

To whom it may concern:

We are writing to introduce to you P.A.T.C.H Career Institute. PATCH, (People Advocating to Change Humanity was established in May of 2000 as 501 © (3) nonprofit organization.

Since it's conception, P.A.T.C.H has established a school, formerly called P.A.T.C.H Training School. It's new name is now P.C.I (PATCH Career Institute).

P.A.T.C.H Career Institute is now in the process of becoming an accredited college, which would allow the school to offer degree programs along with its current certificate programs. This College/ University will focus on the development of the Tri County as a community college which will make available to all surrounding communities and individuals teaching in multiple healthcare programs and skill based trade careers.

This college would be located at 1818 Norwood Street of North Charleston. The building will meet the needs and standards of a professional accredited college. The institution will encompass a main building for administrators, student recreation area, a number of classrooms, a library and parking facilities. In addition to the main building, a multiple level structure will be constructed across the street, which would include additional classrooms, offices, and an auditorium for college functions, and community functions.

The construction of this school would help boost the surrounding area commercially, allow for the creation of jobs, and educate members of the community with a degree that could be used in the healthcare industry as well as other vocational training. The creation of this college would be a colossal step towards the continued improvement and development of the Charleston area.

Why be interested in making this college a reality?

The college would be a dynamic tool for success for the community-ie. Taxes, earning potential of individuals, enhancement of professionals in the community. This college would directly fit into the plan of the Tri-County area for the continued economic growth of Charleston over the next five years and beyond. It would also help attract more people to the city for other commercial and residential opportunities.

The location of the proposed institution is ideal for this up and coming neighborhood across from the harbor and above the City of Charleston. The community is a perfect location to develop commercially. The development of the area would certainly attract further commercial enterprises interested in investing in the area.

THE MODEL

The successful establishment and creation of a college in the located in the Spruill Avenue area could be used as a model for future such institutions nationwide. The development of this school would prove that there is hope for these types of neighborhoods and townships across the United States. These areas need a positive direction and cultivation, in order to transform the surrounding locale into a vibrant and successful community, which was once a region plagued by poverty, crime, and desolation due to the inability of people willing to try and change the district into what will be seen in the future surrounding the proposed college. No longer will local, state, and federal government ignore communities that require the immediate attention of funds in order to turn things around; because this model will illustrate how change is possible!

The proposal and construction of a healthcare and vocational college in the Charleston community will be a vital component in the transformation of the area. The school would create revenue, jobs, and education to individuals entering the work place. This process would boost the economy with their increased income and earning potential. The school would also lure in other commercial enterprises willing to invest in this up and coming location.

Finally, the proposed institution, once created, would serve as a model nationwide for the development of other such institutions that would assist in the transformation of their communities and the people whom reside in those communities. Ultimately, a “win win” situation where all involved would benefit to the utmost.

P.A.T.C.H Career Institute looks forward in your involvement and assistance in the development of this institution. This would be a great opportunity to get involved with local community projects that are dedicated to enhancing the Tri- County area. Together we can expedite the process of further developing new opportunities in the healthcare field. This will also allow your practice to be involved with the training as well as have the opportunity of choosing “first hand” employees who have completed the training courses. P.A.T.C.H Career Institute has multiple properties located near the existing school that is over 10,000 sq ft. (see attachments). These properties would allow this school to further develop and construct more buildings for training.

Again, we hope that you would consider partnering with P.A.T.C. H Career Institute to continue this change that is greatly needed across the nation!

Thank You
P.A.T.C.H Career Insitute
