It tells the story of the extraordinary Thomas Witlam Atkinson, painter, architect, writer and traveller. The nostalgic works of Kenneth Leslie Graham will contrast with the stark underground scenes of miner and artist, Gilbert Daykin. Mick Wilson - Just For Kicks

Exhibition: Mick Wilson-Just For Kicks

Saturday 7 June-Saturday 30 August

The Cudworth Pointillist celebrates Barnsley's favourite sport in his own unique style "I love sport at any level but I have always had a fascination for the 'village game' where the window cleaner is in goal, the local butcher is opening the batting for the village cricket team or a burly foundry labourer is prop forward in the rugby team.

Any resemblance to persons living is definitely on purpose because the football in my paintings is played between any hamlet wanderers versus every village united and as you look at these paintings, you are the referee and the final decision is yours!"

What is Left is a participatory portraiture project and collaboration between Ellie Harrison, Roshana Rubin Mayhew and 50 members of the public. Roshana and Ellie have been travelling around the country, photographing 50 people in their own homes with an object they have inherited from someone who has died.

Forming an exhibition of hand-printed photographs coupled with bespoke viewing chairs, recorded interviews and transcribed booklets, this intimately powerful exhibition invites you to take part in the conversation about people lost, objects gained and the continuing relationship between them.

Throughout 2014, the exhibition is being installed and toured through empty houses across the UK: domestic spaces that carry a sense of absence. Each exhibition is free to attend. Come and have a cup of tea and explore the house now filled with stories of What is Left?

The Road to War

Monday 22 September – Sunday 11 January 2015

Marking the centenary of the First World War, the first in a series of three exhibitions at Experience Barnsley tells the story of the First World War through the eyes of local people. The exhibition explores the first year of conflict, looking at local recruitment and the fever of call-up for Barnsley's soldiers. Most people thought it would be over by Christmas.

In following exhibitions in 2016 and 2018 we will follow their journey, through call up to armistice and discover how the war affected their lives and the lives of their families at home.

Free Admission

Father Christmas

With all the work that's still to do, Father Christmas has asked again if Worsbrough Mill can be used for his workshop. Come along and make sure he's ready for the big day! An hour long adventure with fun and laughter for all the family with hands on activities for the children and a special audience with the big man himself.

Studio Style

*Saturday 1 November –
Sunday 29 March 2015*

Our exhibition over the winter at Cannon Hall Museum presents an opportunity to see the studio pottery collection on public display for the very first time. The collection has recently been examined and researched by a ceramics specialist, and features some renowned artists and diverse pieces.
