and loving God could allow human suffering, authorized the killing of children and babies, allow natural disasters and 2) burn people forever in the torture chamber we call hell.

What he failed to find in the Holy Bible is the fact that God owns it all, your life and mine and every other life form. As owner, God has the right to do whatever he will with his own. He knows best. Secondly, God will not take back one thing he has given mankind to steward: free will. Why do more than 30,000 humans die every day of starvation? Free will. Governments keep the food from the people to control them. If he forced people to love him, that love would be fake. He wants the real thing from us, so he will not remove free choice.

People do stupid things by making poor choices, like choosing to dwell below sea level. Then they blame God when the levee breaks.

Hell is quite another matter. This is one thing I agree with him on. Why would a loving and good God want to torture people for all time to come as punishment for 70 years of sinning? The answer is: he wouldn't. Surprised? This controversial and blasphemous doctrine requires a lot of thought and research and should be studied diligently with an open mind.

Consider this: Jesus paid the death penalty for the sins of all men past, present and future. Only the Creator and therefore Owner of mankind could do this because his life alone was worth more than the sum total of his creation. The penalty for all sin was laid upon Jesus. He voluntarily laid his life down, that we might have permanent life. He accounted the bringing of ‘many sons to glory’ worth it. God the Father required death as the penalty, not eternal life in the torments of hell fire.

So, we are left with two conclusions: Either Jesus paid the wrong penalty and therefore disqualified himself as our Savior, leaving us still waiting for someone to come and pay the penalty in our stead. Or torture in hell for all eternity is not the correct penalty. We can have Jesus as Savior and no such thing as eternal life in hell fire or we can have hell and no savior. It’s as simple as that.

107. How do you prove with real science the age of the Earth and the Universe?

A. In a word, no one can... it didn’t come with a date tag and no human was there to see it come into being. Doctorate-level Scientists at the Institute for Creation Research on an exhaustive five-year study of the disintegration of uranium into lead proved that the age of the earth, though it appears on the surface to be millions or maybe billions of years old, is actually around 6,000 years old as the Bible indicates. I will try to simplify how their experiments constitute real proof.

This team of specialists sliced multiple layers of several test samples of granite rocks to find traces of uranium and helium. They carefully measured and recorded their volume, radio-activity, rates of disintegration, etc. If the earth really was billions or millions of years old, no helium would remain, because as uranium disintegrates, it dissipates its radioactive radiation. As this occurs, it picks up an electron to form helium. After all the helium expires, what’s left is lead.

Since the thicknesses of the granite specimens, their levels of radioactivity and their permeation or ‘leakage’ rates are quantifiable and measurable, the length of time required for this disintegration can be determined with a high degree of certainty, unlike radio-carbon dating methods.

From this they can calculate the age of the rocks by when the radioactivity began.

After five years of testing hundreds of samples, their findings are conclusive. The earth is around 6,000 years old, affirming the age of the creation of the earth as recorded in the Bible.

Further, if the earth and mankind is really millions of years old and mankind evolved say a million years ago, what kind of population figures would we see today? At 0.01 % the population would double ever 7,000 years. This means there would have been about 143 doublings in population since the first man and woman. At this meager rate, by now the earth would contain about 100,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 people. As it is today the population rate is much higher, so when we do the math, we can see quite readily that man must not have been around for millions of years or the population would have long ago exceeded the Earth's ability to support them.

The 'Old Earth' concept is just another in the long series of myths promulgated by those who stubbornly refuse to acknowledge the existence of the Great Creator God, in spite of millions of tons of 'on-the-ground' evidence. If we can find on the ground evidence that the Bible mentions in detail, then the Bible can be accepted as fact and as the word of this Great Creator.

Here are a few examples of which there are many more: the split rock at Mount Horeb, the Pyramids which were probably built by the children of Israel during their 400 years of slavery in Egypt, the ashen remains of the 5 cities of the plain which God destroyed with fire and brimstone, Mount Sinai and all the accoutrements which are given in the book of Exodus, Golgotha where our Lord was crucified and the Garden tomb where Jesus' body was most likely placed. These are all still there and you could go to the Middle East and touch them with your own hands. Yet the evolutionist claims there is not a shred of evidence that proves God's existence. There is none so blind as he who will not see!

108. How did a sense of humor evolve?

A. Humor is uniquely human. Animals do not experience humor. They cannot make jokes. They do not have the ability to put together the trick elements, timing or unexpected outcomes that equal the surprise inside the joke, whether it is being told to them or by them. They just don't have what it takes. They don't laugh. Among the dwellers of Planet Earth, only humans can do this.

One might think that if we and the entire animal kingdom evolved from inert matter, chemicals and electricity or something like that, that all living things would have the ability to communicate through speech and have the gift of humor. But no, only humans have it and it comes in varying degrees, some have more others less of the ability to make or receive humor. Why? Could it be we humans have the gift of humor that was given to us by a Great God who has the sense of humor to give? Could evolution really explain this marvelous gift? No, it could not in my view. How could it explain the mystery of why it is not found in any animal?

Evolution has no power to explain this phenomenon. It is not explained by scientific inquiry. Humor has zero survival value, zero calories and zero nutritional value. Yet it triggers beneficial hormones and pheromones which tend toward health in human beings. It improves our ability to control our attitudes, moods and emotions. It makes us feel better. It even aids our ability to sleep. Laughter reportedly has the power to cure certain types of cancer. Humor has been given by the Creator as a unique gift.

Even God laughs and we are his offspring as is clearly stated in this passage in Acts 17:27 'That they should seek the Lord, if haply they might feel after him, and find him, though he be not far from every one of us: 28 For in him we live, and move, and have our being; as certain also of your own poets have said, For we are also his offspring. 29 Forasmuch then as we are the offspring of God, we ought not to think that the Godhead is like unto gold, or silver, or stone, graven by art and man's device. 30 And the times of this ignorance God winked at; but now commands all men everywhere to repent: 31 Because he has appointed a day, in the which he will judge the world in righteousness by that man whom he has ordained; whereof he has given assurance unto all men, in that he has raised him from the dead.'

Here's a few scriptures that refer to God laughing: Notice Psalms 2:4: 'He that sits in the heavens shall laugh: the Lord shall have them in derision'; Psalms 37:11-13: 'But the meek shall inherit the earth; and shall delight themselves in the abundance of peace. 12 The wicked plots against the just, and gnashes upon him with his teeth. 13 The Lord shall laugh at him: for he sees that his day is coming.' Psalms 59:8: 'But you, O LORD, shall laugh at them; You shall have all the heathen in derision.' and Proverbs 1:26: 'I also will laugh at your calamity; I will mock when your fear comes;' Yes, God laughs and he also mocks unbelievers.

Evolutionists should consider the fact that if God does exist, he would be smart enough to figure out that some people would refuse to believe in him. He knew they would come. Apparently, evolutionists do not read the Bible because if they did they would find places like Isaiah 41:21 'Produce your cause, says the LORD; bring forth your strong reasons, says the King of Jacob. 22 Let them bring them forth, and show us what shall happen: let them show the former things, what they be, that we may consider them, and know the latter end of them; or declare us things for to come. 23 Show the things that are to come hereafter, that we may know that you are gods: yea, do good or do evil, that we may be dismayed, and behold it together. 24 Behold, you are of nothing, and your work of naught: an abomination is he that chooses you.'

Evolutionists can laugh all they want at God, but he who laughs last laughs best. Will you be laughing in the resurrection when you face God? If evolution was true, all living creatures should be able to laugh, but what do we see? No animal really laughs. Evolution again has no explanation for this. Everyone loves to laugh. We all enjoy it and we seek it where ever we can find it. Evolutionists laugh at Christians and all that would live a Godly life. But their day is coming when they can no longer laugh. I hope you skeptics out there can learn to laugh at the right things like evolutionism itself. It really is silly when you think about it: all life suddenly burst on the scene in the Cambrian Explosion undirected by itself and it took millions of years to do it. Now that is just silly. It has no clothes and no legs to stand on. What do you call a cow with no legs? Ground beef! Pa-rum-bum...

I've told you what I think. I've told you what the Bible says. Now, the question remains: what will you think?

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: 'humor proves God' or 'what was humor before it evolved?'

109. Why is mankind so arrogant as to think he doesn't need God, can solve his own problems and survive without a God and Father to intervene?

A. To answer this, let's refer to the Bible. In the book of James, chapter one, starting in verse eleven: 11 For the sun is no sooner risen with a burning heat, but it withers the grass, and the flower thereof falls, and the grace of the fashion of it perishes: so also shall the rich man fade away in his ways. 12 Blessed is the man that endures temptation: for when he is tried, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord has promised to them that love him.

13 Let no man say when he is tempted, I am tempted of God: for God cannot be tempted with evil, neither tempts he any man: 14 But every man is tempted, when he is drawn away of his own lust, and enticed. 15 Then when lust has conceived, it brings forth sin: and sin, when it is finished, brings forth death.

It seems very arrogant for a man to thumb his nose at the God who holds his life and breath and every heartbeat in his hands. He's following where he gets duped to go, not following good sense and logical reason. He gets drawn away and enticed by other things entering in and choking off the good and he cannot bear good fruit but only bad.

Notice the words of Jesus in John 10:1: 'Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that enters not by the door into the sheepfold, but climbs up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber. 2 But he that enters in by the door is the shepherd of the sheep. 3 To him the porter opens; and the sheep hear his voice: and he calls his own sheep by name, and leads them out. 4 And when he puts forth his own sheep, he goes before them, and the sheep follow him: for they know his voice. 5 And a stranger will they not follow, but will flee from him: for they know not the voice of strangers. 6 This parable spoke Jesus unto them: but they understood not what things they were which he spoke unto them.'

7 Then said Jesus unto them again, Verily, verily, I say unto you, I am the door of the sheep. 8 All that ever came before me are thieves and robbers: but the sheep did not hear them. 9 I am the door: by me if any man enters in, he shall be saved, and shall go in and out, and find pasture. 10 The thief comes not, but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy: I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly.

11 I am the good shepherd: the good shepherd gives his life for the sheep. 12 But he that is a hireling, and not the shepherd, whose own the sheep are not, sees the wolf coming, and leaves the sheep, and flees: and the wolf catches them, and scatters the sheep. 13 The hireling flees, because he is a hireling, and cares not for the sheep. 14 I am the good shepherd, and know my sheep, and am known of mine. 15 As the Father knows me, even so know I the Father: and I lay down my life for the sheep.

16 And other sheep I have, which are not of this fold: them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice; and there shall be one fold, and one shepherd. 17 Therefore my Father loves me, because I lay down my life, that I might take it again. 18 No man takes it from me, but I lay it down of myself. I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it again. This commandment have I received of my Father.

19 There was a division therefore again among the Jews for these sayings. 20 And many of them said, 'He has a devil, and is mad; why listen to him?' 21 Others said, 'These are not the words of him that has a devil. Can a devil open the eyes of the blind?'

And again in the parable of the Sower found in Mark 4 we read: '2 And he taught them many things by parables, and said unto them in his doctrine, 3 Hearken; Behold, there went out a sower to sow: 4 And it came to pass, as he sowed, some fell by the way side, and the fowls of the air came and devoured it up. 5 And some fell on stony ground, where it had not much earth; and immediately it sprang up, because it had no depth of earth: 6 But when the sun was up, it was scorched; and because it had no root, it withered away. 7 And some fell among thorns, and the thorns grew up, and choked it, and it yielded no fruit. 8 And other fell on good ground, and did yield fruit that sprang up and increased; and brought forth, some thirty and some sixty and some a hundred.

9 And he said unto them, He that has ears to hear, let him hear. 10 And when he was alone, they that were about him with the twelve asked of him the parable. 11 And he said unto them, Unto you it is given to know the mystery of the kingdom of God: but unto them that are without, all these things are done in parables: 12 That seeing they may see, and not perceive; and hearing they may hear, and not understand; lest at any time they should be converted, and their sins should be forgiven them.

13 And he said unto them ‘Do you not understand this parable? And how then will you know all parables? 14 The sower sows the word. 15 And these are they by the way side, where the word is sown, but when they have heard, Satan comes immediately, and takes away the word that was sown in their hearts. 16 And these are they likewise which are sown on stony ground; who, when they have heard the word, immediately receive it with gladness; 17 And have no root in themselves, and so endure but for a time: afterward, when affliction or persecution arises for the word's sake, immediately they are offended. 18 And these are they which are sown among thorns; such as hear the word, 19 And the cares of this world, and the deceitfulness of riches, and the lusts of other things entering in, choke the word, and it becomes unfruitful. 20 And these are they which are sown on good ground; such as hear the word, and receive it, and bring forth fruit, some thirtyfold, some sixty, and some an hundred.’

Then in John 14: 6 ‘Jesus said unto him, ‘I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me.’

Those who reject Jesus will get what they want: no future. This life is short. Why take it for granted? Sometime along the timeline of your life, you will face death. You can't get another one. This is probably your only shot. Make it a good one. Don't waste your life. Let go of your anger against God. Surrender to his will. He loves us and wants only our good. He has our best interests at heart. He alone has the power to change you into another type of person. His Spirit will lead and guide you if you let him. All you have to do is ask. It's not that hard. In fact it's so easy a child can do it. Let him into your lie. You will never regret it, even if some Christian hurts you. Don't throw the baby out with the bath water.

The main reason people do not seek God or want him in their life is because deep inside they like their sin better than their own future. They know they probably won't die from it today, so they don't let themselves care. Death is outrunning us and will one day overtake us. Choose wisely. Choose life.

YouTube ® suggestion: Just type in the search bar: ‘evolutionists are arrogant’ or ‘only the fool says there is no God’

110. Can mankind thwart God's plan and purpose? Can mankind survive this life?

A. This is the plight of the evolutionist: He insists there is no God so he can avoid doing what would please him. He'd rather please himself. He won't let anyone tell him what to do. He's like a wild stallion. He ranges 'free' and is totally useless to anyone. In fact, he has made himself a nuisance to local ranchers. Wild stallions break down good fences and threaten the good mares that are already broken and who are now useful in many ways. They can be ridden for pleasure. They can pull a cart, wagon or plow.

They can be raced or used for travel in a variety of ways. They enjoy the shelter, the good and steady supply of food their Master provides. From him they get the love, attention, grooming and praise he gives them every day. The wild stallion must find his own food, he may starve to death alone and he receives no shelter, love or praise, but only gets cursed at by local ranchers. He's always neglected and in trouble. He has no future.

That is what is in store for the evolutionist, atheist or anti-theist. For him, there is no afterlife. His work on earth was more of a hindrance to personal growth and well being than a help. He chose poorly and he comes to his end all too soon and he fades into oblivion forever.

Is that what they call 'bright'? Only the fool has said in his heart: 'There is no God!' How foolish it is to waste one's life. If he were directly threatened at gun point: 'Your car or your life!' he would have given it on the spot, to save his life. But because he loved his rebellious and hostile-to-God attitude and lifestyle, he now will lose his life for all time. He chose poorly!

Evolutionists wax eloquent in a vain attempt to sound authoritative, while grossly lacking good judgment and common sense. They are experts in the vulgar art of disassembly of logical and verifiable argument, all the while claiming expertise in their field of science. 'Doctor' or not, they should be more careful. What they put out is tripe, not science. Their degrees are worth nothing if they don't even know the meaning and purpose for life itself.

Like President Reagan said, 'It's not that they don't know anything; it's that they know so much that isn't so!' Be honest with yourself. 'Search your feelings...' If after all this you still insist on rejecting the One who came and shed his life's blood that you might have life, ask yourself why. Why do this to yourself, face the Judgment and die permanently when you could live?

Admittedly, there are many things wrong at church. Agreed. Some of these are backward traditions, like the Heaven and Hell dogmas of by-gone eras that need to be addressed and fixed. They are as stupid as the doctrine of evolution being the 'Decent of Man'. But let's not throw the baby out with the bath water!

At least get to know whom you are rejecting! Really get to know Jesus and then if you want to reject him, you at least will know you gave him a fair chance. But be honest about it and let your mind be opened to knowing him fully without pre-judging. Let go of everything you've been taught, and listen to what Jesus said. Look for the truth and you will find a freedom and peace you never imagined possible.

111. Can evolution predict what's coming down the pike at me or provide for my future or tell me what will happen to me when I die? What is the purpose of life according to evolution?

A. No. Evolution has no clue about any of these things because if there is no God, there is no purpose in life, no future after death and since there is no afterlife to look forward to, nothing will happen to me after I die... I simply will rot away, oblivious to all that is going on in the world of the living.

My question is then, what value can I find in evolution? The answer is nothing. Evolutionary proponents claim this adherence to the theory as the explanation of the origins of all living things is liberation. To them it is liberation from the moral constraints that a moral God had held them under or would hold them under, if they would believe. They see God as this mean ogre looking over their shoulder with his disapproving gaze on everything they want and long to do.

I admire their independent spirit to a degree and to that degree I agree with them. Jesus said 'He that falls upon this Rock shall be broken; but upon whom this Rock shall fall, it shall grind him to powder. (See Matthew 21:44 and Luke 20:18)

Consider a wild horse. He is free to do whatever he wants, with whoever he wants, to whoever he wants and whenever he wants. But to the farmer or rancher who sees him, he is useless and nothing but a curse to have to deal with. The rancher may undertake the task of catching and taming the beast, though it will take a lot of work and could be dangerous to life and limb. If he did tame him, he may have a good breeding stallion or work horse. If he is allowed to persist untamed, he will only antagonize his mares, tear down his fences and cause untold grief. Something must be done. He may decide the best choice is just to deal with it with a 25 cent bullet.

My point is that unless or until the independent wild spirit is broken off this magnificent steed, it is more trouble than it is worth. So it is when there is no purpose in life. What's the point of living? We were built to need God. We were designed to need to be loved and cared for. We were made to require a purpose and a reason for living. Evolution cannot give that to anyone.

Instead of liberating a person, it actually restricts him. It keeps him away from his purpose and from fulfilling it. It blocks security and peace of mind from coming into a person. It removes meaning and significance from life. If we just 'evolved into being' there really is no significance or meaning in anything we try to do. Life is meaningless and a trivial vain pursuit, chasing after the wind and catching nothing but trouble, pain and despair. Surely, there is nothing more contrary to the human spirit than that. Is that what you want?

Not me! But to answer the second question, 'What is the purpose of life according to evolution?' there isn't any. It takes away life rather than improving it. No thanks. God gives me life, liberty and the freedom to pursue happiness, knowing I have a magnificent future ahead in a real on-the-ground Kingdom, helping people find meaning and purpose and fulfillment in life and thus giving them everything they need. That is God's plan for me and, whether you acknowledge him or not, for you to. Why not make yourself useful?

EPILOGUE

I have more reasons I believe in God, Jesus and the Holy Spirit. I will keep writing them as long as God gives me life. Just look around at the things that are made. Every life form has a story peculiar to itself. Study anatomy. It's fascinating the intricacy and interplay of systems, to say the least. Did each system evolve separately and then somehow self-assemble into the unit we know as the human body? Of course not. They all had to come online in the first human body an instant or it would have died long before it could 'come together'. Let's use the right logic. We didn't get here 'on the backs of crystals'.

Let's be honest about this. If you are a skeptic or an atheist, the reason may be that you were once a Christian but gave it up because of some stupid shenanigan pulled by the church or an individual. We're all only fallible humans. We all blow it from time to time and we all make mistakes. I've made plenty of my own, having broken each of the Ten Commandments in one form or another. I've hurt people, I've lied... you name it. But I'm in the process of repenting of my sins along the way. The journey is not over.

But, if you are like me, you too, are fed up with them, that is, fed up with religion in general. But let's not throw the baby out with the bath water. Religion is man's attempt to absolve himself from his guilt feelings by creating a god in his own image; that way he can manipulate and manage this god to get what he thinks he wants. Real Christianity is very different because it is God reaching into our world to help us and save us from ourselves and our guilt feelings. Jesus is the Administrator of the love of God.

Jesus is real, he's alive and he's returning. Do you really want to meet him on adverse terms? He's the one who holds your life in his hands. He's your judge not me. But I do care about you, though we've not met yet. Someday we may meet. I look forward to that. If you were not a thinking caring human being, you would not be reading this. You have worth. You have value. You were built for a magnificent and permanent life doing great things.

In my view, we can forget about the traditional 'view' of heaven where we retire in the clouds wearing our white robes & haloes and forever we'd be wishing we would have brought a magazine. (Thanks Gary Larson.) Moreover, we can forget about the traditional ‘view’ of an ever-burning hell where people go to get consciously tortured for all eternity.

Instead, Jesus warned us whom we shall fear and why we should fear him in Luke 12:5: ‘But I will forewarn you whom you shall fear: Fear him which after he has killed has power to cast into the grave. Yes, I say unto you, fear him.’ (The word ‘grave’ is from the Gk. Geenna or Ghenna) But this is NOT the traditional ‘Repent or go to Hell’ speak.

This is also a reference to the ‘second death’ mentioned four times in the book of Revelation (Revelation 2:11, 20:6, 20:14 & 21:8). So, in other words, God resurrects them after he has killed or allowed them to die the first time. This is a resurrection to judgment, where Jesus condemns them to the death penalty and kills them permanently with no consciousness afterwards (has power to cast them into the grave).

Take a look at Psalm 146:3-10 with me: ‘3 Put not your trust in princes, nor in the son of man, in whom there is no help. 4 His breath goes forth, he returns to his earth; in that very day his thoughts perish.

5 Happy is he that has the God of Jacob for his help, whose hope is in the LORD his God: 6 Which made heaven, and earth, the sea, and all that therein is: which keeps truth for ever: 7 Which executes judgment for the oppressed: which gives food to the hungry. The LORD looses the prisoners: 8 The LORD opens the eyes of the blind: the LORD raises them that are bowed down: the LORD loves the righteous: 9 The LORD preserves the strangers; he relieves the fatherless and widow: but the way of the wicked he turns upside down. 10 The LORD shall reign forever, even your God, O Zion, unto all generations...’

In my view, we can forget the idea of an ‘immortal soul’ that lives consciously on after we die. Jesus, Paul the Apostle, nor any other biblical writer mentions it. We humans made it up to accommodate the scary hell doctrine as a method of control and money extortion. Let’s don’t go beyond what the scriptures actually say. Many atheists and former Christians are clearer about this than are churchgoers, seems to me.

But getting back to this ‘second death’ judgment, this is when and where God’s final and permanent judgment falls on the incorrigible because they insist on dying rather than living under God. So God grants them their wish. Even their memory will be forgotten and they will be no more. (See Psalm 109:15, Proverbs 10:7, Ecclesiastes 9:5, Isaiah 26:14) Also notice Obadiah verse 15-16: 15 'For the day of the LORD is near upon all the heathen: as you have done, it shall be done unto you: your reward shall return upon your own head. 16 For as you have drunk upon my holy mountain, so shall all the heathen drink continually, yes, they shall drink, and they shall swallow down, and they shall be as though they had not been.'

That doesn't even remotely sound like they are burning in conscious torment to me. In Jeremiah 51:36-39 and 57-58 we read: 36 'Therefore thus says the LORD; 'Behold, I will plead your cause, and take vengeance for you; and I will dry up her sea, and make her springs dry. 37 And Babylon shall become heaps, a dwelling place for dragons, an astonishment, and an hissing, without an inhabitant. 38 They shall roar together like lions: they shall yell as lions' whelps. 39 In their heat I will make their feasts, and I will make them drunken, that they may rejoice, and sleep a perpetual sleep, and not wake, says the LORD.'

VERSE 57 'And I will make drunk her princes, and her wise men, her captains, and her rulers, and her mighty men: and they shall sleep a perpetual sleep, and not wake, says the King, whose name is the LORD of hosts. 58 Thus says the LORD of hosts; The broad walls of Babylon shall be utterly broken, and her high gates shall be burned with fire; and the people shall labor in vain, and the folk in the fire, and they shall be weary.'

Most Christians have never seen these verses, ignored them or did not recognize them as meaningful. But the impact of those words will likely adversely affect you and all that you know and love. I will try to be brief but explain what these words might mean to you.

To me, we should never turn a blind eye to anything in scripture. The Holy Bible IS our Book of Life, the only real authority to live by. Theologians should know the scriptures, trust them over people and use the scriptures rightly, believing what they say, not what men say about them.

This is the truth we can trust, rather than the doctrines of men. It reminds me of the words of Jesus himself when he told the scribes and Pharisees in Matthew 15:6b-9: 'Thus have you made the commandment of God of none effect by your tradition. 7 You hypocrites, well did Isaiah prophesy of you, saying, 8 ‘This people draws near unto me with their mouth, and honors me with their lips; but their heart is far from me. 9 But in vain they do worship me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men.’

You may well ask: ‘Do you mean to say God can kill me and never raise me back from the dead?’ My answer, contrary to popular belief is: yes, that’s the way it adds up, if you ask me. It’s permanent, perpetual unconsciousness according to Jeremiah 51:39 & 57. Trust the Bible. It is the word of God. Don’t believe me. Refuse to put your trust in any mans’ word. Believe only what you see in the Bible. Do your own research. Get to the bottom of things. Religion doesn’t cut it. True Christianity is the only reality, to me.

I realize this is not traditional, but then, neither was Jesus. What is written is what we should go by; not traditions of men. Beware of the self-centered money motive. But here’s the thing: We are all living in perilous times, everybody know that. Evolutionism denies reality in that it blocks itself from knowing what is coming on the Earth we all live on. We can’t get away. There is no ‘place of safety’ we can perpetuate our lives in. You will never find an evolutionist talk about the future or prophecy. So they block themselves away from the truth about what is coming right at us. I say this not to scare you but to prepare you.

Let me see if I can be as brief as possible and still let you in on a gigantic biblical truth that no one seems willing to speak of. Iraq will become the world’s number one oil producer. (Revelation 18:3, 9; Daniel 11:2, 5) All OPEC countries will make a ‘King of the South’ the richest man on earth and have his home base in Iraq, probably in the town of Babylon, a city of about 1.7 million at the time of this writing.

The biggest problem in the world today, lies virtually unknown. Everyone is so busy living life and trying to make ends meet, they ignore the clear teaching in their own Bibles. This mistake could cost you or me our lives.

In short, it’s about oil and what we as the human race are hell bent to do with it. We are going to fight over it, resulting in a nuclear exchange which will explode the oil fields in Iraq and its neighborhood into the world’s greatest tragic fire. It cannot be put out, though all the armies of the world will try. The heat will kill millions. The smoke will darken the skies around the entire globe.

Weather will cease. No rain, no drinking water, no crops, no food. People will scavenge and kill for food. Are you prepared? Most people are so oblivious they are living very precariously.

Survival is the name of the game, but we cannot save ourselves. No garden, no stockpile of food and water, no survival tactics will save you. We all need more than this. We need a real Savior. Why not give your allegiance to the only One who can do something about it?

That would be none other than Jesus. He is the Maker of the planet and all that is in it or on it. He'll know how to fix what we mess up, regardless of how badly we do it. And we most certainly will wreck the entire planet. He owns it all and he won't let us destroy all life on it, though we will most certainly bring it to the brink of extinction, if you ask me. There is no time to waste. It's time to get serious about life. You have value and meaning. There is a great purpose for your life.

Let me be a bit candid. It took me nearly 50 years to finally figure out the best lesson of life I've ever learned. That is that I do have a purpose. It's that I have a calling on my life to work for God. He's the ideal Employer, for he cares more for me than I do. This calling is the ultimate adventure and totally 'first cutting' quality. I want to share the thrill I feel more deeply each and every day.

With him I feel at home and totally safe and secure. With him I know I can trust what he says. I may not know everything there is to know about God, but I know enough to trust him. I have seen millions of tons of evidence God that he real and his word is true. I know what peace of mind is and I have it because of him. I've learned how to be happy and even contented to a degree in spite of very difficult and adverse circumstances.

I had no idea that I could influence and help so many people, due to his providence. There is no better feeling than working for God. Time flies by. It has nothing to do with money. And what's more is the realization that working for God will have no end.

Even if I lose my life, there will be a resurrection and the next thing I know I will meet Jesus in person and become part of his family and kingdom, and with his direction, start doing great things for people for all time to come.

That's worth seeking to me. That gives my life meaning and purpose and direction, like nothing else can.

So if evolution is wrong and the Bible is right, then life has meaning. God has a great plan for our lives. I know you've probably heard that before, yet no one could explain what it means. What does God want out of life? Jesus answers that it is 'your Father's good pleasure to give you the Kingdom.' (See Luke 12:32)

That is when Jesus steps back into history as our King, reigning from Jerusalem with his saints. He wants us to share real, true life... permanent life with him. He's the only One who has it to give. All world religions will disappear off the earth at that time. (See Jeremiah 10:11)

I could point to many scriptures that seem to indicate mankind will blow it big time. You will probably not hear this in church or on TV. According to my research, the Bible seems to indicate that governments will realign themselves in Europe and Northern Africa, the Middle East and Asia. As you no doubt know, a revolution is happening and will continue for some time in the Middle East.

Regimes are toppling like dominoes. Europe is ailing and I believe will finally coalesce into a more central collective governmental system, under a single leader. They are undergoing growing pains. The Euro may not be the final monetary currency in the end.

I don't think it's too early to predict that a European leader will emerge to head up the whole thing. The same holds true for the Islamic countries on the southern and eastern shores of the Mediterranean Sea. A 'King of the North and a King of the South' will take center stage and try to form an alliance between the emergent Europe and the emergent United Arab Republics or whatever they will call themselves in the end.

Even their religions and religious leaders will try to unite into one universal religion, in my view. Perhaps they will call it 'Catholislam' or 'Chrislam'. Maybe the 'Pope' and the 'Grand Mufti' will become blood brothers; who knows? You have to admit it would be a very odd mix, kind of like oil and water or iron and clay.

The King of the South will likely be headquartered in Babylon (an Iraqi city of about 1.7 million people according to the 2009 census estimate posted on the Internet). This king will probably become far richer than any other who has ever lived, as he will preside over the world's greatest reserve of crude oil. All nations will be buying oil & oil products from him. This King of the South will 'push at' the King of the North and it will lead to the world's most tragic war. But it's not over 'til it's over...

It is my belief, based on Isaiah 51:16, 40:22, 65: 17, 66:22, Matthew 13:52, 2 Peter 3:13, Revelation 3:12 and 21:1-22:21 that there is a better day coming. Mankind will not completely go extinct. Jesus will intervene and save mankind from himself. Then he will set about the business of cleaning up the tragic mess we have made of his planet.

He will set up a world ruling government that shall never be destroyed. (Daniel 2:44 and Revelation 20:4) His followers (saints) will be right there with him ruling and serving the people. The benefits of Jesus' rule will be lasting peace and joy the world has never experienced. The remarkable peace and agrarian lifestyle of those days will pale into insignificance the dark days that will surely come, according to my take on these scriptures.

Notice Isaiah 35: 4-10: 'Say to them that are of a fearful heart, 'Be strong, fear not: behold, your God will come with vengeance, even God with recompense; he will come and save you.' 5 Then the eyes of the blind shall be opened, and the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped. 6 Then shall the lame man leap as a hart, and the tongue of the dumb sing: for in the wilderness shall waters break out, and streams in the desert. 7 And the parched ground shall become a pool, and the thirsty land springs of water: in the habitation of dragons, where each lay, shall be grass with reeds and rushes.

8 And a highway shall be there, and a way and it shall be called 'The Way of Holiness'; the unclean shall not pass over it; but it shall be for those: the wayfaring men, though fools, shall not err therein. 9 No lion shall be there, nor any ravenous beast shall go up there on, it shall not be found there; but the redeemed shall walk there: 10 And the ransomed of the LORD shall return, and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads: they shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away.'

Realistically, who would not want that? This is the world to come after the return of Jesus Christ. Obviously it will be quite different from the world we live in today. To put it in the words of Jesus, ‘...You shall see greater things than these.’ Look for them in the pages of your own Bible. Don’t take my word for it, or any man’s for that matter. The Bible is my only authority and I hope it can be yours as well.

Somewhere on the timeline of your life, you will meet Jesus and you will have no more doubt about him existing. The question is: ‘Will you be ready?’ I know I don’t know you, but I do care about you and what will happen in your time. The Bible has a lot to say about your future.

Darwin says nothing about it. Evolution offers no future whatsoever. When you die, that’s it; you die and it’s over. There is no resurrection, no afterlife and no future. With evolution, your life is of little value and you live a purposeless, useless and meaningless existence. Is that all you want out of life? Not me. There has to be more.

A new earth and a new heaven where righteousness dwells, is on its way. If righteousness is to dwell in the heavens, there will have to be people there for it to dwell in. The universe was meant to be inhabited. (See Isaiah 45:18) With God, you have a reason for living. What might that be?

Let’s face facts. The life we all live is only temporary and it is short. We all have a disease that is 100% fatal. This is only an introduction to life. Real life is permanent. That’s why we are here: to learn how to live like our Father God. We are to acquire the attributes of the Great God so that we are ready for permanent life. How do we do this? Read, study and learn all you can from your Bible. Learn what God has to say about you. God had it all written down for us in his Bible.

Don’t believe me. Believe what you read in your Bible. God’s gold nuggets are carefully placed in there for you to find. That’s what makes the Bible fun to search out and find them. Go dig them up and you will become rich in understanding. Your future is waiting. Others need what you can give them, but be careful to give them the truth.
